More Pounds, More Smiles.
Gold and Gloom.
Cool in Washington.
Hung Up, Forever.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.

"Poor England," sliding down from a gold basis, automatically inflates her currency. A pound worth less, means more pounds, and more pounds, until inflation goes too far, mean more cheerfulness. London's stock market yesterday was cheerful, British securities rising.

NOT SO HERE, where we sit in our $5,000,000,000 pile of yellow gold, clinging to our darling gold standard.

Wall Street, with "short selling" restored, and bears active, saw stocks go sliding down.

Who can explain finance? Merlin could not, if he came back, nor the witch of Endor, much less any banker.

Britain's pound dropped to $3.90, from a normal gold value of $4.80-odd, and London's markets were cheerful.

NO AMATEUR should "put his finger between the bark and the tree," as the French have it. No amateur in finance should tell Wall Street what to do.

But if the stock exchange really wants to discourage short selling, which means conspiracies, and attacks on values, why not make short sellers pay $25, or $50, on every share of stock borrowed for short sales. Or would that be Bolshevism?

Today this beautiful city, Washington, after a broiling summer, enjoys a cool breeze, and cheerfulness.

Fruit stands sell deliciously ripe peaches and pears, very large, five for 5 cents. Taxicabs, in some kind of local rate war, take you anywhere in Washington for 25 cents. And everybody is amazingly polite. Nearly everybody is on a payroll, and Uncle Sam keeps his help, although he does not pay as well as he should.

IN THE HOT weather, President Hoover eats his luncheon on the rear balcony of the White House, overlooking the Potomac, and facing the tall white Washington monument, constant reminder that this is a stable country, in spite of Wall Street's wild war dance.

EVEN MORE STABLE than the Washington monument, and as truly American are the people, young and old, waiting in the executive offices, where reporters gather, to shake the President's hand.

There are placid women from the Middle West, wholesome young girls, that will soon be back in high school, old men, with beards, that want to tell the President they knew Gen. Grant.

THE COUNTRY and its ambitions are real to them. The White House is the center of earthly glory. The President is the greatest man in the world, with 99 per cent to spare.

To shake his hand, see him smile benevolently, much delighted to meet you, is for Americans, genuine and unsophisticated, as exciting and eternally memorable, as for an Arab to look upon the Kaaba stone at Mecca, or for a Buddhist to see Gautama's tooth, solemnly carried on the back of an elephant, in its golden howdah.

SOME AMERICANS, gone, but still here, interest you, as you pass their portraits within the White House, that was once their house. Woodrow Wilson, looking very young, handsome, hangs in a golden frame in the main hall.

When you have known him at work, dictating to the world, financing half of it with American money, ordering obedient millions of men and billions of dollars, it seems strange to see him there, hung up, forever, on the right of the door not to move, unless another president shall order it, the quiet colored servants, that once jumped and shivered at his approach, passing him, without a look.

We are such stuff as dreams are made of, indeed, and when our little life is rounded with a gilt frame, to which no one pays attention, it is pitiful.

GEN. GRANT, framed inside of Woodrow Wilson's door, has withstood time better, and he is inside the room, not out in the hall. He is a rugged person, with big shirt front, gold chain, stubbly beard, who drank hard when he had no important job and fought hard, when there was fighting.

Do they come back at midnight, and talk it over, and perhaps let Woodrow Wilson come through the door, and tell what he did to make the world safe?

WASHINGTON, LIKE every other community, discusses wage reductions by great corporations.

W. R. Hearst's Washington newspaper, the Herald, printed this article, "Wage Cuts Aggravate Depression," which includes the plain statement:

"The immediate cause for this cut in wages is the difficulty that corporations have in paying dividends on their stock, but the actual and elemental cause is the issuance by these corporations of more stock than they are capable of paying dividends on.

"If corporations issue stock to the limit of their capacity to pay dividends in good times, they will not be able to

MRS. GLADYS CANCELMI, 27 . . . . K. O.'D BY BLACKSTONE!

LAWBOOK BLOW WINS DIVORCE

Gladys Cancelmi, 27, pretty milliner of Ross street, Carnegie, left her husband 20 times, then decided it was time to quit for good. She was granted a divorce from Louis J. Cancelmi, a Washington County lawyer, by Judge W. Heber Dithrich in Common Pleas Court yesterday.

She worked to put her husband through college, she said, but he didn't seem to be grateful. Their married life was everything but happy.

When he tossed a heavy Blackstone tome at her—and she came to at the bottom of the stairs—she decided she had had enough, she testified at the hearing and left him March 1, 1929.

Spalding Leaves Estate of $900,000

Treasures Hidden By Alfonso Found

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(Universal.)—Two hundred and fifty-five packages, containing pictures, tapestries and jewels, which were hidden by ex-King Alfonso, of Spain, before he fled into exile, have been recovered by Republican authorities in a village near Madrid and returned to Orient Palace, advices to the News-Chronicle said today.

Kingsford-Smith on 1,400-Mile India Hop

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, attempting to establish a new flying record between Australia and England, hopped off at dawn today from Cheribon, Java, for a 1,400-mile flight to Victoria Point in Southern Burma, according to a Central News Dispatch from Singapore.

DREW GOES TO HIGHER COURT

From his sick room in Mercy Hospital, Judge James B. Drew sent his resignation to Gov. Pinchot as judge of the Superior Court, it developed today. His commission as justice of the Supreme Court was mailed at Harrisburg today and is expected to arrive tomorrow.

Judge Drew went to the hospital several days ago suffering from a severe cold, but was reported as much improved today. He is expected to be sworn in and take his seat Monday when the Supreme Court sits in Pittsburgh.

Judge Drew was appointed to the Supreme Court in the closing week of the last Legislature, but continued sitting in Superior Court. He is believed to have been nominated at the recent primaries to the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Sylvester B Sadler, of Carlisle.

Mrs. 'Pat' Campbell Due in N. Y. Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—For the first time in a number of years, Mrs. Patrick Campbell will pay a visit to the United States. She was expected to reach New York today on the S. S. Aquitania. The internationally famous actress will appear in a new Gilbert Miller production.

Dr. J. B. Deaver, Dean U. S. Surgeons, Dies

PROBE FUNDS BLOCKED BY BABCOCK

200 Warrants Ordered as Roundup of Phantoms and Repeaters Is Launched

The first arrest in Allegheny County's after-election war against ballot frauds and vote thieveries came shortly before noon today when Tony Sianno, 1554 Center avenue, was held under $1,000 bail on a warrant from Alderman A. J. Henning's office, 2022 Brownsville road, Carrick.

In the information, Mrs. H. E. Gray accused Sianno—arrested on Election Day when, it was said, he was found to have a number of altered tax receipts in his clothing—with violating election laws.

CONSTABLE BRINGS BOND

Other developments of the day were:

1—County Commissioner E. V. Babcock refused to attend an emergency commissioners' meeting sought by Commissioner Charles C. McGovern to discuss furnishing funds for the grand jury and Registration Commissions investigations into the election scandals.

2—Commissioner McGovern filed pre-emption papers in the Prothonotary's office for use of the Square Deal party name in the November election.

3—Warrants were issued—or were to be issued during the day—for approximately 200 persons as suspected vote cheats.

4—Seven Negroes, summoned before the Registration Commission, testified they had not obtained tax receipts and had not registered. The commission claimed tax receipts had been obtained for them on a wholesale order and that they had been registered and their names used by white "phantom voters."

5—Recount board watchers declared evidence had been discovered by that body that many ballots in Four District of Wilmerding had been piled in a group and marked by one person.

McGovern and Babcock met in the County Treasurer's office this morning to discuss county money tied up through closing of the Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A.

REQUESTS MEETING

At the end of this conference, McGovern said, he asked Babcock to attend a special Commissioners' meeting today to discuss requests from District Attorney Andrew T. Park and from Ray C. Deever, representing the Registration Commission.

McGovern said:

"I tried to get the big lumberjack to hold a meeting but he went out the back door of the courthouse."

The Registration Commission, through Deever, its recorder, wrote to the commissioners that it needed $6,120, if it is to continue its work after October 1.

District Attorney Park wrote that "public confidence must be established in our primary election system" and asked for $10,000 to cover the cost of additional lawyers and clerical help in the grand jury investigation. He said he intended to "go to the bottom" of all charges of election irregularities.

200 WARRANTS ORDERED

About 20 of the 200 warrants were to be issued this morning at the instance of District Attorney Andrew T. Park, and as the result of

LEGION VOTE MAKES BEER '32 ISSUE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Although President Hoover remains aloof and silent amid the clamor and agitation, it became very apparent today that Washington officialdom—which means the cabinet, Congress and the politicians—is beginning to take seriously the revolt against prohibition.

The action of the American Legion in denouncing the Eighteenth Amendment and demanding its resubmission to the states was conceded by drys and foes alike today to be the greatest single blow struck against prohibition since its enactment, and to have forced an issue on beer in the 1932 campaign.

The Legion has now joined with the American Federation of Labor, the American Bar Association and the American Medical Association in opposition to prohibition.

DRYS WORRIED

This quartet of national associations embraces a membership of millions. The Federation of Labor boasts some 4,000,000 members; the Legion approximately 1,100,000, and the Bar and Medical associations run high into the thousands. All members are of voting age. But more important than the mere numbers is considered the influence which these associations have in the shaping of legislation.

The Legion has on numerous occasions demonstrated its ability to enact legislation even over the veto of the President; the Federation exerts a powerful influence on Congress, and as for the Bar and Medical associations, it is seldom that they are denied a respectful hearing in the halls of Congress.

The drys are uneasy and apprehensive; the anti-prohibitionists correspondingly gleeful and confident.

Jewel Theft Links Kidnaping Suspect

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—The mystery of the $200,000 jewel robbery in the home of Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken, society matron, may be solved as a result of the capture of the kidnapers of Charles M. Rosenthal, who had been held for $50,000 ransom.

Mrs. Menken today identified Nick Green, in Tombs prison charged with participating in the abduction, as leader of the bandits who, after binding and gagging her, forced her to hand over the gems.

Marian Bennett, Star Of Links, Betrothed

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(Universal.)—From New Britain, Conn., come tidings of the betrothal of Marian Bennett, national golf star, and Eugene Vanderpool Homans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard Homans, of this city and Englewood, N. J.

Homans was runner-up to Bobby Jones in the national amateur tournament in 1930. He is engaged in the banking business here.

Texas Guinan Challenges Aimee to Debate

MARLBORO, Mass., Sept. 25.—(INS.)—Texas Guinan today had challenged Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton to debate in Boston Garden.

Interrupting her "Too Hot for Paris" revue at a local ballroom last night, the New York night club "queen" offered to debate with the Los Angeles woman evangelist the question:

"Resolved, That people are entitled to a bit of fun and happiness in these troublous times."

Texas, who was gowned in a backless scarlet velvet creation, told her audience of 2,500 persons that if the debate went on when the evangelist comes to Boston next month, she would want the Guinan half of the proceeds to go to the jobless of the city of Waltham. Waltham's Mayor banned the Guinan revue from that city earlier in the week.

2 BANKS CLOSE HERE TODAY

The McGillick Savings and Trust Company, 5927 Penn avenue, was closed this afternoon by J. D. Swigart, chief examiner of the Pennsylvania Department of Banking.

The bank was closed, Swigart said, to protect depositors. He said there have been many heavy withdrawals during the past few days, the number increasing today.

In April the bank made a report listing its resources at $690,000. It had deposits totaling more than $300,000.

F. E. McGillick is president.

As a protection for depositors, the Pittsburgh-American Bank and Trust Company, Sixth avenue and Grant street, failed to open its doors for business this morning. The affairs of the bank are in the hands of J. D. Swigart, chief examiner of the State Banking Department, who took charge at the request of bank officials.

Chief officers of the institution are Emanuel Dym, president; Ivan Bielek, chairman of the board, and Frank J. Gurcak, cashier.

On the basis of the present outlook, the officials said, they believe all depositors will be paid in full.

False Bank Rumors Penalty, Fine, Prison

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25.—Circulation of false rumors regarding the soundness of banks and trust companies, is a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine of $5,000 and a prison sentence of five years at hard labor, Dr. William Gordon, secretary of banking, said today. The law was passed in April, 1900, and amended in May, 1931.

'FACE MUSIC,' REED URGES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, after readvocating to President Hoover today his proposal for a sales tax, said he believed the United States should follow Great Britain's example and "face the music."

Reed said he believed that unless additional moneys were raised by taxation, the Treasury's deficit would reach beyond $1,500,000,000.

The Republican Senator called upon the President principally to congratulate him upon his address to the American Legion, which, Reed said, "apparently has killed the bonus move."

Reed said he was opposed to such methods of raising funds as decreasing the salaries of Congressmen and federal workers.

Mercury Hits 51, Slow Rise Forecast

The mercury dropped to 51 at the Weather Bureau early today and to the upper 40s in many outlying districts. The temperature was predicted to rise slowly today, with likelihood of showers tonight or tomorrow.

Scout Wins Eagle Badge, Gets Award After Death

While 300 Boy Scouts stood by, an Eagle Scout badge, highest emblem of the organization, was pinned on the breast of Bruce Danton, 17, as he lay dead in a casket in his home, 509 Hulton road, Oakmont, last night, by his mother, Mrs. John Danton.

The youth had been awarded the Eagle badge at the Scout camp at Ligonier last summer but it had never been presented to him. He died Wednesday of pneumonia.

Scouts assembled at the Danton home last night for the tribute to their fellow-Scout whose father is Scout Executive of the East Boroughs Council.

Funeral services which will be attended by Scouts of the district will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Oakmont M. E. Church. Young Danton was a student of the Oakmont High School.

'PIRATE RAID' HEROISM BARED

Mrs. Collings Nervous, Pale In Telling Inquest Weird Story of Husband's Murder

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Amid a dramatic hush in the crowded courtroom, Mrs. Lillian Collings today related publicly for the first time her bizarre story of a "sea pirate yacht murder" at the Coroner's inquest into the death of her husband, Benjamin P. Collings.

INFERS HEROISM

By inference, Mrs. Collings pictures herself as the heroine of the mystery-drama. This she did by indicating that she deliberately permitted the pirates to abduct her in order that she might save her husband and child.

The dark-eyed widow declared she made strenuous efforts to save her husband after he had been attacked by the two "pirates." She said she not only threw over a pneumatic mattress after they had trussed him up and threw him overboard but that she had also tried to put down the anchor line for him to catch hold of and, also, to throw over a life preserver. She declared the elderly man pinned her hands behind her back and held her as she reached for the life preserver.

GOES INTO CANOE

Then, she said, she went quietly with the two men in a canoe when she saw a boat approaching, hoping that, with their attention

PINCHOT CALLS FOR HIGHER TAXES ON WEALTHY CLASSES

CONCENTRATION OF RICHES SCORED

Prosperity Must Be Shared By All, Governor Says: State to Aid in Relief.

International News Service

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25.—Concentration of the wealth of the country in the hands of a few is held largely responsible for the present lack of prosperity by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania. He said:

"Real prosperity comes when you have passed prosperity around."

His definition of prosperity includes the belief that a country is prosperous when the largest number of people have the greatest possible amount of comfort and well being. That should include farmers, laborers, mechanics, white-collar people—everybody. He continued:

"I don't call an orgy of stock gambling prosperity. I don't call it prosperity when vast riches face great want. The proper purpose of government is the general welfare and when that is achieved we have prosperity, and not otherwise.

"The only way we can get out of the terrible ruin we are in is first to levy the heaviest taxation on all those who can afford to pay, and second obtain a dollar's worth of services for every dollar spent. Waste, inefficiency, ignorance and carelessness, to say nothing of downright theft, probably cost our people almost half of what they ought to get from the taxes they pay."

He was asked how the further problem of taking care of the unemployed should be met during the winter. He answered:

"No one source of relief can meet the appeal of the people who are or will be hungry because they are out of work. Every individual who can give ought to give. There is no more reason why the government of the United States should stand aloof from helping its people than there is why any state, county or community should do so. All are responsible. All should meet their responsibility.

"Pennsylvania will do everything it can to support the national drive for raising funds in October and November, and it will not stop there. People generally would rather work than not—would rather earn what they get than have it given to them. What 99 per cent of the people out of work want is a job."

Green Sees Increase In Nation's Unemployed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A new estimate by organized labor of increased winter unemployment today lay before official Washington as it sought the nation's reaction to the wage reduction policy initiated by some major corporations.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who denounced the wage-cutters as short-sighted and unethical, estimated yesterday that 5,600,000 persons in the United States are now idle.

This represented an increase of 800,000 over his estimate of a month ago and he described prospects for the winter as "even more serious." Expectant last month of the usual autumn gain in employment, he had forecast a winter total of 7,000,000, but in his more recent statement held "the usual fall gain in employment has not occurred this year."

Rail Wage Action Waits Rate Ruling

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—The railroads may eventually seek to reduce wages but no move will be made in this direction until after the Interstate Commerce Commission gives its decision in the proposed 15 per cent freight rate case, it was learned from authoritative sources today. This decision is expected about October 15.

If this ruling is unfavorable to the carriers, they may initiate proceedings to reduce the present wage levels. They cannot arbitrarily reduce wages as other industries can, but must proceed under the railway labor act.

Pittsburgh Forger Sent to U. S. Prison

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 25.—Frank Merriman, of Pittsburgh, a former convict, was sentenced to serve 18 months in Atlanta Federal Prison after a jury convicted him of uttering forged government checks. Sentence was imposed by Judge Gibson. Attorney George Little, of Pittsburgh, acted as defense counsel.

Wife, 6 Children Cared for At Police Station

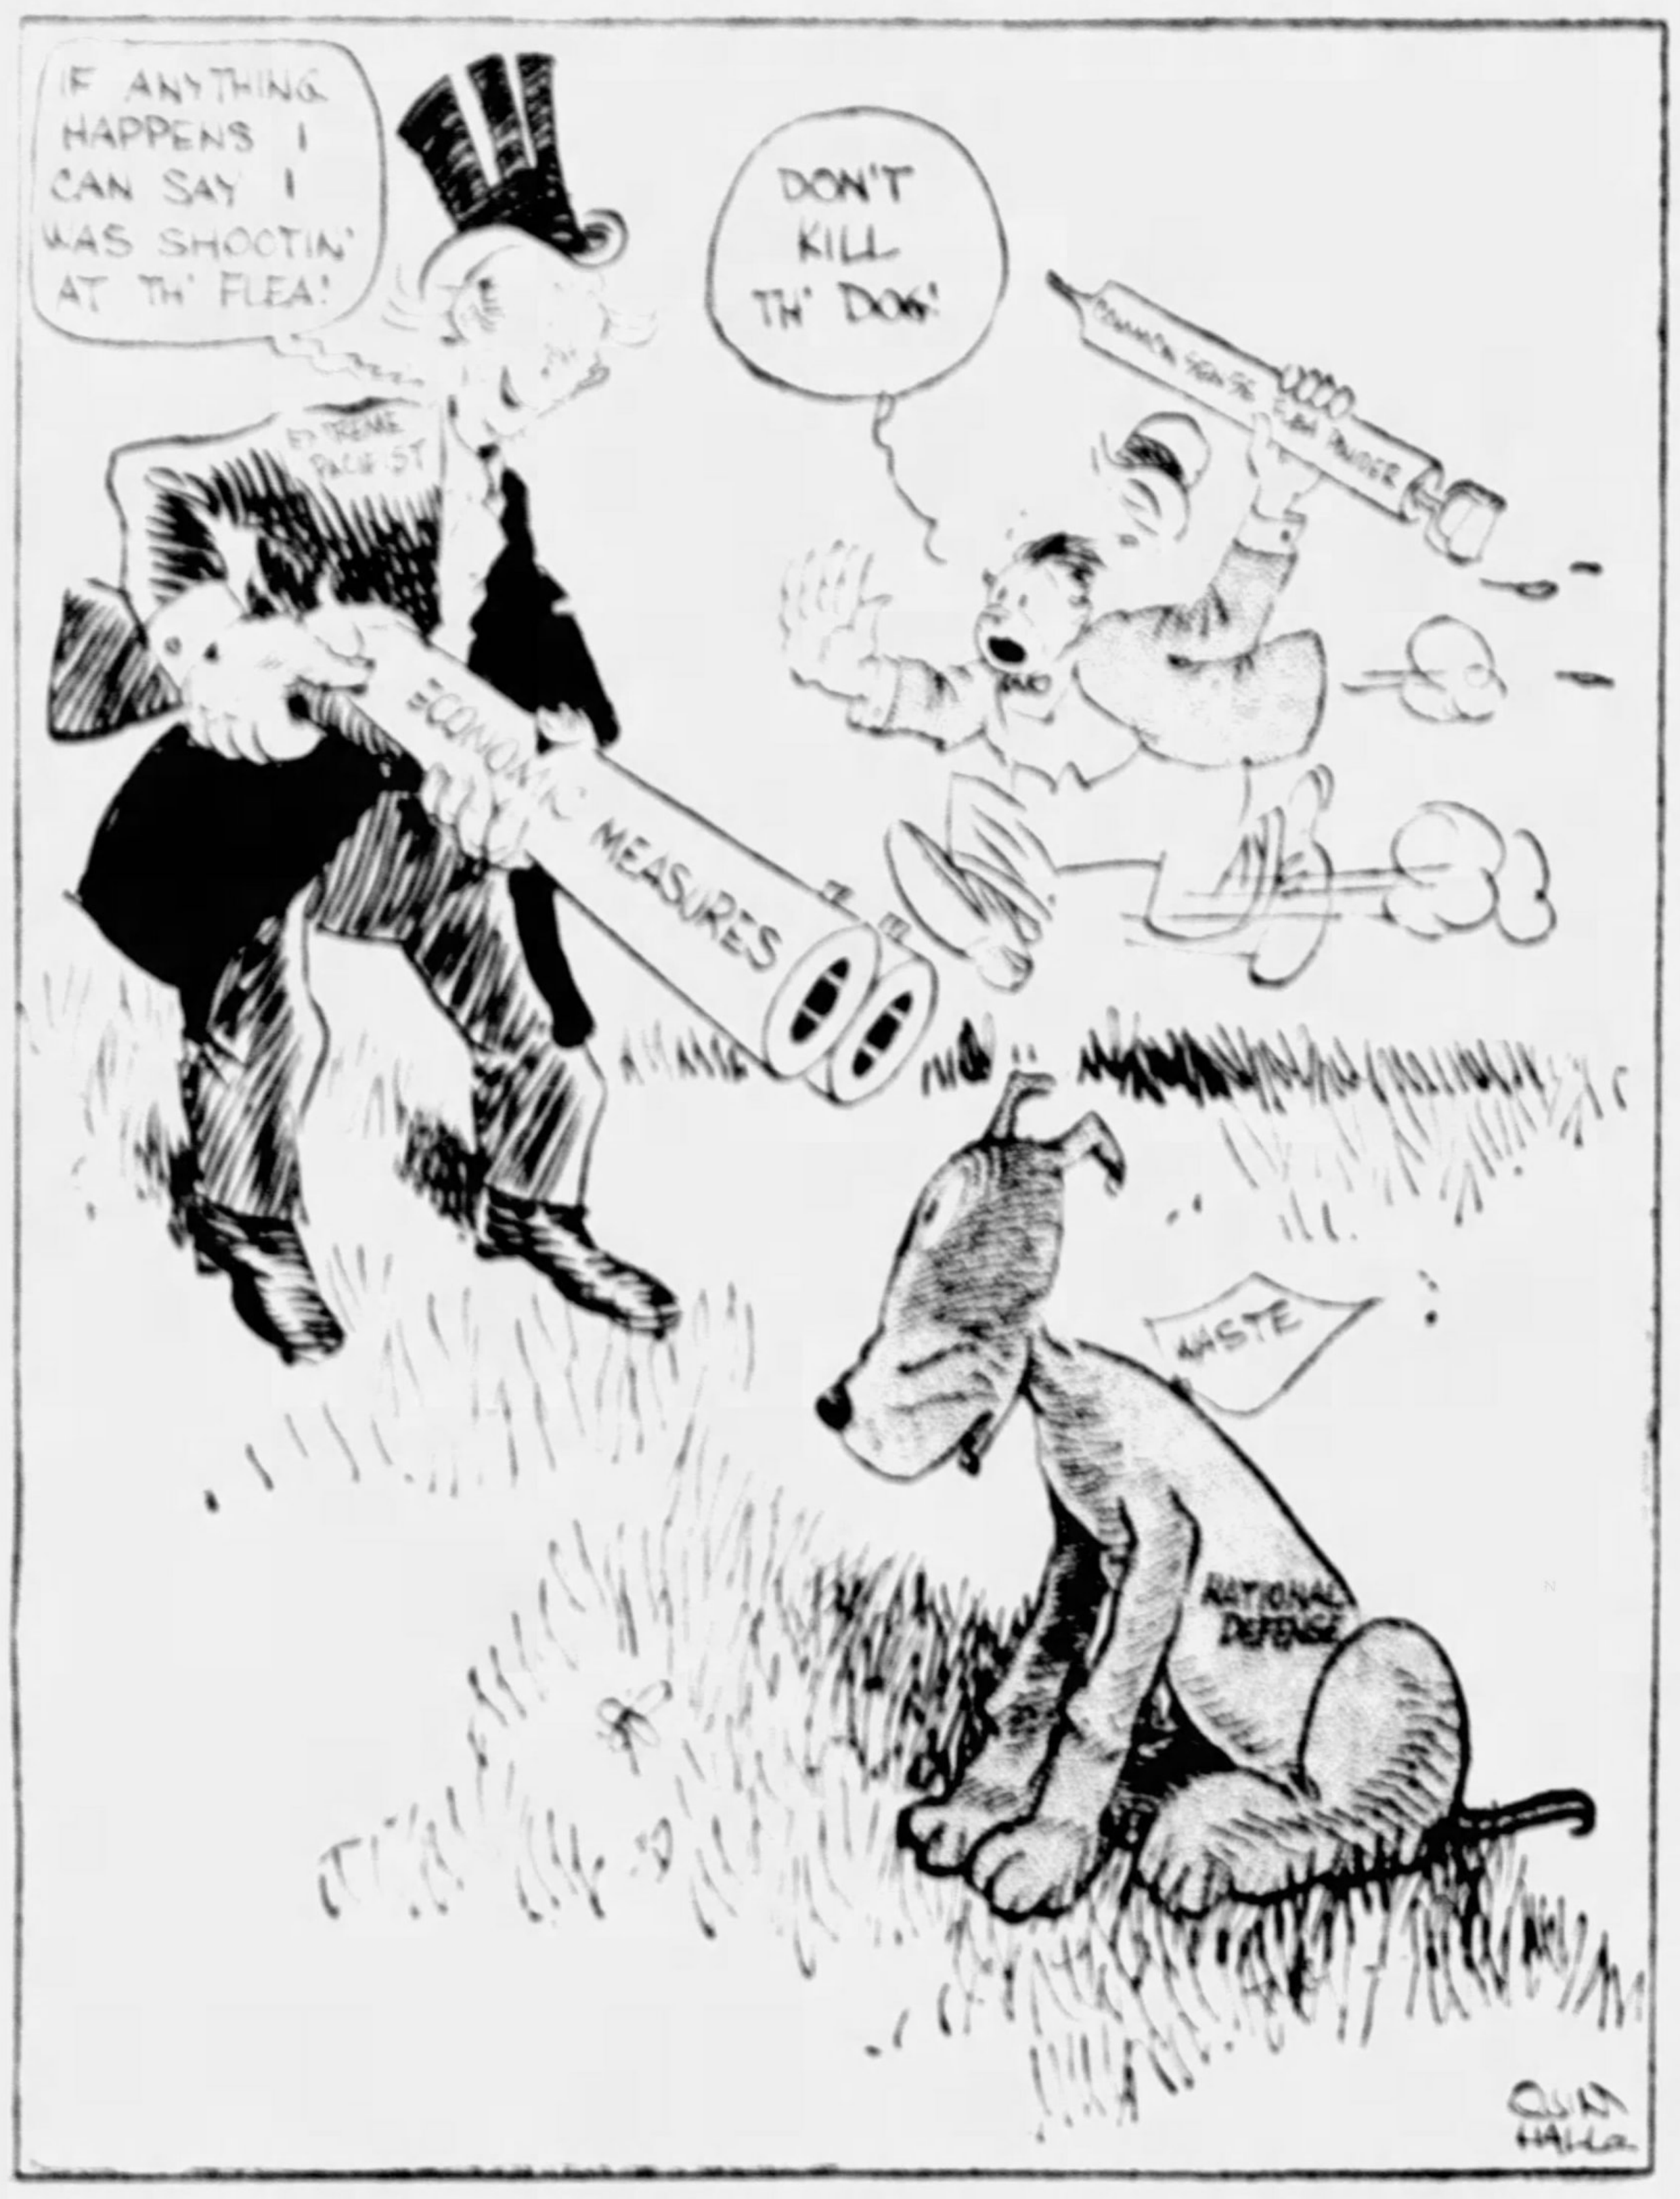
The mother and her brood spent the night at the station under the kindly care of policemen who donated several dollars to aid them. A seventh child was at the home of relatives.

The husband, Alphonse Weiblinger, 39, told police he and his family had been compelled to leave their home at 2019 East Beckert avenue, Mt. Troy, as they were three months behind in rent and the landlord, though sympathetic, could not afford to carry them longer.

So Weiblinger loaded his furniture and his family on his little truck which he used in trying to find light hauling and took them to the police station. Unloading the family he left with the truck to find a dwelling.

The mother and children were given breakfast in the police station. The children are Loretta, 12; Rita, 10; Mildred, 8; Lawrence, 7; Teresa, 6; Raymond, 4; Paul, 2.

THE BIG GAME HUNTER -:- By Quin Hall



CATHOLICS URGE AID TO NEEDY

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 25.—(INS.)—State aid for needy families in their own homes, creation of commissions entirely independent of present public welfare organizations and the establishment of emergency relief funds by the federal and state governments through increased income taxes and bond issues, if necessary, were advocated by diocesan directors of the Catholic Charities of the United States here today.

The proposals were discussed at a conference of 75 diocesan executives prior to the opening of the national sessions of the organization on Sunday, which will bring together 2,000 national Catholic leaders.

While no resolutions were adopted and no formal statement was issued at the conclusion of the executive session, it was learned authoritatively that the diocesan directors feel that the present systems of relief are inadequate to cope with the emergency.

Italy Raises Tariff To Balance Budget

ROME, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—In order to balance its budget, the Italian government today increased by 15 per cent the ad valorem duties on all imports not receiving special treatment under existing treaties.

The government also increased the duty on coal to 10 per cent. Grains, metals, gold, fertilizers and animal fats were exempted.

pay dividends upon it in bad times."

There is the truth in two paragraphs: stock inflation in boom, wage cutting in depression.

IT HAS BEEN the custom, usually, in hard times, to begin with wage cuts and discharging immediately, without loss of time. President Hoover deserves thanks for using his influence and authority to postpone the wholesale wage cuts, this time by two years.

Immediately following the slump he summoned the great industrialists and pledged them against cutting wages and wholesale discharge of men. Thousands of workers owe to that effort the fact that 1929 wages have been continued until now.

Referendum on Vote Machines Illegal

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25.—Commissioners of Centre County were notified today by the Secretary of the Commonwealth that any action on their part to place on the ballots of Philipsburg Borough a referendum to do away with voting machines would be illegal. Next Tuesday the Secretary is scheduled to open bids for furnishing machines in that municipality.

The County Commissioners recently informed the State Department that a petition signed by 20 per cent of the qualified voters in the borough had been received requesting elimination of the machines.

Col. Roosevelt to Be Hoover Camp Guest

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—President Hoover intends to leave the capital sometime tomorrow for a week-end of rest at his Rapidan camp. Gov. Theodore Roosevelt, of Porto Rico, will accompany the President.

HELD IN $14,000 SWINDLE

George Wagner, 62, of Youngstown, O., was in the custody of Detective Joseph Landen today, accused of being implicated in the swindling of $14,000 from Nick Petovic, of Pittsburgh. Wagner waived extradition and was started for Pittsburgh.

Petovic said Wagner last December suggested to him the purchase of a quantity of smuggled platinum for $20 an ounce with the guarantee it could be sold for double this price.

Petovic said he and Wagner went to Philadelphia, where Petovic was introduced to a man named Mason, and the three went to the dock to view the boat on which the metal had been smuggled. Petovic says his money was in a satchel and that another satchel was substituted for his, after which his companions disappeared.

Train Jumps Track; One Killed, 4 Hurt

EDMORE, Mich., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—The engineer was killed and four other persons were injured today when a Pere Marquette combination freight and passenger train jumped the track here and the locomotive overturned.

C. J. Bloomquist, of Grand Rapids, engineer, was killed, and Joseph Gomber, fireman, received scalds which physicians thought might prove fatal.

COUZENS FLAYS BANKERS FOR WAGE CUTS

Millionaire Senator Praises Analysis by W. R. Hearst Urging Benefits for Labor

International News Service

DETROIT, Sept. 25.—James Couzens, multi-millionaire United States Senator, today attacked wage cutting policies and assailed the excuse that lower living costs justify wage cuts.

In an interview, the Senator, who has donated more than $17,000,000 of his private fortune to charities, also assailed the muddle through system of a national leadership which seems determined to maintain the status quo of the capitalistic system.

As an original suggestion Couzens advanced the idea of creditors settling with their debtors for 50 cents on a dollar, thus releasing purchasing power. Couzens himself is a creditor.

Couzens said his comments were evoked by wage cuts by the nation's major industry. He said:

"Among other things, I want to compliment William Randolph Hearst on his keen analysis of how the benefits of labor-saving machinery and chemistry should be passed on to worker and consumer and not all retained by the capitalist.

"It will be observed that all these wage reductions originated in New York. It has been charged for a year or more that the New York bankers were back of a wage-cut movement. Some of them disclaimed it. None of them admitted it. It appears now they are waiting for the psychological moment to put it over."

Girl Battles Youth In East Pittsburgh

Battling a youth who police said stopped her as she walked along Electric avenue in East Pittsburgh, Margaret Hitchin, 19, of 168 Grandview avenue, Chalfonte, threw him to the ground and escaped last night.

According to police, the girl was seized as she turned off Electric avenue into a street leading to her home. She grappled with her attacker and fled. From a description given her parents, police arrested as suspect James Love, 24, of 637 Braddock avenue, at his home a short time later.

approximately $3,000,000 has been withdrawn, Swigart said.

The bank's capital was $225,000, with a surplus and reserve of $25,000. Present deposits amount to $2,300,000.

Although small, the trust funds are amply protected and are not affected by the suspension of business by the bank, Swigart said. A reassuring statement by Cashier Gurcak explained the action of the directors.

Swigart said pass books were being received at the Franklin Savings and Trust Company, which closed Monday, by means of which depositors established their claims.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, whose home is in Pittsburgh, discussed the banking situation in Pittsburgh today.

Reed expressed the opinion that banking conditions in the Pittsburgh district were sound.

LAVAL'S VISIT APPROVED

By FREDERICK K. ABBOTT

International News Service.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Another step in the new era of international diplomacy, encouraging personal talks between chiefs of state, was taken today when the French Council of Ministers gave its unqualified indorsement to the visit of Premier Pierre Laval to Washington for a conference with President Hoover.

The invitation was extended by President Hoover through United States Ambassador Walter Evans Edge on Monday.

Laval visited the American embassy this afternoon and advised Ambassador Edge of the cabinet's decision. The acceptance was celebrated by presentation to the French premier of an ornate inkstand, the gift of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

2 Greensburg Banks Are Consolidated

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 25.—The Maddas Bank and Trust Company of Greensburg was today consolidated with Union Trust Company of Greensburg, all accounts being transferred to Union Trust Company.

All assets and liabilities are assumed by Union Trust Company and payment of deposits of Maddas Bank were guaranteed by Charles McK. Lynch, Union Trust president.

Progress in Proving Evolution Denied

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(Universal.)—Prof. D'Arcy Thompson, instructor in natural history at St. Andrew's College, told the British Association for the Advancement of Science there has been no advance in the work of substantiating the theory of evolution. Dr. Robert Brown, of South Africa, declared records tracing the progress of evolution for 40,000,000 years are available.

HOOVER LAUDED BY MRS. GANN IN TALK HERE

Speaks Before Republican Women; Non-Committal On Curtis' Future Plans

Mrs. Dolly Gann, Vice President Charles Curtis' sister, sat at the right side of the president of the Women's Republican Club in the William Penn Hotel at noon.

As apologist for the Republican party, she opened a broadside for the re-election of President Herbert Hoover, dictator in her recent social squabble with Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

LAUDS HOOVER

Speaking to the Women's Republican Club at a luncheon in the William Penn Hotel, she lauded Hoover to the point of declaring his "victory in 1928 saved America from a period of hard times" which would make the present seem like riotous prosperity.

Asked if her brother, she said her "big brother," would run again as vice president, she replied:

"Ask him."

"But are you campaigning for him?"

"I always am."

Told of rumors that Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley had been mentioned as a potential vice presidential candidate, she added:

"No, I don't think so. I saw Pat last week."

REPUBLICANS PRAISED

Mrs. Gann sat at the right side of the president of the local organization, which is according to Emily Post.

She spoke of the record of the Republican party, its history, and advocated the organization of many women's Republican clubs. Her belief in party government she explained as follows:

"For I believe in party government—perhaps I should say in two-party government. The ideal situation in our country, it seems to me, is to have two great parties, one to be in power and conduct the business of the republic, and the other to be out of power, but vigilantly watching its opponent to see that it makes no mistakes. Perhaps the reason I prefer to have the Democrats out of power is because I think they are the best watchers—they have had so much practice. But however that may be, I believe with all my heart that every man in America and every woman in America should be a member in good standing in one or the other of our great political parties."

'Buck' Crouse's Wife Sues for Separation

Albert (Buck) Crouse, former pugilist and aide to the Rev. Father James R. Cox at Old St. Patrick's Church, today was sued for separation from "bed and board" by his wife, Ruth C. Crouse, of 112 Laurel avenue, Ben Avon. She alleges cruelty and indignities. The Crouses were married August 28, 1911. Crouse's address was given as 1105 Ridge avenue.

Abused After Bridge Errors, Asks Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Mrs. Elodia M. Walker has filed suit against Harry S. Walker, her husband for 22 years, declaring that when she committed a minor misplay at bridge he slapped her and when she committed a major error he beat and kicked her. The two are the parents of five children.

Fire Sweeps Village, 11 Buildings Burn

VALOIS, N. Y., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Fire which threatened to wipe out this village of 300 residents was conquered early today after 11 structures, including the post office, had been destroyed with a loss estimated at $80,000.

Valois is the heart of the Finger Lakes fruit section.

Hosiery Strikers In Motor Parade

READING, Pa., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Employes of Dover, N. J., hosiery mills where strikes are in progress organized a motor caravan, with nearly 100 cars in line, to this city last night and conducted demonstrations at plants in Wyomissing and in this city.

Lieut. Gov. Stanfield Dies in Nova Scotia

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 25.—(INS.)—Frank Stanfield, lieutenant governor of Nova Scotia, was found dead in his bed at the Government House here today. Heart disease was supposed to have caused his death.

King George Opposes Move To Dissolve Parliament

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—King George was understood today to be opposed to the movement for early dissolution of Parliament and a general election on a protective tariff issue.

He was said on good authority to be averse to terminating the tenure of the national government at least until it had put its economy program into effect and restored world confidence in the British pound. It was felt that his opinions would effectively stifle the call for an appeal to the people this fall.

The King has played an influential role in politics since the financial crisis was recognized some weeks ago. He rushed back from Balmoral, Scotland, and personally took a hand in the formation of the emergency government to succeed the Labor ministry.

Prime Minister MacDonald returned to his residence at 10 Downing street today, appearing greatly refreshed after a few days' holiday in the country. It was made clear that his return was not in the nature of an official recall and that he was bound for his country home at Chequers for the week-end as originally planned.

OFFICER ALSO FACES COURT AUTO CHARGE

Accused of Firing at Chief in Resisting Arrest; Second Patrolman Fined in Row

Two patrolmen, whose alleged conduct on their nights off landed them in jail last night, were arraigned for police court hearings today.

Patrolman Thomas Robinson, Negro, of 406 Jefferson street, reporting to North Side Station, was held for court in Center Avenue Station after it was testified he engaged a lieutenant and three other patrolmen in a pistol fight in the Hill district.

HELD ON AUTO CHARGE

He was later taken to Traffic Court where he was again held for court on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Joseph Gallon, a patrolman reporting to the Carrick station, was fined $25 before Magistrate Charles Papale in East End Police Court after it was testified he engaged in a fist fight with a special patrolman in a garage, during which he is alleged to have broken a window.

Lieut. John Murphy testified Robinson drew a gun when he (Murphy) was arresting him at Fullerton street and Wylie avenue for driving in a reckless manner.

THREE AID SUPERIOR

Three other officers came to Lieut. Murphy's assistance, and, during the gun fight that followed, it was said, a dozen shots were exchanged. Later, Patrolman Paul Mozuch disarmed Robinson, according to the testimony.

Pope Jests About French Gold Hoard

ROME, Sept. 25.—(Universal)—A jocular allusion to gold hoarding by France enlivened an address made by Pope Pius XI to 1,200 young French workmen, pilgrims to the Vatican city. The Pope congratulated the workmen on making so long a journey in such times of great economic stress, saying with a smile:

"It is certain that all the gold which is rumored to be accumulated in France undoubtedly did not go into the hands of young workmen."

Weather Conditions.

The western low pressure areas developed into a well-defined center over Iowa. It now covers the entire plains states section, and is causing cloudiness nearly everywhere from the Rocky Mountains to the Appalachians and light to moderately heavy rains over the plains states and as far east as Illinois. Over the Atlantic Coast states the skies are clear. There was a decided drop in temperature over the Atlantic Coast states and it is slightly cooler than yesterday over the Canadian Northwest and the Rocky Mountain states. The temperatures there are near freezing. Maximum temperatures were high again yesterday over the southern states, while over the northern states the weather was moderately cool.

River Conditions.

The rivers are about stationary. Stage at Franklin is 0.2 foot; Lock No. 7, 12.2; Pittsburgh, 10.6; Dam No. 4, 9.0; Dam No. 8, 7.6; Dam No. 10, 8.5, and Dam No. 12, 8.0. The dams are up.

DELEGATES SEE RIVER DAMS

KITTANNING, Pa., Sept. 25.—Delegates and guests of the Allegheny River Association arrived here yesterday on the excursion of the thirty-fourth annual convention of the association. They arrived on board the excursion barge towed by the steamer E. K. Davison and inspected en route the series of locks and dams completed last year which enabled the boat to reach this city, 45 miles above Pittsburgh.

During the course of the convention several addresses were given by members, and the announcement by Congressman Strong of the appointment of Maj. Wilhelm D. Styer, of Pittsburgh, to the position of honorary vice president of the association was made known.

Citizens of this city greeted the members of the convention in large numbers and escorted them from the wharf to the Hotel Stoim. Dr. J. S. McMains, secretary of the Kiskiminetas and Conemaugh Rivers Improvement Association, entertained the delegates with his glee club from Leechburg.

Ex-Follies Girl Leaves $25,000 Gems in Taxi

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Mrs. Isabelle Dreyfus, ex-Follies girl, of Chicago, has presented the police with a $25,000 problem. She reported:

"I put $25,000 worth of jewelry in a leather box and started downtown to lock it up in a safe deposit box. But when I was passing a beauty shop I remembered that I wanted a facial. So I had one.

"Then it was too late to get into the vault and I hailed a cab and went home. It was after I got into my apartment that I suddenly realized I had left the jewels in the cab. Will you get them for me, please?"

The police said they would try.

CHURCH TRIAL CLEARS PASTOR

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. William A. Shelton late yesterday was acquitted by a trial committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of charges involving his former secretary, Miss Carrie A. Williams.

Voted "absolutely innocent" of the accusations in a unanimous verdict by a jury of 13 clergymen, the 56-year-old preacher-scholar immediately was reinstated as pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Church in Washington.

The charge, which had been withheld by church officials pending the outcome of the proceedings, was disclosed by Dr. W. S. Hammond, of Martinsburg, W. Va., who officiated, as "immorality" and was based upon two specifications.

Shelton was embraced by his wife when he emerged from the trial room. She had said she was confident he would be acquitted.

Hawks Sets Record In Hop of 144 Miles

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 25.—(INS.)—Capt. Frank Hawks set another airplane speed record today, flying from Schenectady, N. Y., in 39 minutes, averaging 221 miles an hour for the 144 miles.

Tomorrow Hawks will fly to Indianapolis to take part in a municiual airport dedication, and from there will proceed to Claremore, Okla., for another municipal demonstration.

FLIERS ON ISLE WITHOUT FOOD SEVEN DAYS

Moyle and Allen on Eve Of Hop From Alaska Reveal Storm Hardships

NOME, Alaska, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—On the eve of their attempt to take off here today on a non-stop flight to Tacoma, Wash., Don Moyle and Cecil A. Allen, California aviators, last night told of their unsuccessful attempt nearly three weeks ago to fly across the Pacific from Samushiro Beach, Japan, to Seattle.

They reported that after leaving Samushiro Beach September 7, they flew for 34 hours and bucked a 100-mile an hour wind when they reached the tip of the Aleutian Island chain.

The wind was so strong, they said, they seemed to be standing still in midair and so they decided to look for a landing place. Their fuel and oil were running low and they decided they would be unable to make Seattle.

Battling the wind, but making no headway, the fliers said they finally drifted back to Kiska Island, the largest of the Kat Island group, about 800 miles west of Dutch Harbor, Alaska. They landed on a small adjoining uninhabited island about two miles long to wait for the storm to subside.

Upon this island, they said, they remained seven days without food other than what they had carried with them, and no shelter. They said they had feared the wind would wreck their plane.

They took off from the island on the eighth day, they said, aided by a strong wind, and landed on the Siberian mainland at the fishing village of Miano Pilgino, about 60 miles south of Cape Navarin, where they got in touch with a Soviet freighter which communicated with the St. Paul Naval Radio Station and sent out the news that the fliers were safe.

The fliers said they were confident they would have had plenty of fuel to reach Seattle in about 45 hours had they not encountered the storm.

LIBERALS GAIN IN DIVORCE BATTLE

Episcopalian Minority Wins Unexpected Victory on 'Church Blessing' Issue

DENVER, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Church liberals and conservatives assembled their forces today for a final contest over marriage and divorce laws of the Episcopal church.

So heated was the controversy, particularly in regard to the remarriage of divorced persons, that it overshadowed the scheduled election today of a presiding bishop.

The Rt. Rev. James DeWolf Perry, of Rhode Island, presiding bishop, will be opposed by Bishop James H. Freeman, Washington, D. C., and Bishop Edward L. Parsons, of California, in today's balloting at a secret session of the House of Bishops.

The element seeking liberalization of the church marriage laws, headed by Prof. Joseph Beale, of Harvard, was defeated on a proposal which would have allowed ministers to remarry persons divorced for any cause.

Unexpected strength was manifest by the liberal element when the House of Deputies adopted an amendment to the proposed canon which would not only allow divorced persons who have remarried outside the church to retain their communicant status, but under certain conditions the church would also "bless the parties to the union."

If the proposed matrimonial canon is adopted, its enemies declared, headquarters of the "divorce mill" may as well be moved "from Reno to 281 Fourth avenue, New York," headquarters of the church.

MRS. NELLIE JUMP, 29 . . . . . SLAIN IN A LONELY VINEYARD

Mrs. Jump, whose nephew-by-marriage, Donald Stern, 18, Cleveland, has confessed to slaying her at Willowick. Her husband, Elmer, 36, later confessed that he and Master Donald conspired in the slaying in order to obtain her $2,400 life insurance payment.

LAYS INSURANCE KILLING TO KIN

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Elmer L. Jump, 36, meek mannered former elevator starter, fought today to shift to his 18-year-old nephew full blame for the slaying of his wife, 23.

Jump and his nephew, Donald McDonald, were held in Lake County Jail at Painesville charged with plotting to murder Mrs. Jump for $2,400 insurance.

Young McDonald, detectives said, confessed he stabbed to death his aunt in a lonely vineyard in Willowick last February 5, for which he received $175 from his uncle out of the insurance money.

The eight-month-old murder mystery reached solution yesterday when police announced the pair had confessed after being confronted with evidence first uncovered through a bit of chance gossip overheard among prisoners in the Mansfield Reformatory.

LINDY TO GET CHINESE MEDAL

NANKING, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Chiang Kai-Shek, president of China, received Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at the National government offices here today.

As a token of admiration of his distinguished record and in appreciation of his volunteer services in the cause of flood relief in China, the National Government Council voted to award Lindbergh China's newly-established aviation medal.

Lindbergh will be the first aviator, foreign or Chinese, to receive the medal. Chiang Kai-Shek is expected to present the decoration at a ceremony in the government offices tomorrow.

DO-X SEIZURE ASKED IN SUIT

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Issac Schafran and Jacob Thaler began suit in Federal Court today to have the German flying boat DO-X confiscated on the ground that the owners, operators and builders infringed on patents the plaintiffs held.

General Motors Corporation is named as one of the defendants. The suit, besides demanding confiscation of the giant flying boat, asks for an accounting of profits, a permanent injunction against further infringement on the patents the plaintiffs say they hold, and damages amounting to three times whatever profits the DO-X may have made.

Culbertson Rates Wife Best Woman at Bridge

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Take it from Ely Culbertson, the expert, the world's 13 best contract bridge players include his wife, but not himself.

Culbertson, author of a forcing system of bidding that bears his name, ranked his wife as the greatest woman contract bridge player in the world. Not excluding Miss Eleanor Murdock, who won this year's women's championship.

At the same time as he nominated his hall of bridge fame, he announced he had won over to his system R. R. Richards, one of the leaders in the advisory council of Bridge Headquarters, an organization of experts who oppose the Culbertson method. Richard founded the American Bridge League.

The 13 best bridge players named by Culbertson are: Harold S. Vanderbilt, Theodore Leitner, Baron Waldemar von Zedtwitz, Howard Schenken, Walter Bienke, all of the United States; Sir Guy Domville and George Morris, of London; M. D'Albarran, of Paris; M. Venizelos, of Paris; Mrs. Ely Culbertson, Mrs. Emory Clement, Miss Eleanor Murdock, Mrs. Vivi Hansen.

He said:

"People who become known as lecturers on bridge are not always first rate players."

BEAUTY DODGES OFFICERS IN KANE CASE

'Other Woman' Outwits Sleuth Seeking Her for Inquiry Into Drowning

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

HAMPTON, Va., Sept. 25.—Elizabeth "Betty" Dahl, "the other woman" in the case of Prof. Elisha Kent Kane, charged with deliberately drowning his wife, has outwitted the authorities—so far.

They admitted it today.

Deputy Sheriff Tom Curtis, who has the reputation of always getting his man, went to New York to talk to "Betty."

He was back in town today—empty handed.

"BETTY" FOILS SHERIFF

The beautiful divorcee, who wrote romantic letters to the eccentric professor, played hide and seek with the deputy sheriff from Virginia.

He almost caught up with her but after five days in the metropolis, including a trip to Philadelphia where the parents of Betty reside, Curtis gave up the chase. Curtis said:

"But I found out a lot about her background."

He confirmed the fact that she had worked as a stewardess for many years on the liners Leviathan and America and that her acquaintances included many wealthy and influential men. These facts were revealed by International News Service almost a week ago.

WOULD QUIZ DIVORCEE

The deputy sheriff, in addition to this historical background, brought back a picture of the woman which was published in a New York newspaper.

He said wistfully:

"I wish I knew how they got that picture."

Prosecutor Roland Cock told International News Service that the state had at least "an academic interest" in Betty.

In reply to the question as to whether Deputy Sheriff Curtis had made his trip northward only for background material, the prosecutor declared:

"If we knew where she was we certainly would be interested in talking to her."

NEW WITNESS FOUND

Meanwhile, Prof. Kane, out under $15,000 bail on a murder charge, was believed possibly today to be in conference "somewhere up North" with the elusive Betty. He and his lawyer—Cousin E. Kent Kane, left their hotel on a mysterious auto trip. Before leaving, Cousin Kane admitted he had been in communication with Mrs. Dahl and that she might be called as a defense witness.

The Prosecutor and Sheriff Charles Curtis, brother of Tom, were closeted in a secret conference today with a newly discovered witness. It was expected the witness would be among those called at the formal arraignment of the University of Tennessee professor next Wednesday.

GANDHI VISITS COTTON MILLS

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—With all the daring of a Daniel going among the lions, Mahatma M. K. Gandhi left tonight for Lancashire, where thousands are idle because of the Indian boycott of British cotton goods.

Despite threats that he would be lynched if he ventured into the Manchester area, Gandhi refused to abandon his plans to carry his message of Indian political and industrial freedom to the distressed textile workers of Lancashire as well as their employers.

The exact time of departure was withheld from the public because of the desire of the government to prevent any demonstration. He traveled by train, guarded by Scotland Yard detectives.

Gandhi himself said he was not concerned about the threats against his life and that he did not fear any attack. He was the guest tonight at a simple country cottage belonging to the Society of Friends at Springvale, a social settlement near Darwen, 15 miles north of Manchester. Tomorrow he will interview workers and mill owners.

VETS END MEET AFTER STORMY ROUT OF DRYS

International News Service

DETROIT, Sept. 25.—Delegates to the thirteenth annual convention of the American Legion were homeward bound today with reverberations of the last day's stormy "beer and bonus" session still ringing in their ears.

For the first time in its history the huge veterans' organization had taken an official stand on prohibition by adopting a resolution favoring a popular referendum on repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

During yesterday's meeting—the most important session of the convention—the delegates also recorded their view on the second most vital issue confronting them, the bonus. By a vote of 902 to 507 they rejected a resolution demanding immediate cash payment of the bonus.

WILD SCENES OVER BEER

Disagreement on the prohibition question was far less marked than the split on the issue of the bonus. The dry law referendum resolution was adopted by the overwhelming vote of 1,008 to 394, following a heated debate amid scenes of wild enthusiasm.

The new national commander of the Legion, Henry L. Stevens, Jr., of North Carolina, rode into office by acclamation just before the convention was adjourned. The shouts and applause for the 35-year-old Southern lawyer swelled the convention hall before the first ballot could be taken. A second lieutenant during the World War, Stevens is the youngest Legionnaire ever to head the organization.

Another resolution, adopted by the delegates before adjournment, called upon President Hoover to again bring into use the war-time Council of National Defense to centralize the process of economic recovery and deal with the present economic crisis.

'Drunks' at Legion Meet Few, Leader Declares

DETROIT, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—The American Legion did not throw itself into the anti-dry side of the prohibition controversy by adopting a resolution calling for a dry law referendum, it was declared here today by Henry L. Stevens, Jr., the Legion's new national commander, in reply to Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals. Stevens said:

"By adopting the resolution the Legion merely called for a popular expression of opinion on the prohibition question by the citizens of the United States.

"There were fewer drunks at this convention than I have ever seen at any other convention. A million of us have stood up for our Constitution and still support it."

In St. Joseph, Mo., Dr. Wilson said "numbers of staggering drunks disgraced the uniform and yelled for beer," adding:

"The Legion has again taken the wet side. I am not surprised. If you had seen the outfit that gathered in Detroit as I did, you would be surprised that 394 men (the number of delegates who voted against the referendum resolution) could be found who could stand up for the constitution and decency and sobriety."

convenes in two months. While it may not be successful from the viewpoint of the anti-prohibitionists, the forthcoming battle will be but the forerunner of others. That is recognized by both sides, and plans are being made accordingly.

BULKLEY FOR BOARD

Senator Bulkley, Democratic anti-prohibitionist from Ohio, suggested that his party agree upon resubmitting the Eighteenth Amendment to the people rather than argue upon the merits of prohibition.

Two investigations were under way today into the economic aspects of legalizing beer, which lie close to the White House, if they do not actually emanate therefrom.

One is sponsored by Walter H. Newton, one of President Hoover's secretaries, and is aimed at the employment aspects of a revival of the brewing industry. Collaterally with that, the revenue side of it is being considered.

The other investigation, directed by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, concerns the possible benefits that would accrue to the farmer through the legalization of beer.

Vets Irate as Legion Drops Bonus Appeal

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—More than 200 World War veterans, at a meeting at the Sawtelle Soldiers' Home, destroyed their American Legion cards and buttons in protest against the Legion's failure to adopt resolutions at the Detroit convention for immediate payment of the bonus.

The action came in an orderly move at the plea of several speakers from the ranks of the soldier inmates of the institution.

Beer Fight to Wax Warm, Says Gibbons

Both Sides Gird for New 'Two B' War Next Year

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Journalist and Radio Reporter

DETROIT, Sept. 25.—Hello everybody.

Legionnaires, harrassed throughout the long campaign over the bonus and beer, will hardly reach their homes before they discover that the present lull will not last forever.

Whatever advantages have been gained by either faction at the convention constitute only an armistice. Not many months hence, the bugle will sound and the firing will begin all over again. The convention hall in Detroit then will seem but the scene of a quiet skirmish.

Strong political influences were at work in Detroit to bring about decisions on the two issues. This time next year, in Portland, the "Two B" campaign will be one long to be remembered by Legionnaires. The Presidential campaign will be in full swing. The City of Roses will have to provide many blossoms if the delegates to that convention are to find a flowery path.

BOTH SIDES AWAKE

Word reaching Detroit from other parts of the country already indicates that the Legion's determined stand for modification of the prohibition laws to permit the country to have beer indicates that the discussion has stirred apathetic partisans.

Pro-beer Legionnaires indulged in high strategy when the subject of modification was tossed out among the delegates first in connection with the report of the committee on unemployment. Ordinarily it would have come up independently. The victorious leaders say:

"Now we have proved that it wasn't thirst that prompted our action. It was economic necessity."

Matters of such magnitude as the modification and bonus questions aren't settled by the vote of even such a large body as the Legion. Discussion will go on, and the standpatters will keep their views.

TRAIL TO PORTLAND

Early next year, local contests for delegates to state and national conventions will start the same arguments. Platform builders for the national conventions once more will have a chance to take a stand. And then—the deluge of campaign oratory.

In the meantime a hundred thousand more Legionnaires will cross the Rockies on the long trail to Portland, to re-align their forces for the hand-to-ballot-box struggle in November. Again, in Portland, the beer and bonus campaign will be on.

And, as in Detroit, the Canadian border is not many miles away.

W.C.T.U. to Pray For Legion Dry Foes

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—W. C. T. U. members of the Chicago area advoc[illegible]ed the suggestion that prayer[illegible]offered for the American Legio[illegible]es who voted for a prohibition referendum.

Speakers before the Cook County W. C. T. U. convention yesterday charged the members to maintain the offensive—and not take the defensive—in the dry battle.

FREED ON BOND IN AUTO DEATH

Charles Slack 28 of Branch street Robinson township accused by Carnegie police as being the driver of the automobile which ran down and killed Blanche Hensley 50 nurse at the County Home Woodville September 10 was at liberty today in $2 500 bond pending the inquest.

Slack told Chief Deputy Coroner J. A. Albert that he stopped his machine the night of the accident and attempted to minister to the injured woman. He denied that he was a hit-run driver. When help arrived he said he left because he was already in trouble being under $1 000 bond on a serious charge. Explaining his failure to notify police of the accident he said he told Chief C H Keesling of Carnegie on Monday that he would give himself up when wanted.

MONEY NEEDED CANNING

With 20 000 cans of fruit and vegetables being prepared each day by the Surplus for the Needy Movement here, an urgent appeal was made today for contributions of money to purchase sugar. Attorney Harry I. Miller, chairman of the committee said the problem of sugar was the greatest confronting the committee, and if sufficient funds were not forthcoming it would be necessary to abandon the project.

An appeal was made also to owners of trucks in the district to donate their services. Donations of fruits and vegetables are being received by the committee much faster than they are able to take care of the contributions. Miller said. Approximately 20 trucks have already been donated to the cause but these are unable to cope with the demand. Miller declared.

All school children of Allegheny County are to be asked to donate from one to five cents each to the cause, it was announced. The money will be used for the purchase of sugar.

Students in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the University of Pittsburgh have been participating in the work of unloading and transporting cans from railroad depots to the canning factory on Spring Garden avenue. Trucks of the organization have been donated for this purpose.

Parrot Speaks Up And Decides Ownership

MONROE, Mich., Sept. 25.—(AP)—A 25-year-old parrot spoke up in court yesterday to decide its ownership.

Vincent Swiderski lost the bird six years ago. Recently Swiderski's son, Leo, saw a familiar bird in the home of Mrs. Mary Chermouck. The Swiderskis obtained a writ, took the parrot and kept it. Yesterday at a hearing before Judge Faucher the question of ownership was still in doubt until someone though of bringing the bird into court. It spoke up readily calling the Swiderskis by name.

YACHT WIDOW DEFENDS SELF AS HEROINE

concentrated on her, her husband and her daughter might be rescued.

Mrs. Collings made no mention of an attack upon her, reported in previous versions to have been made upon her by the elderly man. She seemed relieved when an adjournment was taken.

COURTROOM JAMMED

The tiny courtroom was packed when she entered. She walked slowly to the witness chair. She stood up and raised her hand as she was sworn by the Coroner, Dr. William B. Gibson. Her voice was so low it could be hardly be heard 10 feet away and the Coroner had to ask her to speak louder.

While Mrs. Collings spoke, flashlight bulbs winked at her, making her wince visibly, but she seemed to have steeled herself against the ordeal.

Beginning her story of the strange happenings the night of the murder, she said she and her husband had had dinner at about 7 o'clock and put Barbara, the baby, to bed at 10:30 p. m. They retired shortly afterward. She went on:

"The next thing I knew my consciousness seemed to be aroused. I heard voices. The first thing I heard was someone talking to my husband.

"A man's voice said, 'You've got to take us to South Norwalk. We'll give you $100 to take us to South Norwalk.'"

BELIEVED BOOTLEGGERS

The possibility that the yachtsman might have avoided his fate was indicated when Mrs. Collings said that the men told him:

"All you've got to do is to go down into the cabin with your family and you'll be all right."

Mrs. Collings believes that the men who murdered her husband were bootleggers, she told the hearing.

Mrs. Collings said that the men who boarded the boat promised her husband that "everything would be all right" if he would do as they said.

When they tied his hands, she said, they told him that they had to do it because if he saw a wounded man he might become violent. From their conversation she guessed that they tied his hands behind his back and made him sit on the rear seat, on the right hand side facing forward.

PLEADS FOR FAMILY

At this point Collings pleaded with the men to take the boat and leave him and his family unharmed, his wife said. She quoted him as saying:

"'If it's the boat you want, take it. Put us in the rowboat and take the boat. We'll do anything you say.'"

Mrs. Collings said she had come out of the cabin and attempted to help her husband, but that the elder man had seized her and forced her back.

The baby, she said, was crying:

"Leave my Papa alone."

Mrs. Collings then said:

"The next thing I heard was a crash of glass. And then I heard my husband say in an ordinary tone of voice 'they're throwing me overboard.'"

Mrs. Collings testified the man then put her into a canoe and both men paddled away. She said she noticed another boat coming up and thought they would save her husband before he drowned and take her daughter off the drifting boat. She resumed:

"We paddled, it seemed, for hours.

MAROONED ON YACHT

"As we approached land, the older man told the younger one to leave the canoe. The younger one asked where to meet him. The older man said 'you know.'"

"Then the older man paddled over to the yacht Bo Peep anchored near there. He changed some of his clothes, opened a duffle bag an threw some things that looked like note books and clothes overboard."

Then the man put her on the Bo Peep and paddled away toward Oyster Bay, Mrs. Collings testified.

She related the oft-repeated account of how she was saved from the Bo Peep by two men on an adjoining estate attracted by her cries.

First Arrest Made in Vote Investigation; Babcock Blocks Probe Funds

the confession of Frank Johnson, 25, of Homestead, that he had "voted four or five times" in Homestead and West Homestead. Johnson, after pleading guilty to an illegal voting charge in Criminal Court, went before the grand jury and is understood to have made a complete confession naming many other "repeaters" and explaining their method of operation.

Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk went to the returning board rooms today and investigated the voting list of West Homestead. He said the name of Paul Webb, under which Johnson claimed to have "repeated," was recorded there.

WARRANTS FOR 'PHANTOMS'

Eighty other warrants were issued on informations sworn by the Registration Commission against alleged "phantom" voters.

The informations for the warrants were signed by Ray C. Deever, recorder for the Registration Commissioners, assisted by Mrs. Sarah C. Braun and Thomas A. Joyce.

John K. Morrow, chairman of the board, and E. Lowry Humes, its secretary, have not visited the office for business purposes since election day.

Another 100 informations, charging fraud, improper ballot counting, intimidating of voters and other offenses at the polls are prepared by investigators from the Independent Republican group supporting the candidacy of County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, were to be filed late today.

The figures on the subpenaed minority inspector's tally sheets are being checked by Park's operatives against the returning board for compilation of the official count, which, according to Congressman Harry A. Estep, Armstrong's campaign manager, give his candidate a 4,000 lead over McGovern, who was given a 2,400 margin in the unofficial tabulations.

Recount of District Giving 26 Tie Vote Watched

With 12 ballot boxes before the return board for canvass of ballots, independent candidates today watched for the outcome of a new count of the votes cast in the Fourth District, Ninth Ward.

An equal vote of 450 each was received by 26 candidates in this district, it was revealed when the official return sheets were checked. Judges George V. Moore and Elder W. Marshall, sitting as the return board, immediately ordered that the ballots be canvassed.

ARMSTRONG GAINS

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and Senator James J. Coyne gained 163 and 234 votes, respectively, in the Eighth District, Ninth Ward, in comparison with the unofficial vote, when the return board recorded the official vote late yesterday. The unofficial vote had credited Armstrong with 182 and Coyne with 134. The official vote as shown by the election board return sheets gave the former 345 and the latter 368. County Commissioner McGovern's vote remained unchanged at 171, while Senator William D. Mansfield gained two votes.

CORAOPOLIS REPORTS

Gains were given to the four candidates in the official returns of the Second District, First Ward, Coraopolis, with Coyne and Armstrong 40, while McGovern and Mansfield added eight and one, respectively.

Returns previously totaled from 191 districts showed:

Mansfield	McGovern	Coyne	Armstrong

Vote Inspectors Asked to Appear

Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk today urged that all election board minority inspectors, not yet subpenaed to appear in the grand jury investigation of election thieveries, appear in the District Attorney's office voluntarily before noon tomorrow.

Difficulty, Clunk said, is being experienced in locating some of the inspectors and their voluntary appearance would expedite, in a large measure, the District Attorney's efforts to check questioned vote totals.

'Phantom' Ballots Found In Wilmerding Recount

Almost a score of "phantom" ballots were declared by watchers to have been found by the recount board in the ballot box from the Fourth District of Wilmerding. The ballots were marked in the same handwriting and impressions of the X marks showed on the ballots in such a way as to indicate they had been laid in a pile and marked as a group.

A gain for Joseph G. Armstrong was reported in the recount of the Sixth District of the Twenty-fifth Ward. The results follow:

Original report:

Mansfield	McGovern	Coyne	Armstrong

Recount:

Mansfield	McGovern	Coyne	Armstrong
217	206	216	157

Fifteen ballot boxes are now before the board for recount.

County detectives Edward Weber and David Drexler were assigned to the recount board today. They were placed there to guard the ballot boxes and other records, a move taken because of the great number of watchers and other persons not on the board who are watching the recount.

How Does a Woman Champion Manage?

Women champions cannot have "off days." Day after day of practice and play, and matches that permit no postponements. Then how do they manage during regular periods when other women are sunk with pain? They meet these monthly emergencies with Midol, and they don't ever experience a twinge of periodic pain.

Harmless as it is, a Midol tablet blocks all possibility of periodic pain for hours at a stretch. It isn't a narcotic. But it acts in seven minutes, and lets you menstruate in comfort! Just ask the druggist for Midol.

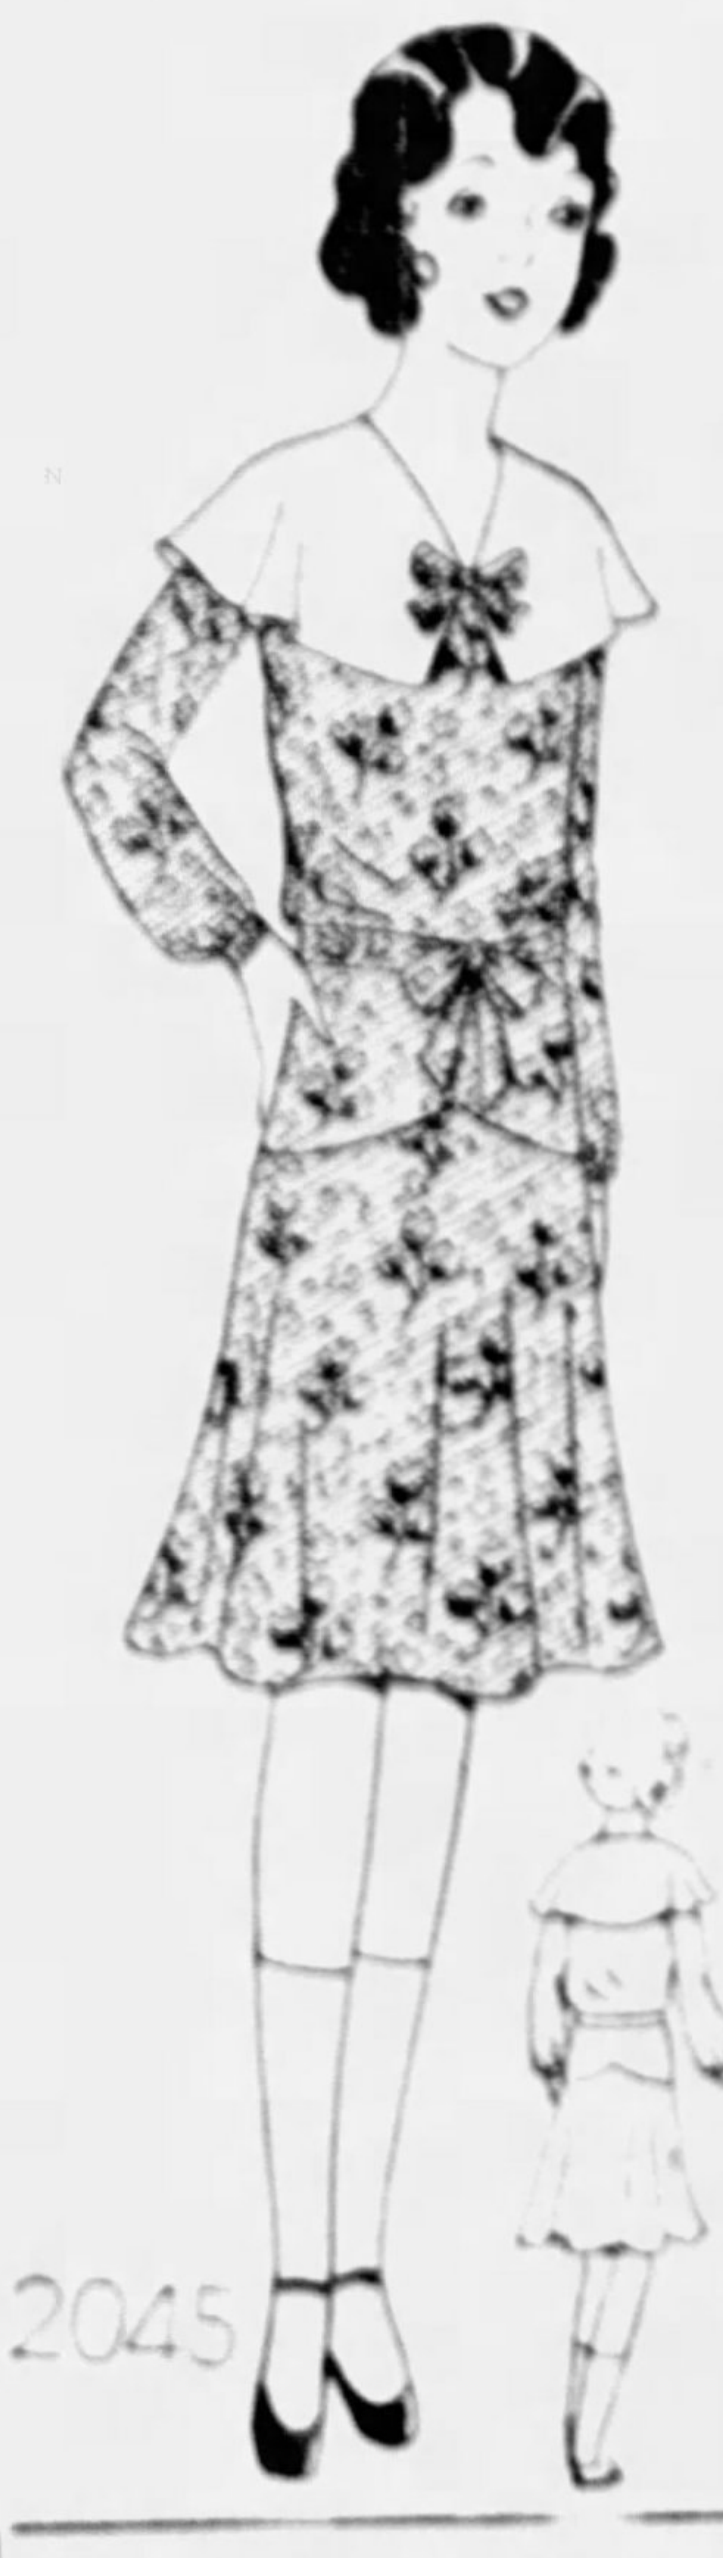
Dainty School Frock
Pattern 2045
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern



By ANNE ADAMS

A refreshing frock for the junior miss, and ideal for either school or best, because of its style simplicity and daintiness. The cape collar, the skirt flare joined in upward curve, and the pert bow trimming are youthful and neat. Sleeves may be omitted for immediate wear, but are nice for cold weather. This frock is lovely in cotton print, in challis or a sheer, novelty woolen. The collar may be made of self fabric or contrasting.

Pattern 2045 is obtainable only in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 6 requires 2⅛ yards of 39-inch material, ½ yard 36-inch contrasting. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

THE NEW FALL CATALOG is now ready. It features the newest in afternoon, sports and house dresses, lingerie, pajamas and kiddies' clothes. BIG BUSINESS SEEKS END OF TRUST BAN

Hoover's Aid Sought on Plea Sherman, Clayton Acts Hinder Trade Recovery

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Big business apparently had a well organized campaign under way today to bring about modification or suspension, if possible—of the anti-trust laws.

Unusual needs arising out of the world depression will be the lever with which the giants of industry will try to move Congress into action at the coming session. It will be asked as emergency legislation.

Within the past 48 hours, President Hoover has been memorialized twice to use his influence in bringing about a lightening of the Sherman and Clayton acts, which were adopted to protect the public from huge combines likely to restrain competitive trade and drive prices upward.

POWERFUL LOBBY SEEN

With such an auspicious start, it was considered inevitable that a powerful lobby would be at work when the legislators assemble in December.

The steel interests, as represented by Charles F. Abbot, executive director of the American Institute of Steel Construction, petitioned Mr. Hoover for complete suspension of the trust laws "during this period of emergency." Representatives of the 19 building trades organizations comprising the Construction League of the United States called at the White House in a body and suggested their modification "would be highly desirable."

In both instances, the appeal was based on a line of reasoning which the President himself had offered to Congress in his last message—that is, that unfortunate wastes and destructive uses of natural resources are being forced by the workings of the laws.

SWOPE GIVES PLAN

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Company, brought forward several days ago a complex plan for meeting the economic depresssion which had particular reference to control of industrial production, especially in reference to the natural resource industries such as coal, lumber, iron, copper and petroleum. There is a general feeling the trust laws would have to be modified to permit its adoption.

Abbott, speaking for the steel interests, indorsed this plan, saying it "would make possible a control of output in keeping with consumption demand" and would "prevent the tremendous losses now being incurred when sales are made at cost, and frequently below cost."

Phila. Man Named Securities Aide

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Samuel M. Pursel, of Harrisburg, formerly of Philadelphia, has been named secretary of the Pennsylvania Securities Commission, William D. Gordon, Secretary of Banking, announced yesterday. Pursel had been senior investigator of the commission. W. Searight Stuart, Carlisle, a member of the commission, had been acting as secretary.

Chicago Welcomes Do As You Please Class

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—The first class to enter the University of Chicago under the new educational plan of "study when you want to, go to class when you want to, get your degree when you can" was welcomed today by President Robert M. Hutchins. Dr. Hutchins said:

"There are very trying and distressing times to the world at large, but very exciting and hopeful times for the University. This is the first class under our new educational plan and the first to have the unusual opportunity to profit fully by their own initiative.

"I believe this class to be one of unusual aptitude (only those with exceptional high school records were admitted) and I feel that the new system is being inaugurated under auspicious circumstances."

TROOPS COMPEL COW TESTS

TIPTON, Ia., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Iowa National Guardsmen have won their first offensive against farmers who for six months have resisted the state bovine tuberculin test law. There was no physical opposition or demonstration against the testing.

Troopers posted machine guns at strategic Cedar County crossroads, marked off a "restricted area" of six square miles embracing farms of seven leaders in the insurrection and clamped down a tight censorship.

After a preliminary skirmish at the farm of J. W. Lenker, which failed to test the strength of the four battalions sent there simply because Lenker's cattle were not on the farm, the guardsmen were deployed on other farms where testing went forward with dispatch. This move, however, came only after Lenker was escorted back to Tipton under military guard and placed in the guardhouse.

Karelitz Transferred By Westinghouse

Dr. George B. Karelitz, manager of the mechanics division of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company research laboratory, in East Pittsburgh, has been transferred to the South Philadelphia works of the company, where he will be division engineer in charge of transportation. R. E. Peterson, research engineer, will be his successor.

Three Bandits Rob Mt. Washington Man

They Got What They Wanted!

Mr. M. B. Frost, Tudor Hall Apts., had a "Chenango" (whatever that is) he no longer needed, thought he could sell it. He put this classified ad in the Sun-Telegraph:

Hunters' "Chenango" camp trailer, two full-sized springs, beds and mattresses; ice box, food and clothing lockers. Tent and beds unfold into large quarters. Screen door and windows. Any reasonable offer. Hazel 0533.

A Sun-Telegraph reader, Mr. James O'Donnell, of Blawnox, knew what a "Chenango" was, needed one to take his family on a hunting trip this fall. Mr. Frost's offer was very interesting. They came to terms. Mr. Frost got the cash he wanted, Mr. O'Donnell got the "Chenango" he wanted. Everybody's satisfied. Sun-Telegraph Classified Ads will help you get what you want, too. Use them. They are money makers.

Sun-Telegraph ad-takers take pains to write classified ads interestingly and effectively. Call GRANT 5400 and let one of these efficient ad-takers help you write your ads.

NEW STATION FOR CRAFTON

In addition to the $450,000 street and subway project in Crafton entailing the removal of a railroad crossing at White street, the establishment of two subways connecting Crafton and Bradford avenues and the widening and extension of several streets, a new $40,000 railroad station will be erected, it has been announced.

Work is ahead of schedule, according to engineers, and should be completed in two months. Linwood avenue, Emily street extension and Vulcan way — newly named Stotts street for the late William H. Stotts, borough councilman who fostered the present changes, are now open for traffic.

The Municipal Building, which has been partially destroyed, will be replaced with a new building. The location has not yet been determined, it is said.

'GHOST' TO TALK IN POLICE TRIAL

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 25.—(INS.)—The "ghost" in the trial of three county officials charged with using "third degree" methods in questioning a Negro prisoner was identified today as John Bucci, a state trooper. William T. Campbell, the prisoner, testified that the officials employed a "ghost" at the Jeffersonville State Police Barracks in an effort to wring a confession from him in connection with the bombing of the home of Eliza K. Jones, Fort Washington Negro, last May.

The defendants charged with the use of the "third degree" methods are Ralph J. Rinalducci, former assistant district attorney; Joseph Trunk, county detective, and Brooks Cassidy, chief of Upper Dublin Township police. The "ghost" was to take the witness stand today.

Mexican Railroad Strike Postponed

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Aquiles Cruz, president of the Federal Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, said today the danger of a strike on the Southern Pacific Railroad of Mexico had been removed for the time being at least. He said the National Transport Union agreed to await the board's finding on the company's petition for authority to cut wages.

Tech to Welcome Freshman Class

A reception of the freshman class of the Carnegie Institute of Technology will be given this evening in the College of Fine Arts by Dean Mary Watson Green and Dean A. W. Tarbell. An informal dance will follow the reception. President Thomas S. Baker will welcome the new class at their first meeting tomorrow morning in the Carnegie Union.

Aged Gang Fighter Routs Pair With Antique Pistol

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—With an old Western-style single-action revolver he took from Bill Doolin, a member of the notrious Dalton gang, "Col." Evett D. Nix, 70-year-old former Deputy United States Marshal in Oklahoma in pioneer days, routed two robbers who attempted to hold up a brokerage firm here in which Nix is an associate.

The pair fled when Nix got the old gun from a brief case after they came in and commanded he open the safe. He fired one shot at their legs but missed. Nix said:

"My eye is bad. I must be getting old."

1 DEAD, 5 HURT IN CRASH

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 25.—Joseph Armel, 19, was killed, Roy Barbour, 15, seriously hurt and four other boys from Bunker Hill less severely hurt when an automobile collided with a bread truck last night.

S. Thomas Parlett, of Winchester, Va., the truck driver, is in jail on a manslaughter warrant. He was arrested by local officers while trying to telephone his brother, an undertaker in Winchester, to come for the bodies.

Investigating officers said Parlett, who is the son of a minister attending a church conference here, was driving on the wrong side of the road.

Hurley Still Opposes Barring Filipinos

MANILA, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley was shown a copy of the resolution adopted by the American Legion convention at Detroit favoring the barring of Filipinos from continental United States except as temporary visitors, said he had opposed Filipino exclusion last year and had not changed his stand.

Burned at Brush Fire, Child to Recover

Mary Kelly, 3, of Curtisville, is in the Allegheny Valley Hospital as a result of burns received last night when her clothing ignited from a brush fire in the back yard. Her father, David Kelly, rolled her in the grass to put out the flames. Her condition is improved this morning, hospital attaches say.

Pinchot Appoints Woman as Sheriff

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Appointment of Mrs. Lelia Stark, of Tunkhannock, as Sheriff of Wyoming County, was announced by Gov. Pinchot. She is the widow of the former Sheriff H. Clymer Stark, who died recently.

Hazing Prohibited In Monaca Schools

MONACA, Pa., Sept. 25.—A resolution prohibiting hazing in any form in Monaca schools was adopted by the Board of Education at a special meeting.

Phila. Sportsman To Marry Artist

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Announcement of the forthcoming marriage of Miss Mary Walsh Kennedy, sister of John Kennedy, Jr., American commissioner at Milan, Italy, to George A. Huhn 3rd, Philadelphia sportsman, was made here.

Miss Kennedy had lived abroad for 12 years, studying art in Rome and Milan. Huhn is a son of the late Samuel P. Huhn, prominent banker.

Landing of Liquor In Canal Zone Upheld

PANAMA, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Claude Garon and Felix Legriguer, owner and master, respectively, of the French sloop Quand Meme, were acquitted in United States District Court yesterday of violating the prohibition law because they landed 110 cases of whisky at Cristobal in the American Canal Zone.

Federal Judge Lenihan invoked the congressional exception pertaining to the transit of liquor through the zone and dismissed the case.

New England G.O.P. Hears Fess at Rally

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—New England Republicans today gathered in the coliseum of the Eastern States exposition for an all New England rally. Amos L. Taylor, chairman of the Massachusetts committee, presided.

The principal speakers on the program were United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, of Huntington, W. Va., director of the women's division of the Republican National Committee.

Federal Sleuths' Travel Stipend Cut $1 Daily

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—The Justice Department has trimmed $1 a day from the traveling allowance of its employes.

The order cuts to $6 a day the subsistence allowed and to $5 a day the allowance permitted instead of subsistence.

It becomes effective October 1 and is expected to save the government $1,000 a day.

Romance Blocked, Son Held as Slayer

PULASKI, Tenn., Sept. 25.—(INS.)—Charged with slaying his father, who objected to his marriage, L. C. Shelton, young farmer, is held here. The elder Shelton was felled from ambush by shotgun fire. Young Shelton denied the charge.

The father had refused consent to his son's marriage to Miss Sophia Moore, daughter of a neighbor, on the ground the couple were too young.

Train Kills Five Members of Band

TYNGSBORO, Mass., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Five men were killed last night as their automobile was struck by an express train of the Boston and Maine Railroad at a private crossing here.

They were members of a band which had played at an outing of the Yorick Club of Lowell. They were identified as John Carlson, James Buckley, Edward C. Looney, William A. D. Bugley and Michael Vendituoli.

OFFICERS RAID NEW BREWERY

Police today were searching for the owner of a newly-built wildcat brewery they reported finding in a raid late yesterday in the basement of a garage in the rear of Cape May avenue, Beechview.

The brewery, one of the largest ever raided here, was built at a cost of between $10,000 and $15,000, police estimated. Six wooden vats of 1,000-gallon capacity each were destroyed and other paraphernalia seized.

Neighbors complained to police that trucks were busy hauling cargoes into the garage at night. When police under Acting Inspector Philip Senneway investigated they found the building dark. They were about to leave when one of their number, peering through a ventilating fan, saw the vats in the basement. They then broke into the place.

Police quoted John McMonigle, of Alden street, alleged owner of the building, as saying he leased the property, September 1, to the "C. J. Kline Company," which he understood to be an automobile repair firm.

FALL MARKET WEEK SET

"Fall Market Week" will be observed in Pittsburgh next Tuesday to Friday, under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. W. P. Benson, chairman of the wholesalers council of the Chamber, said today it is expected the week will mark one of the most extensive trade promotion movements undertaken in the Pittsburgh district in years.

The program calls for daily lectures and merchandising clinics for visiting retailers. It will open officially Tuesday night with a banquet in the Chamber, when James Francis Burke and Edgar J. Kaufmann will be the principal speakers.

The clinic lectures will be given by A. J. Luther and F. L. Anderson, merchandising experts of Chicago.

Hitch-Hiker Again Faces Slaying Trial

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Re-trial of Richard Nash Burrows, Chicago youth, accused of the slaying in April, 1929, of Jack Martin, Mesa, (Ariz.) salesman, opened here.

Burrows, a hitch-hiker at the time of the slaying, was convicted at the first trial of slaying Martin, who had picked him up on a lonely road. Burrows was alleged to have buried the body and stolen Martin's automobile. The State Supreme Court granted a re-trial because of prejudicial errors.

Politician Freed Of Liquor Charges

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25.—(AP)—John Lazia, North Side political leader, was freed of connection with an alleged million dollar liquor conspiracy here in which he and 46 others were indicted last spring.

The indictment was dismissed by Federal Judge Albert J. Reeves when Charles Carolla assumed responsibility for all acts charged against Lazia. Carolla pleaded guilty and paid a total fine of $3,500.

Fire Prevention Advice Distributed

Firemen attached to engine houses throughout the city are visiting homes and business establishments, distributing pamphlets issued in connection with fire prevention week to be observed October 4 to 10, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and the city fire bureau. The pamphlets tell the location of the nearest fire alarm boxes and suggest precautions for fire hazards.

Braddock Slaying Suspect Sought

County detectives and Braddock police today were searching for a Negro known only as "Cotto" in connection with the fatal shooting last night of Fred Green, 38, a Negro, of 906 Halket street, Braddock, in Washington street, Braddock, last night. Green shot in an argument, was pronounced dead at Braddock General Hospital.

AUTOIST SLAIN, WIFE HELD

FAIRBURN, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—A coroner's jury found Charles M. Carran, of Jacksonville, Fla., was killed by a "person or persons unknown," and ordered his widow, Mrs. Romie Carran, held as an "accessory or accomplice."

The inquest was conducted without the presence of Mrs. Carran. Since her husband's death early Tuesday she has maintained their automobile was crowded from the road by two Negroes in another car, who murdered Carran, robbed her of $200 and left her bound and gagged by the roadside.

Chief G. C. Bentley, of the Campbell County police, said she had admitted she had made a trip over the road on which the slaying occurred the day previous in the company of a man she said was Bud James, of Atlanta. Bentley testified Mrs. Carran first said her husband had accompanied her on the first trip.

Blind Man Driving Auto With Son's Aid Banned

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Here's a case where family co-operation didn't work. Blinded recently when a dynamite charge went off prematurely where he was working, Emory McQuait, of New Granada, didn't want to give up driving his car. So he continued to manipulate clutch, brake, gears and throttle while his 10-year-old son sat on his lap, steered and told father about the grades. Although the combination got along without an accident, state highway patrolmen ordered McQuait to quit driving. "Too dangerous," they said.

N. Y.-Pacific Planes' Reliability Shown

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—United Air Lines mail planes between New York and the Pacific Coast were on time or better on 146 out of 186 trips in August, the company reported to the Postoffice Department.

WHEELER URGES 5 BILLION LOAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(Universal)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, sailing for Europe, announced his support of the $5,000,000,000 Prosperity Loan plan.

Senator Wheeler also predicted Gov. Roosevelt would be nominated Democratic candidate for President on the first ballot. The Senator, who came out in favor of world bi-metalism, sailed on the United States liner George Washington to attend sessions of the Inter-parliamentary Union at Budapest. Speaking of the plan for a $5,000,000,000 bond issue, he said:

"Something must be done to raise revenue, either by a bond issue or by taxation. The government must assist in feeding the farmers and others, establish a dole, or appropriate money. I do not think there is any doubt that the Prosperity Loan would stimulate business and aid in bringing back prosperity."

Wife No. 28 Gets Annulment of Marriage

She married Flood in 1926, since then he married a twenty-ninth wife, Jessie Ball, of Oakland. Through her he was sent to Folsom Prison, where he is serving time for bigamy.

Flood admitted 29 marriages in 20 years and said he had had more than 400 sweethearts.

British Auto Maker Cites Gain in Sales

BIRMINGHAM, England, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Sir William Morris, British automobile manufacturer, said in a speech here that in his opinion "the position of this country today is better than it has been for years."

He added that his company during the financial year just concluded sold 27 per cent more cars than in any other year in its history.

MOSES URGES EASTERN BLOC

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, has advocated the formation of a New England senatorial bloc, which, he predicted, would control the United States Senate. He spoke at the convention of the Massachusetts Co-operative Bankers' League. He said:

"Such a bloc would result perhaps selfishly for us, but unselfishly for all the United States—this because of the attributes of New England, which is self-supporting, self-respecting and does not yammer at the gates of Congress to have the government do those things which individuals should do themselves."

He urged that New England investors organize to back such a bloc and said that millions of dollars invested by New England people was in constant peril from legislation. He said he wondered why "an impudent minority in Congress make these investors take it lying down."

DOCTORS PLOT VICTIMS, 3 HELD

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Three men alleged by police to have extorted thousands of dollars from physicians, were arrested last night while one of their victims was paying them $7,000. The men held are Charles Fried, 33, Joseph Haddad, 31, and Morris Bogolowski, 35, all ex-convicts.

The gang, police said, made a practice of levying tribute on their victims under threat of spreading rumors to the effect that the physicians were engaged in irregular business. Failing in this, homes of those marked for blackmail were bombed.

Dr. Elmer Howe, whose home has been twice bombed, brought about the arrests when he informed police, after first agreeing to meet the extortionists in the office of an attorney designated by the men. The attorney, unable to satisfactorily explain his connection with the case, also was held.

HUNTERS FAVOR GAME BIRD PLAN

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—The annual convention of the International Association of Fish, Game and Conservation Commissioners has approved in principle a plan for a migratory bird restoration program.

Seth Gordon, president of the American Game Association, in presenting the plan, asserted the "only possible way to save the sport of waterfowl shooting is for the sportsmen themselves to foot the bill."

The plan calls for a $25,000,000 loan from Congress to be repaid by the sportsmen through a $1 federal license to hunt migratory game birds, the licenses to be distributed by postoffices.

He estimated the income from such a license would be from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 annually.

72 Gambling Raid Victims Released

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—"North Side Frankie" Pope and 71 other defendants seized during a recent raid on the Aquarium Social Club, a gambling house, were liberated by Judge Thomas A. Green. He ruled that the raiders had entered illegally without search warrants. Judge Green also ordered the roulette wheels, blackjack tables and other gambling paraphernalia returned.

LUTHERANS ASK STUDY ABROAD

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—A resolution urging that young men be sent to Europe for study was passed at the closing session of the annual conference of the United Lutheran Church.

The resolution petitions the general conference of Lutheran churches to finance study of 10 men each year in Europe. It points out the supply of German-speaking pastors is rapidly decreasing and that study abroad is necessary.

The Rev. Dr. Frederick H. Knubel, president of the church, said a Brazilian synod would probably be added to the United Lutheran church organization.

He pleaded for greater unity in church work and asserted he believed the United States and Germany could lead "the world out of the spiritual and economic depths into which it has fallen."

FIRE ENCIRCLES TOWN OF 200

OKIAH, Cal., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Forest and Brush fires swept Mendocino County.

At Wendling, 20 miles east of Fort Bragg, 200 persons fought to save the town from a circle of flame that was creeping up on four sides.

State Forester M. B. Pratt, at Sacramento, while unable to get complete reports of conditions, said they were the worst in the history of the county. More than $100,000 damage had been done and many persons were forced to leave their homes in the isolated areas of the county.

Macfadden Forms Charity Foundation

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Formation of the Bernarr Macfadden Foundation, a charitable corporation, and the gift to it of property he valued at approximately $5,000,000 by Bernarr Macfadden, publisher, was announced by Joseph Schultz, attorney.

The purpose for which the income and the property are to be used, as shown by the certificate of incorporation of the foundation are, among others, to maintain and conduct institutions, establish scholarships, maintain sanitariums, gymnasiums, camps and other outdoor recreational facilities.

Canada Labor Drops Attack on Asiatics

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada have decided to strike from its platform a clause favoring the "exclusion of all Asiatics" and in its place approve a clause reading "exclusion of all races which cannot properly be assimilated into the national life of Canada."

The change was made at the instance of the Vancouver Camp and Mill Workers' Union, composed largely of Japanese workers.

Religion Teacher, Ex-Ohioan, Dies

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Dr. Frederick Fisher, 71, for 10 years dean of the school of religion and professor of theology at the University of Southern California, died at his home yesterday. Dr. Fisher was born at Steubenville, O., was a graduate of Mt. Union College, Alliance, O., and a member of the East Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church for seven years.

Dewitt Clinton Engine's 'Ghost' Runs by Voice

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—A hundred years ago the "DeWitt Clinton" pulled the first passenger train between Albany and Schenectady. The electric "ghost" of that famous locomotive last night obeyed spoken commands like a trained dog as the General Electric Company made the celebration of the first passenger run an example of the progress of science.

Members of the State Historical Society, the Chamber of Commerce and other bodies saw R. D. Starbuck, first vice president of the New York Central Railroad, bring the foot-long miniature of the DeWitt Clinton out of the "roundhouse" by saying "please come out" into a telephone transmitter. The track lay 30 feet along the speaker's table, and the locomotive stopped, started and reversed at command.

JOB INSURANCE EFFECTS TOLD

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—A system of unemployment insurance operated by industry, which he believed better than government effort along the same line, was described at an unemployment conference here by Marion B. Folsom, Rochester, N. Y.

Folsom's plan, which he said is now being used by 14 industries employing 26,000 men in his home city, called for the establishment of a fund by the employer and the payment from this of 60 per cent of the normal wage to unemployed workers. This insurance would be payable for 13 weeks. Only in case of "emergency" would the employe contribute to the insurance fund. Then he would give 1 per cent of his weekly salary or wage, and this amount would be matched by the employer. Payment of the insurance would start after two weeks' unemployment.

This plan, Folsom believed, guarantees security for the employe, does not destroy the employe's incentive to save, does not reduce the employe's purchasing power materially during the period of unemployment, and reduces the expenses of charitable organizations.

Alcohol Bootlegging Sends 9 to Jail

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Nine persons convicted in Federal Court of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law in bringing 110,000 gallons of rubbing alcohol from Brooklyn, N. Y., treating it and selling it here through bootleg channels, were sentenced to serve terms ranging from three months to three years.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

In a Restaurant

A HUMAN interest story without too much tragedy is a tough thing to dig up these days. I guess I was lucky to be a party to this one. It's not a particularly easy yarn to write, so please permit me to give it to you exactly as it occurred. Will you? Thanks very much.

I sat in one of the most popular restaurants on Broadway a few nights ago with a gentleman whose name here shall be no more than Harry. Harry is one of the best known insurance men in the Times Square sector and has more friends than all the columnists in town put together.

Harry was talking.

"Did you hear Al Jolson's latest gag?" he asked me.

I told him I didn't think I had.

"Well," he asserted, "it happened in one of those chain restaurants that are so popular around the country now. A waitress passed a man's table and the customer called out to her.

"'Hey, miss,' he chirped, 'can you tell me the correct time?'

"The girl breezed right by.

"'Sorry, sir,' she replied as she moved along. 'This is not my table.'"

I wrote the gag on the back of an envelope and smiled at Harry.

"Thanks, kid," I offered. "And thank Al if you happen to see him. A good gag is a rarity these days."

The insurance man nodded glumly.

"Not only gags, Mark," he returned. "Anything good is a rarity these days. I want to tell you, pal, that I don't feel so hot about a lot of things."

The same old story. Oh, well.

"What's the matter, Harry?" I chimed in. "You're not going to give me the crying act, too, are you? We all know that business is not so good and that money is tight. You don't have to tell me about it."

He sighed.

"It's not quite that," he returned. "Money wouldn't be half so tight as far as I'm concerned if I could only draw in some of the dough that's owed me. That's something I can't do—and I'd like to show you why."

He drew a little red book from his vest pocket. Carefully covering the rest of the names, he showed me the three names that led a page—and the amounts beside them. The first name was that of a famous stage figure who died several months ago in destitute circumstances. As a matter of fact, his financial condition had been so bad that his friends had been compelled to chip in for a decent burial.

"See what that poor guy owed me when he bumped off, Mark?" he asked. "Just $2,460. What I couldn't do with that $2,460 now is nobody's business. It would help me more than I can ever tell you.

"But what's the use of even discussing it? The poor fellow is gone—and so is his debt to me. I just look at the amount, sigh and forget it."

I shook my head.

My conversational partner flicked the ash from a cigaret.

"I wouldn't be that much of a rat, Mark. His wife has barely enough to live on. If she can get along the way she is, why should I step into the picture with my worries? Why tell her that her actor-husband died with a debt of $2,460 to me? It isn't her fault.

"No, pal. The best thing I can do is to forget it." . . .

A party of men walked into the restaurant and sat at a nearby table. Race track men, most of them. One of them looked at Harry, scowled mightily and stepped over to our table.

"Have you made up your mind to pay me that dough yet?" he growled.

The insurance man bit his lip.

"Listen, George," he said. "I try to be a pretty square guy. I know that I owe you $2,000—and you know what I told you when I made those last bets. If you want to get nasty about it, go ahead. But I can't possibly pay you for at least another month."

The race track man leaned closer.

"All I know," he muttered, "is that you owe me two grand and that you're going to pay it. I don't want to start any trouble in this restaurant because I'm too good a friend of the owner.

"But if you think you're going to get away with a two grand welch, you can think again. My lawyer was down to the track with me this afternoon and he's sitting with me now. I'm going to tell him all about this and I can guarantee that he'll tie up your business as you never saw it tied before. You're going to pay, baby. You're not dealing with any cheap bookmaker when you're dealing with me."

He stormed back to his own table. Harry looked after him and shook his head. He offered me a sad smile.

"Sorry you had to hear all that, Mark, but you might as well hear the entire story now. It's not really my fault.

"I don't know whether you know it or not, but I played the track pretty heavily earlier this season. I began to book with the man who was just standing here—and before I knew it, I had gone for almost $15,000.

"But you know how a mug gets. I figured that if I kept on just a little longer, I'd get it all back. My bankroll was gone, so I put it squarely up to the bookmaker.

"I told him that I had no more ready cash, but that my business looked pretty solid. I asked him if, in view of the fact that I had already lost $15,000 to him, I could keep betting for a short while. He patted me on the back and told me my credit was always good with him.

"I thanked him and repeated that I migh not be able to pay him for several months to come. My answer was another pat on the back.

"'Harry,' he said, 'you're a swell guy. You can owe me money just as long as you wish. If you lose, you can pay me next month or next year. Go to it.'

"Well, I went to it. And before I was through, even with what I thought was very conservative betting, I had dropped another $2,000. Then I quit.

"The result you see. He's already sent a few allegedly tough guys to see me and I ran them out of my office. Now he's going to put his lawyer on me. And it's not fair, Mark. It's honestly not fair.

"Because if he hadn't assured me that I could wait several months, I swear that I wouldn't have placed another bet."

Before I had a chance to offer any comment, a second man arose from the nearby table and walked over to Harry. He took a card from his pocket and handed it to the insurance man.

"I am your debtor's attorney," he asserted curtly. "I would suggest that you stop in to see me tomorrow morning. We will discuss the debt before I take action."

He walked away. Harry looked at the card, appeared startled for a moment and then broke into a loud laugh. When I looked at the card, I knew why.

The lawyer was the brother of the actor who had died owing Harry $2,460 . . .

11 COAL MINERS HELD IN STRIKE

ATHENS, O., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Eleven men were under arrest and warrants had been sworn out for two more today as Athens County authorities continued their policy of keeping a firm rein on the strike of coal miners against the Sunday Creek Coal Company.

A warrant for the arrest of Lee Hall, president of the Sixth District of the United Mine Workers of America, has been sworn out. David Watkins, vice president of the district, which embraces all of Ohio's coal fields, was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn by George K. Smith, president of the coal company, charging contempt of court.

Watkins and eight miners arrested with him are accused of violating provisions of a picketing injunction. All are free on bond after pleading not guilty.

Deacon Hops Freight After Marrying 4

THE PAS, Manitoba, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Love laughs at locksmiths and freight trains. Archdeacon Faries swung off a freight train here, married two couples and caught the caboose as the train started again. The two ceremonies took four minutes. The archdeacon had to hurry, for the next train would not come through for two months.

AL SMITH TURNS SPHINX; STILL PARTY BOSS

Most Important Figure in Democratic Race; Parries Questions on His Future

By LOUIS SEIBOLD

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Every caller is assured a whole-hearted welcome in the room that looks down from the thirty second floor of the towering Empire State Building on Fifth avenue, where it bisects Thirty-third street. But if you are on a professional interviewing mission, as was this reporter, you will have to guess again.

Alfred Emanuel Smith, national leader of the Democratic party admirably plays the unaccustomed role of sphinx. He says he was adjourned politics, despite his 30-year indulgence in the game,—believe it or not. Not the least important reason for his veto of leading questions is the conviction that the average man is now more interested in trying to find the ham to fit into a sandwich than in the technical maneuvering of professional politicians.

WHIMSICAL PARRIES

In top-notch political form, clear of eye, concisive in statement, he sits in his shirt sleeves, pays frequent attention to a well-chewed cigar and parries with whimsical subtlety.

Is he ambitious for another try for the presidency?

He won't say and has not given anybody else the right to say. What is his opinion of the prospects of Gov. Roosevelt and other men?

That's out, too.

But Mr. Smith's present lack of interest in political problems, imparted with an unctious and friendly grin, does not mean that he is not as well posted and as keenly alert to the activities of others as any man in the country. Leaders of his own party see to that.

Sandwiched in among men and women on ordinary business bent, a steady stream of Democratic leaders from all sections of the country daily thread a path from the elevator to the room where he does business. They usually find him momentarily reaching for a phone, or disposing of pressing matters through his business associates and secretaries.

REGARDED AS LEADER

The attitude of his party associates—to whom his door is always open—does not permit of any doubt that they regard him as the leader of the national Democratic organization.

Concerning candidates, of which there has unquestionably been a lot of confidential talk between the Empire State (political) sphinx and state leaders, opinion seems to prevail among the latter that he still remains the most important figure in the presidential picture.

Men of this mind concede the popularity of Gov. Roosevelt because of his tremendous vote and fine record. He is still regarded, however, as being some distance from the objective. In their calculations Mr. Smith comes first.

Americans Give Mustapha Kemal Prize Herd

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(INS.) Twelve American beauties, flower and pride of Ohio and New York state farms, were to leave here today to be presented as a good-will gift to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, president of Turkey.

The dozen consisted of six American pedigreed cows, two bulls and four heifers, sent by the cattle breeders of the two states, through the American Friends of Turkey.

The herd, valued at $60,000, is destined for Angora, where it will be used for inter-breeding with Turkish dairy cattle.

AIR LINE ELECTS PITTSBURGHER

Richard W. Robbins, of Pittsburgh, prominent in aviation circles in the eastern part of the country, has been elected president of the Transcontinental and Western Air Inc., it was announced yesterday in New York. The election took place at a meeting of the board of the organization, according to C. M. Keyes, chairman of the board.

Mr. Keyes last night sent a telegram announcing the election of Mr. Robbins, to C. B. Monro, secretary of the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation.

SEEKS CUSTODY OF INFANT

Seeking custody of his daughter, Gwendolyn, nine months old, David P. Ryan, of Ingram, procured a writ of habeas corpus in Common Pleas Court, directed to his wife, Thelma L. Ryan, 231 Newburn drive, Mt. Lebanon. They were married June 7, 1930, and she left him September 5, this year, without reasonable cause, taking the child with her, he stated.

Ryan charged she refused to let him see the child and also refused to let him have custody for a visit. He declared his wife is unfit to have custody and unable to support the child. A hearing was fixed for October 1 by Judge Joseph M. Swearingen.

Ex-Ohio Constable Faces Dope Trial

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 25.—Thomas Crosby, former constable of Campbell, O., recent candidate for sheriff of Mahoning County, is one of five defendants scheduled to go on trial today in Federal Court here for violation of the Harrison narcotic law.

Eugene Renaldo, of Youngstown; Abe Steinberg, of New Castle; Louis Goldberg, of New Castle; Ernest Johnson, of Campbell, all arrested with the former constable, will plead guilty to the charges against them, government agents said.

MOSLEMS FAIL IN THRONE PLOT

SRINAGAR, India, Sept. 25—(AP)—Nineteen persons were killed in this vicinity in an outbreak of communal rioting last night when Moslems attacked Hindu pickets. The Hindus replied with rifle fire after 12 of their number had been wounded and the Moslems dropped.

The London Daily Mail said the mortalities were the result of a Moslem conspiracy to dethrone the Maharajah of Kashmir, Sir Hari Singh, a Hindu, and replace him with Inayatullah, an Afghan, who once was Emir of Afghanistan for three-days. The latter was said to be waiting on the border for developments.

MERCHANTS AID EAST ENDERS

To stimulate business and afford relief to the needy of the Homewood-Brushton district, Homewood and Brushton merchants have inaugurated a "prosperity drive," it was announced today by Chairman Morris Browey. Headquarters have been opened at 709 Homewood avenue from where toy balloons are being released entitling the finders to valuable prizes.

Homewood merchants have also announced that Homewood school children, being kept from school because they have no shoes, will be furnished with footwear by Homewood merchants. Baskets are also being prepared for distribution to the needy.

New York to Greet Rescued Sea Fliers

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(INS.)—A hearty welcome was being prepared today for Wilhelm Rody, Christian Johanssen and Fernando Costa Viega, the fliers rescued after floating a week in the Atlantic Ocean when disaster interrupted their attempt to fly from Portugal to New York in their plane, the Esa.

They are due here this afternoon on the Stavangerfjord, the boat to which they were transferred after being picked up by another vessel.

PROBE EXPOSES TAMMANY

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(INS.)—Political New York was rocking today from the force with which the lid covering the alleged secret alliance between crime and gambling with politics had been ripped off.

Astounding revelations before the Hofstadter legislative investigating committee today included these salient developments:

Testimony by Police Inspector Charles Stilson that a double murder in a Tammany club during a card game five years ago had never been thoroughly investigated by either police or the District Attorney's office.

Disclosure by Police Capt. Lewis J. Valentine that four gangsters confessed after a holdup they lost thousands of dollars gambling in Tammany political clubs.

Charges that professional gambling was common in a well-known Republican club.

Westinghouse Men To Survey Europe

A survey of the European situation as it affects their companies will be made by A. L. Humphrey, president, and C. A. Rowan, executive president of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, and G. A. Government-Paid Physicians Forecast

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 25—(AP.)—Physicians commandeered and paid by the government are inevitable unless medical men devise some means of caring for people at fees within their ability to pay, C. S. Blake, of the Lord Lister Hospital, Omaha, Neb., told the convention of Clinic Managers of America.

Neither the public nor the profession is satisfied with the present system which gives adequate treatment only to the wealthy and the indigent, he asserted. He advocated contract medical service, which, he said, had been tried out successfully by industrial concerns in the United States.

Airship Up Nearly 4 Hours in Dark; To Fly Sunday

AKRON, O., Sept. 25.—(INS.)—The U. S. S. Akron, world's largest airship, was back in her vast hangar today following her second successful trial flight.

The "Queen of the Air" was docked shortly before midnight after she had cruised over Akron for three hours and 50 minutes in her first night venture into the air.

The third trial of the Akron was tentatively set to begin during the sunset hour Sunday, by Rear Admiral George C. Day, president of the Navy Board of Inspection and Survey.

Last night's flight was made to determine the workability of the Navy dirigible's elevator apparatus and rudder controls. Aboard the 785-foot air monster on her second cruise were 109 passengers, including many Navy and government notables and representatives of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, buider of the Akron.

Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl was again at the helm as commander of the huge airship. Not a single mishap has thus far marred the two test flights of the Akron.

League Tries Remote Control On Chinese War

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

The League of Nations has solved the Japanese-Chinese trouble in the fashionable West Side of Manchuria.

It has given Japan sealed orders not to be opened until the war is over.

Up to date Japan has captured 15 Chinese cities and a Stimson note.

It's the first real test of the League's ability to bring disorder out of chaos. And this war hasn't even stopped for lunch.

Well, you can't understand the Oriental mind. They say Gandhi laughed himself curly over Charley Chaplin's funny clothes.

MAN ARRESTED, SAYS HE SLEPT AT WHEEL

Truck Driver, Held After Machine Struck House, Lays Accident to Nap

Two persons, one a policeman, were injured in automobile accidents late yesterday and early today.

B. B. Clark, of 406 Rochelle street, was treated at Allegheny General Hospital for cuts after his automobile skidded and ran over the curb in the 2300 block of East Ohio street. Miss Vern Dunlap, of 1213 Sandusky street, who was riding with him, was uninjured.

Motorcycle Patrolman George J. Sallade, of 6816 Simonton street, was in Mercy Hospital from injuries received when his motorcycle collided with an automobile in the Boulevard of the Allies in front of Magee Hospital late yesterday. Morris Bowers, of 67 Sheridan avenue, Bellevue, alleged driver of the automobile, was arrested. Sallade suffered a fractured right foot and bruises.

Charles Smith, 30, of 23 Center street, Hays, was held in Center Avenue Police Station on a charge of reckless driving after the truck he was driving ran into the front of the home of James Aggazio, of Webster avenue. Police said he told them he was sleeping at the wheel.

MAN CLEARED IN GANG DEATH

Surrendered to homicide detectives by his attorney, Frank Zappala, Joseph Gallo, 32, of 7620 Hamilton avenue, was exonerated of complicity in the murder of Joseph Siragusa, reputed head of the "yeast racket," in his Beechwood boulevard home two weeks ago.

Gallo was discharged by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court.

Gallo, bearing the same name as that of a suspect sought by detectives, was turned over to them by Zappala "to clear his name."

It developed that a man and his wife living nearby had, on the morning of the murder, seen an automobile containing three men drive up to Siragusa's home. One left the machine and peered into Siragusa's windows and then beckoned to his comrades. All three then entered the house.

Meanwhile the search for Joseph Gallo, said to be a fugitive from New York, continues.

Swimming Teacher Eloper Sentenced

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Raymond M. Richards, a swimming instructor who eloped to San Francisco from Los Angeles with Miss Lillian E. Ott, 20, of New York, was convicted on misdemeanor counts in Municipal Court here and given a six months' suspended sentence. Frank E. Ott swore to the complaint on which Richards was convicted after he traced his daughter to San Francisco.

J. R. DODWORTH DIES IN CANADA

James R. Dodworth, 61, of 934 West North avenue, prominent in musical and business circles of Pittsburgh, died yesterday at his summer cottage at Stony Lake, near Petersborough, Ontario, according to word received here. For many years he was organist at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, retiring 10 years ago.

He was president, treasurer and a director of the Pittsburgh Hanover Coal Company, and president of the Callinan McKay Exploration Company, with offices in the Vandergrift Building. He is survived by his wife and three sons.

Penna. Grange Head Flays Land Policy

MEDFORD LAKE, N. J., Sept. 25.—(AP.)—E. B. Dorsett, master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, attacked the federal land reclamation policy at the annual outing of the New Jersey State Grange.

Advocating the abandonment of "Hoover Dam, Boulder Dam and every other dam project," Dorsett told his audience that the government spent millions on the one hand to provide new farm lands, and additional millions on the other through the Farm Board in an attempt to take care of surplus farm products.

Tugs Refloat Liner Grounded 3 Days

COLON, Panama, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—Refloated by tugs and dredges after being aground here for three days, the 14,000-ton American liner President Lincoln was being put in condition today to resume her voyage to New York.

Steamship company officials said divers will make a thorough inspection of the ship's hull.

Three Store Robbers Flee Amid Police Shots

Three men, surprised while attempting to break into an Army and Navy store at 6258 Frankstown avenue, early today, escaped after police fired three shots at them.

Patrolman Morris Marks and John Bowers, sent to the store in a scout car when word of the attempted robbery was flashed by the police radio operator, found the robbers at work at a rear door. When the men ran the police opened fire, but they escaped in the darkness.

The police found a panel had been removed from the door and one iron bar at a window was sawed through. The store has been robbed several times, according to police.

Pittsburgh Women Lauded For Smart Apparel By Paris Expert

Pittsburgh women are very smart and show good taste in the selection of their gowns, according to Madame Germaine de Renty, directoire of the Societe des Couturiers, who is reviewing fashion features of the season modeled by Paris mannequins at the Boggs & Buhl store today.

Eighty-five original creations from Paris, models that will influence fashions for fall and winter, are being reviewed by Madame de Renty, who comments upon details and accessories. Each mannequin is a graduate model from a famous designer's house in Paris. Madame de Renty just received her master of arts degree at the University of Sorbonne in Paris a week before she sailed for America. She said:

"The new mode is more and more feminine, et tres joli. Diagonal lines are everywhere to be found, in trimmings and material. Woolens are tres bonne. Transparent and corduroy jerseys are fashionable. A new material, peau d'ange (angel-skin) is so very good. Like a petal of the rose to the touch."

Hats are small, says Madame de Renty, and worn over one eye. They are trimmed with fur, with ribbon and with feathers. Feather trimming for street hats is not good, she said. Skirts continue to be very long.

MASTERS TAKE CLUB CARRIER NICKELS

County Employe Named as Collector at South Park; Seldom Seen on Course

The "nickel-a-round" system, whereby caddies pay their caddy masters five cents before they go out to carry their employers' clubs over golf courses, applies to South and North parks of the county, Schenley Park in the city, and private and municipal courses here and elsewhere.

The caddy masters not only reap the "nickel harvest," but are on the payrolls of the county, city or private clubs as well.

The system, drawing fire from some golfers and caddies, is an old one, and on some private courses the toll taken from the boys reaches as high as 15 cents a round.

COUNTY EMPLOYE NAMED

These facts, revealed today by caddies and heads of the courses, followed the statements that James Comorada, a county employe who is said to conduct a downtown restaurant and who is rarely seen at South Park, gets the nickels collected there by an assistant, Tony Marouse, also a county employe. South Park caddies include many adult miners who have families and are out of regular employment, it was said.

James McFarland, professional at the North Park course, stated the custom of caddies thus contributing part of their receipts followed a national custom. He said:

"Mind, I'm not taking responsibility for it, but it's done everywhere and considered part of the job. If the boys don't have it here, they don't have to pay. The caddymaster here (Jim Ladley) gets laborer's wages, $4, and works all hours, in the summer, sometimes as late as 11 o'clock. It's understood that the caddies give a nickel. I personally am not interested in the system, but it's in every city course, Schenley included, in the country. At some private clubs the boys pay up to 15 cents a round."

SOME OBJECT

While some of the boys at South Park, stating they rarely saw Comorada except Saturdays and Sundays, objected to paying the nickel, the boys in the North Park said they didn't mind. One remarked:

Woman And 3 Men Convicted of Arson

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 25.—Four out of five defendants charged with setting fire to the Baxter restaurant in Connellsville were convicted. The fifth, James Torch, who was stricken ill during the trial, was acquitted. Tom Baxter, one of Connellsville's best known men, his wife, Bella; John Sarne and Thomas Rose, were convicted of arson and conspiracy to defraud insurance companies. Mercy was recommended for Mrs. Baxter.

The commonwealth contended that the five plotted to burn the Baxter restaurant and collected $9,000 insurance.

Prowling Panther Alarms Residents

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 25.—Residents of Mudlick, Brighton Township, are alarmed over the presence there of a mountain lion or panther. Several men are scouring the woods.

Mrs. James Stevens and Mrs. Anna Simmons, report seeing the lion attack a dog and later climb into a tree. They fled and gave the alarm.

JUDGE THREATENS ATTORNEYS IN FRAUD TRIAL CLASHES

SCORES DELAY DUE TO LEGAL CONFLICTS

Lawyers Face Banishment as Sexton Resumes Stand on Society Leaders' Charges

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 25.—Vexed at the delays in the trial of H. Clayton Sexton, Pittsburgh certified public accountant, charged with fraudulent conversion by Mrs. Jean P. Dawson and Mrs. Vye Thompson, widow of Col. "Joe" Thompson, World War hero, Judge W. C. McConnel today threatened attorneys for both sides with banishment.

Judge McConnel told the array of high-priced counsel that almost one-third of the time of yesterday's session was taken up in bickering between attorneys and added that unless the practice ceased today certain of them would be missing from the courtroom.

Sexton resumed the witness stand for cross-examination when court opened this morning. He is accused by the Patterson Heights society matrons with obtaining $100,000 from them by fraud.

The case may go to the jury tomorrow.

CAUGHT AFTER OFFICER USES GUN IN CHASE

Accused of Entering Home, Preparing Meal and Then Leaving With Plunder

Because he stopped to give a dime to two small children playing in the rear of an apartment house from which he is alleged to have stolen clothing and jewelry, Jack Williams, 23, of New York, was held today by Mt. Lebanon police for questioning in connection with the robbery of three exclusive apartment houses in Mt. Lebanon and Oakland.

BETRAYED BY WOMAN

Mrs. J. Frank Beaman, who lives across the hall, told police she saw Williams enter the apartment. She said:

"He turned on the lights and left the door open. I could see him search Mrs. McFarlane's dresser through a shutter in my door. I tried to get the janitor and then the police. He left the apartment with a black handbag and started toward the rear of the building. I ran out front and screamed for the police."

According to police, Williams entered the apartment of Mrs. Bess McFarlane, of 44 Academy avenue, Mt. Lebanon, an Avalon school teacher, went to the kitchen and prepared himself something to eat, and then ransacked the apartment.

On his way out, police said, Williams encountered Louis Grasmick, 3, of 45 Shady drive, and Harold Taylor, 5, of 41 Shady drive, playing in a vacant lot in the rear of the apartment. He gave them a dime and said:

"Here, kiddies, buy yourself some ice cream."

Delayed by his act, Williams was captured at Florence place, several blocks away, by Patrolman John Housley, who fired two shots over his head as he attempted to flee, according to police.

Articles of clothing and jewelry in his possession were identified by Mrs. McFarlane and by F. L. Cottringer, of the Baywood Apartments, Baywood avenue, whose home was ransacked a few hours earlier.

Senator Weingartner Slated As Speaker at Ambridge; Grape Juice to Be Topic

Messages from directors of departments were to occupy most of the final sessions of the Beaver County W. C. T. U.'s fiftieth annual convention in Ambridge today.

Outstanding on the program were a message from Mrs. S. R. Riddle on non-alcoholic grape juices and an address by State Senator George T. Weingartner, of Beaver County.

Asked their opinions on the Wickersham Committee's report on prohibition, State President Ella B. Black and Mrs. Alvin Sherbine, general secretary of the young peoples' branch of the state union, issued statements at yesterday's meeting. Mrs. Black said:

"Augustus Busch advocates 4 per cent beer as a cure for the unemployment situation, saying it would bring prosperity to the nation and happiness to the workingman. Mary Harris Armor says:

"'People who believe this will go to heaven—the Lord will not hold anyone responsible who has so little brains.'

DUQUESNE CHIEF ACCUSED IN VOTE ROW

Alderman Reserves Ruling; Officers, Citizens Face Charges of Polls Attacks

Decision was reserved in the hearing of Police Chief Thomas J. Flynn, of Duquesne, and several other policemen and citizens of that city charged with violation of the election laws and assault and battery, before Alderman John F. Kenna, South Beatty street, last night.

The men were arrested following charges filed by four residents of Duquesne, who said blackjacks had been used by the police in an attempt to protect alleged election gangsters at the primary.

Albert Dopcus, 432 South Second street, Duquesne, overseer in the Third Ward and one of those who brought suit against the policemen, said two of the prosecutors had been blackjacked and another punched in the face.

He declared Chief Flynn deliberately violated the election laws in every ward of the city by entering and loafing about the polling places, never staying away the 100 feet prescribed by law.

Many See Flowers

Have you ever seen more enormous dahlias than those at the Sewickley Flower Show, which opened yesterday in the Guild Hall and will close tomorrow night? And such vivid-hued spears of gladioli there were, and dahlias and asters.

Among the exhibits was a miniature garden, surrounded by a white pale fence, and filled with foliage and flowers with a fountain as a center. An attractive vine-clad canopy for a garden seat was another notable display.

Numerous centerpieces, aflame with colorful autumn flowers, were displayed, too, and huge urns holding fall blooms.

Admiring Garden

Admiring the miniature garden were Mrs. John W. Lawrence, Mrs. William Penn Snyder, Jr., and Mrs. William Thaw, Jr. Mrs. Lawrence looked smart in a grey tweed suit and a grey felt tricorne trimmed in black. Mrs. Thaw wore a black and white print dress, a black hat and a black wool coat, and Mrs. Snyder chose a beige and plaid suit.

Mrs. Dorwin Donnelly was there and Mrs. B. F. Jones III in a smart Spanish tile red wool dress with which she wore a tricorne in matching color. Interested in the show were Mrs. Donald C. Bakewell and her two little daughters, Cherry and Peggy.

Club Notes

A change has been made in the place for the luncheon which the Ben Avon Woman's Club will give on October 3 in honor of its new president, Mrs. L. A. Hubach. The luncheon will be an informal affair and will take place at the home of Mrs. Thomas W. Pomeroy, New Brighton road, Ben Avon Heights.

CRUSHED, BENT WEDDING RING FOUND AT DIVORCE COURT

How came this crushed and badly bent wedding ring of platinum, inscribed during a happy day with "M. [illegible]—R. L. 5/30/30," to be on the floor outside the hearing room, where divorce cases are handled at Common Pleas Court? Clerk Earl Jacobs picked it up.

Twilight Concert Planned Once Each Month

There are rustlings and stirrings at the Woman's City Club these days that are indications of the beginning of renewed activities. Not the least important of these is the reorganization of the choral for the season. Mrs. Lewis N. Young has been made chairman, Mrs. Taylor Allderdice is again director, and under her baton the women meet each Wednesday at noon for rehearsal. This season the third Sunday evening of each month will be set aside for a twilight musicale by the choral.

Tentative plans include a regular club event each Friday, these to include either the usual club luncheon meeting, special meetings under auspices of the library committee or the evening committee's entertainments.

Mrs. Clarke Hammond has been made chairman of the evening committee, with Mrs. E. Bruce Hill as co-chairman; Mrs. Donald T. Clark is program chairman and Mrs. C. L. Peirce, Jr., her co-chairman; Miss Suzanne Beatty is library committee head and Mrs. Norton W. McCutcheon is publicity chairman.

Tea Room Popular

Even during the hottest days of the summer, the club's tea room proved a popular luncheon place, due no more to the quiet, cool atmosphere than to the tempting menus provided by Mrs. E. J. Casselman, efficient member manager. With the arrival of the real season, the tea room patronage increases, for members find it a pleasant and convenient place of meeting for a social or business chat or between shopping expeditions. And then there's always a cup of tea to be had of an afternoon.

Of outstanding importance is the first of the children's matinees which the club will give at the Nixon Theater at 10 o'clock the morning of October 31. The response has been general, the mothers of children apparently being appreciative of the opportunity the club is offering in quality of performance and choice of plays.

Invitations have been sent out by the Tourists for a reception in honor of their new president, Mrs. Harold Kibbe Gowdy, on Monday, October 5, at the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. D. N. Bulford is receiving responses.

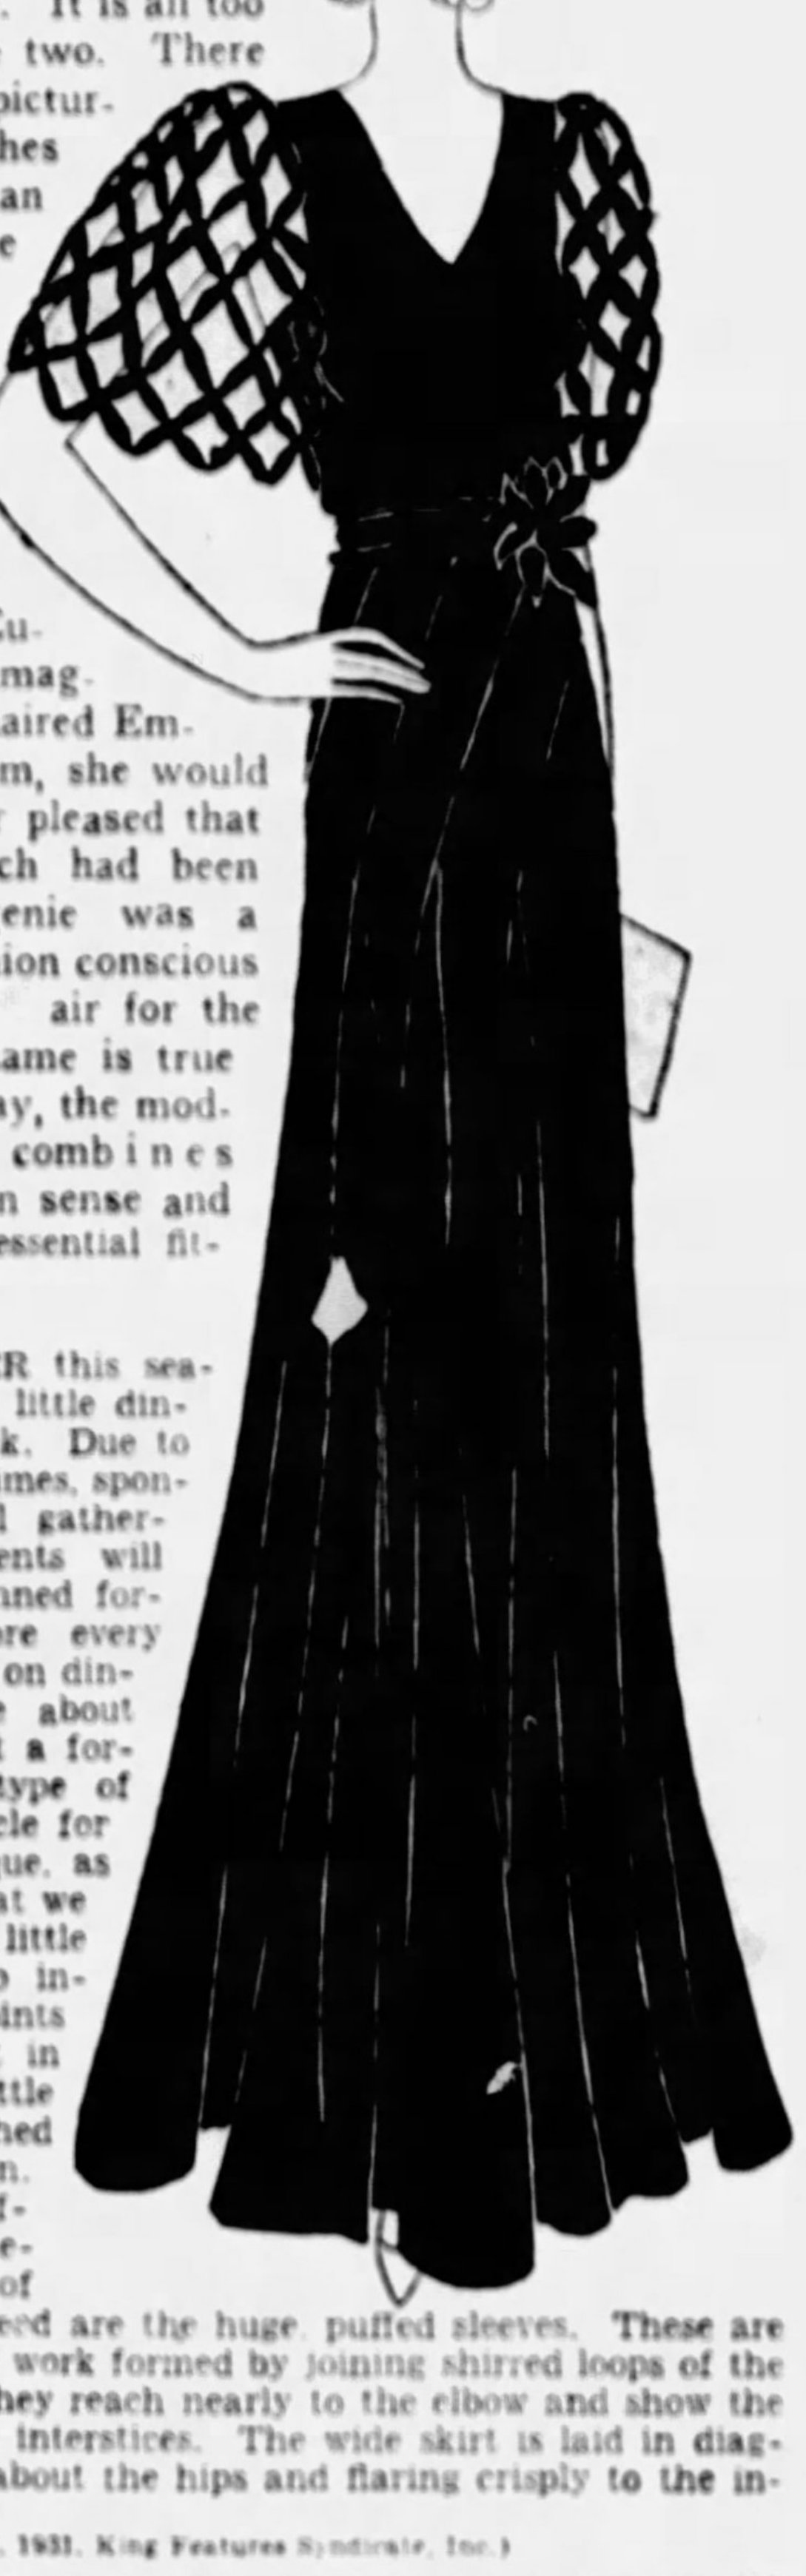
"The Twentieth Century" is the general theme of this year's study in the senior literary department of the Women's Club of Mt. Lebanon, the first meeting of which will be held next Friday at the home of Mrs. Catherine Harper, Cedar boulevard. The speakers then will include Mrs. Theodore Wilson, Mrs. Howard Ochsenhirt and Mrs. E. V. Hjort.

DESIGNER SHOWS THE LATEST MODE

—Sketched in Paris—



Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Just because a frock is picturesque, there is no need to ascribe to it a definite period influence. It is all too easy to confuse the two. There is a feeling for picturesque clothes, clothes with something of an air of a bygone age about their graceful folds, but these are often not accurate reproductons of historic costumes. Judging by some of the models dubbed "Eugenie," we do not imagine that if the red-haired Empress could see them, she would be at all flattered or pleased that her name and epoch had been given them. Eugenie was a woman of taste, fashion conscious and with an eye [illegible] air for the picturesque. The same is true of that queen of today, the modern wonan, who combines beauty with common sense and a knowledge of the essential fitness of things.

MORE THAN EVER this season we are to use the little dinner or restaurant frock. Due to the exigencies of the times, spontaneous and informal gatherings and entertainments will take the place of planned formal affairs. Therefore every house is concentrating on dinner frocks that have about them a festive but not a formal air. And this type of frock is an ideal vehicle for the mode of picturesque, as it is in the evening that we can allow ourself a little sartorial leeway, if so inclined. All of these points are obviously manifest in the very delightful little dinner frock sketched here by Madam Lanvin. It is of crisp black taffeta, an excellent medium for this type of frock. Picturesque indeed are the huge, puffed sleeves. These are made entirely of lattice work formed by joining shirred loops of the taffeta, end to end. They reach nearly to the elbow and show the upper arm through the interstices. The wide skirt is laid in diagonal folds stitchd flat about the hips and flaring crisply to the instep.

Rosslyn Farms Club Women Present First Issue of Periodical 'Published' by Members

The first issue of Congress, the club periodical, which the Rosslyn Farms Women's Club is ''publishing'' this year, was presented to the members yesterday when they met with Mrs. F. H. Alter. The women have an actual magazine, about two feet square, from which the papers are taken and read by their authors. Yesterday Mrs. C. G. Thornburgh reviewed Warwick Deeping's ''Ten Commandments'' and Willa Cather's ''Shadows on the Rock'' and the first installment of a mystery serial, "The Deserted Clearing," was read by the author, Mrs. C. P. Gallleher.

In the fine arts department of the magazine, Mrs. E. G. Dignan discussed the life of Homer Saint-Gaudens and John Kane's photograph-paintings. Mrs. S. S. Haudenshield offered an idyl of home life as the contribution of the homes and garden section of the magazine; Mrs. Alter presented the newest inventions in the scientific world and Mrs. Galleher brought the latest news from the fashion marts. Considerable amusement was afforded in the advertising and editorials, but even more so in a lost and found department, which consisted of sundry articles left by the members at each other's homes.

Music at New Club

For the entertainment of the various clubs that visited Dormont New Country Club's new home yesterday afternoon, the music department presented a program by Mrs. C. Warren Kinder, pianist, and the club choral.

Mrs. Richard B. Perry, a past president, and this year's program chairman, introduced the speakers of the afternoon, Mrs. H. H. Heinrich, president; Mrs. John H. Bricker, and Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, president of the Congress of Clubs.

To Greet Guests

This evening is community night in the new clubhouse. Past presidents of the club will receive the guests at the door; Mrs. Heinrich will extend greetings from the platform; Supt. of Schools Ralph Radcliffe and Sim Price will speak; a trio from the Neighborhood Music Studio will play two groups of numbers, and Mrs. C. F. Horgan, of the club's music department, will sing a group of soprano solos. Daughters of club members will serve punch in the recreation room of the building.

Tomorrow afternoon, from 2 to 5 o'clock, visiting presidents and representatives of other junior clubs of the vicinity will be entertained at a musicale and tea honoring New Century Club Junior Auxiliary's new president, Mrs. John R. Bredin. Miss Eleanor Wilson will forecast the year's program. Mrs. Bredin will speak briefly and there will be a musical program by Miss Marjorie Patterson, violinist; Mrs. Robert A. Vroom, pianist; Mrs. Pemberton B. West, soprano, and Miss Marjorie Kraber, danseuse.

Miss Helen V. Irwin, new chairman of the drama department of the Congress of Clubs, was formally introduced to the department by the president, Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, yesterday. Election of officers in the department was deferred until the next meeting, which will be held October 22. Eugene L. Connelly, local manager for the Chicago Civic Opera Company, spoke briefly.

Plans for future programs were discussed. Robert Pritchard, radio announcer, will appear before the department to speak on dramatic highlights in radio. Early in November Miss Irwin will present a program as an evening benefit for the department, giving Phillip Barry's three-act play "Holiday."

Mine Shuts Down After Fifteen Years

WAYNESBURG, Sept. 25.—The Walnut Hill mine of the West Point Marion Coal Company, scene of Greene County's only coal strike riot last summer, located in Dunkard Township, shut down yesterday after having been operated continuously for the past 15 years and having lost but four days work in the past five months. At the time work was suspended 125 men were employed at the mine.

DEACON DEFIES VOLIVA

ZION CITY, Ill., Sept. 25.—(INS.)—Dissension threatened the religious colony here today as the result of a vociferous outburst in the huge tabernacle against Wilbur Glenn Voliva, ruler of Zion City.

Consternation was created amid the 1,000 worshipers in the tabernacle when Deacon Theodore Forby arose during services and defied the famed cult leader, who is most noted for his theory that the world is flat.

After uttering several charges against Voliva, the deacon shouted:

"I'll expose you."

The ruler responded by threatening to dissolve Zion City's municipal court and thus take Deacon Forby's position of judge away from him.

RESTAURANTS' HEADS ELECT

W. H. Mennigke was elected president at the first meeting of the newly-formed Western Pennsylvania Restaurant Association at a meeting in the William Penn Hotel yesterday. Mrs. M. B. Johnson was elected vice president, and R. H. Jennings, secretary and treasurer. Ross L. Gammon presided.

Plans were discussed for a visit of members of the association to the convention of the National Restaurant Association in Buffalo, October 5 to 9.

GRANGE REVIVES DEBENTURE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—The export debenture will spring back to attention next week as a proposal for aiding agriculture.

The executive committee of the National Grange will favor a debenture rate of two cents a pound on tenderable cotton and tobacco.

The debenture has been the Grange's idea for 50 years of the way to make the tariff effective on farm products. Exporters of a surplus commodity would be issued negotiable certificates, in most cases equal to half the tariff on that particular product, and they in turn would discount them to importers to be used at face value in payment of import duties.

Adams, Ingalls Fly Back to Washington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—Secretary of the Navy Adams and Assistant Secretary for Air David S. Ingalls returned to the capital from Akron, flying at a rate of 204 miles an hour. Ingalls, in a Curtis "Helldiver," negotiated the stretch in one hour and 24 minutes. The officials had attended the maiden flight of the Navy's new dirigible Akron.

VICKS VAPORUB

DEATH VICTOR, SOPHIE SOBS

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Sophie Tucker, the "wise-cracking" stage comedienne, lost a race with death after a dash across the Atlantic Ocean to New York and to Chicago.

The star's face was wet with tears and there were no quips or jokes as she stepped from a train into the arms of friends. She wept as she walked slowly along the platform, mourning.

Miss Tucker was in Europe when she heard that her friend and protege, Mrs. Eva Mandel Wolf, was seriously ill. The comedienne cut short her European engagements, rushed to New York by fast steamer, canceled a New York engagement and hurried here.

Aboard the train she received word of Mrs. Wolf's death.

RAZING FIRST STEEL BUILDING

Workmen will start tomorrow to wreck the Home Insurance Building, built 47 years ago and reputed to have been the first in which skeleton metal framework was used. In its place, Chicago's largest office building, a 42-story structure, will be built by the Marshall Field estate.

Approximately 25,000 tons of steel will be used. Thousands of workmen will be given employment. Construction of the new building is expected to begin in about 60 days. It will be finished in 1934, according to present plans.

SLEUTH QUELLS FIGHT IN COURT

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 25.—Detective Sergt. Walter Monahan, of the Pittsburgh police, used his right fist in Federal Court here yesterday and stopped a near-riot at the conclusion of the day's session in Judge Gibson's court room.

Peter Smith, Negro, of Pittsburgh, had just completed testimony which was damaging to Joe Wiley, Negro, also of Pittsburgh, who was on trial for a postoffice robbery in Fayette County.

As Smith stepped from the stand, Judge Gibson adjourned court for the day. Wiley sidled up to Smith and struck him. Detective Monahan, his 200 pounds of weight behind it, landed a punch on Wiley's jaw. The scuffle was short-lived.

Marathoner Scorns Fortune, Dances On

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 25.—(INS.)—Winning a dance marathon is more important to M. Hildebrant, of Miami, Fla., than collecting a $50,000 legacy.

He and his fiancee, Miss Alice Springer, of Wildwood, N. J., were still dancing today—the forty-eighth day for them—despite the fact he had been informed he was left the fortune by his uncle, the late Herman Schultz, of Milwaukee, Wis.

VA.—Sealed bids will be received until 10 a. m., October 23, 1931, and then opened for constructing the second of two locks, powerhouse building and connection to old dam at Marmet, W. Va., on Great Kanawha River, nine miles above Charleston, W. Va. Further information on application.

Fur-Trimmed Coats Astound! $39.75

Every day is April First when it comes to a customer's surprise over these huge values. Many think they should be twice as expensive. Have A, Caracul; B, a halo of Chinese Badger; C, Jap Weasel. Or 17 other furs.

THIRD FLOOR

More Quality for Less Cost

Capeskins

$1.95

Braiding of Lacquer Leather on Suede Pumps

$6.00

A suede low-cut tie. Green or black suede with oodles of verve and snap.

The Felt Tricorne! Glitters or Glows

$5.00

Tricornes have arrived; that's not news. But the glitter of cut steel beading is news (Sketch D), and so is the triple brim developed in dull mat black suede-felt (Sketch E). New costume shades including Spanish tile.

A New Price In Our Sports Shop

Yes, sir! Not content to make a city-wide reputation on our $5.95's, we've contrived to bring them down to $4.95! Jersey is covered with glory anyhow this season. When you can buy that Bruyere-ish H with pearl blobs, or that rainbow contrast, I, for $4.95, the tide has turned, eh, what?

MAIN FLOOR

Girls' Jerseys $2.95

"Nipped-In Waists" they call these new jerseys with the close ribbing at the waist line. Little "builds" became much neater. Your own initial on the tab. Many colors.

FIFTH FLOOR

Juniors' Coats $25

The artist who sketched this coat came near a stroke when we said, "yes, only $25." Dark nubbed tweeds quite rakish and then a heavenly Empress collar. 13 to 17.

FIFTH FLOOR

$25-Type Dresses in Canton Crepe $16.50

You $25 patrons! Make a bee line for these: L turns bustle back and buttons to an admiring world. K does things with satin contrasts. J exploits the new "brassiere" cowl. 14 to 20, in rich new autumn colors.

SECOND FLOOR

FUR SPECIAL

$165

A Chicago artist has sketched a self-kicking contraption for those of us who are not profiting by the monstrous power of today's dollar. Don't think you won't want one, if you pass up this Fur Special! Hudson Seal M equals $295 models you've looked at. N in Taupe Muskrat with Russian Fitch is electric with style. O is a gleaming Pony with the luster of Russian Caracul and a collar of Blue Dyed Fox. Lots of others.

Story of West Virginia Miner.

The attack of Mukden by the Japanese troops waging the imperialistic struggle against the Chinese in Manchuria will be portrayed, as will a review of the British financial situation, which has become highly complex by the surrender of the gold standard.

A scene from New York's East Side life will be re-enacted when a session of the Conciliation Court will be heard. Italian John Cortello wins the right to support his Jewish bride of three hours on $25 despite the opposition of Goldberg, senior. How a West Virginia coal miner had to undergo an arm amputation while pinioned in a collapsed shaft also will be told in dramatic form.

KQV—Bible Students.

We Now Present

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

THERE'S A RAINBOW Shining Somewhere sang Tom Noonan justly over KQV and an independent network of seven stations last winter but it appears that many black clouds will have to be erased in Pittsburgh before the sun shines this year . . . no more will the rafters of the Chinatown Mission rock with joyous laughter and song and no more will this hovel provide cheer and happiness for shut-ins, cripples and other unfortunates unless some local person or concern provides the $350 line charge necessary to bring the program to KQV each Sunday afternoon . . . last year Tom Noonan paid the toll from contributions received from this district, with a hundred or two hundred dollars taken from his general fund to make up the deficit . . . but this year each station desiring to be a part of the network must provide its own facilities and pay the costs . . . Tom resumed his regular New York schedule over WMCA last week with the suave C. I. Alexander at the microphone.

Darrell V. Martin

Question a Day:

We have sore necks from trying to locate Walter G. Myers on those Jimmy Joy broadcasts. Where does he sit?—Nancy and Ethel R., Brentwood.

Answer—Even if you had a giraffe's neck you wouldn't be able to locate Walter. He confers with Jimmy Joy before the program and then retires to Studio C. of KDKA, on the twenty-first floor of the hotel, where he listens to the music and "cuts in" to announce the numbers.

Three network stars booked for the Radio-Electrical Show in Duquesne Garden may be heard over local stations tonight . . . Jessica Dragonette on WCAE at 8 o'clock and the team of Jones and Hare on KDKA at 9 . . . Jessica will sing here next Wednesday while Jones and Hare will entertain on Thursday.

Studio Lights

The time of "Moonshine and Honeysuckle" on WCAE has been changed to 7 p. m. for this Sunday only.

Belle Baker, KDKA at 8 tonight, made her first appearnce on the stage when only 9 years old . . .

The heroism of a West Virginia miner is to be portrayed in the News Drama, WJAS at 8:30 . . .

WCAE's "Theater of the Air," at 10:30, is to be radioed by short wave to Roxy and members of his party on the way to Europe to study architecture for Radio City . . .

We're anxious to hear what Casey Jones has to say about the City-County Airport, WJAS at 9:45 . . . Casey, now 38, had his first airplane ride when 17 and if memory serves us well, he was the pilot selected by Gene Tunney to carry Tunney to his championship fight with Jack Dempsey at Philadelphia . . . Casey likes golf . . . on rainy days he plays the piano . . .

Ceremonies opening the new Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York, including an address by President Hoover, are to be broadcast over NBC-WCAE next Wednesday afternoon . . .

For something a bit unusual tune WCAE at 5 o'clock this afternoon and hear the Pittsburgh Playground Boys' Harmonica Band, E. I. Clark, director . . .

Nick Lucas goes on a new schedule next week . . . on NBC-WEAF Monday at 7:30, Wednesday at 7 and Saturday at 7; on NBC-WJZ starting Thursday, October 8, at 8:30.

Too bad that new feature of Raymond Knight's will not be available in Pittsburgh . . . it depicts the playboy punster as the owner of a drug store . . . the Landt Trio and White as entertainers . . . next Thursday at 6:30 on WJZ . . .

You'll probably like Charlie Olcott in those "One Man Follies" sketches at WJAS every morning at 10:30 . . .

Col. Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle, the Gloom Chaser, has discovered why giraffes always travel by freight . . . they are mute and hence can't express themselves . . . hold everything!

A galloping stage coach, modernized with short wave equipment, is to be used in broadcasting the Meadowbrook Steeplechase over the red network Saturday afternoon . . . the coach is to be used because the grounds of the F. Ambrose Clarke estate on Long Island are sacred to the horse and no automobile apparatus is permitted there.

Today's Tid Bit:

Ford Miller, daytime announcer at WCAE, spends approximately 22 hours every year making those 15-minute station standbys . . . Ford is relieved that the year's standbys are not made at one time.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By Louis Reid

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—If it isn't the familiar figure of Corse Payton approaching the gates of the Broadcasters. No verboten signs for entertainers on the radio gates. Everybody's welcome. But not everybody stays long. It depends upon how novel is the offering.

Well, Payton is a novelty on the air. If the broadcasters must do "ten-twent-thirt" stuff it's just as well they bring on the man most expert in strutting it. Strange, they have delayed so long. . . . Best thing about radio is its diversity. Fancy roaming from Corse Payton's "Curse You, Jack Dalton" to Beethoven's Sixth Symphony in an evening.

Russ Columbo moves up to the commercial program formerly occupied by John Charles Thomas. It's a hard place for Columbo. But his is not to reason why—not while dough bags are being untied. . . . The bollyhoo battle over baritones continues between the networks. Boys in the mimeograph trenches are working overtime. And are Crosby and Columbo downhearted? Don't be sil!

Entertainers of the air are happiest when they can combine radio work with concert tours, all under the whip of the broadcasters. But they pray that the concert tour be sponsored by a product that conjures up pleasant memories—coffee, cereal, cigaret, perfume.

Once in a while they have to accept something unpleasant, have to appear under the auspices of ash removal magnates, soft coal producers. And their tours, as a result, are usually brief . . . Radio continues, happily, to find room for debunkers (though not for those who spoof the seats of the mighty in Washington or the advertisers who pay the broadcasting freight).

. . . Comes Corey Ford with grandly-titled talk, "Making Africa Safe for 'the Africans'" . . . If they're not careful, the radio men will not be able to see explorers for the raspberry bushes . . . Maine, of all the commonwealths is most proud of its radio stars.

Only Maine has given celebrations in honor of returning microphone gods. Last year the M. Vallee, this year Phillips H. (Seth Parker) Lord . . . Well, you can't blame Westbrook and Jonesport. Vallee and Lord put the villages in the map, made them known throughout the world.

30 Thrilling New Models in DRESSES
$15.75

Are you a miss with a strong leaning toward dressmaker woolens with flat fur and Parisian buttons? Or a charming and dignified woman with a preference for flattering velvets and rich lace of a fineness never shown below $25?

You'll find them here tomorrow in thirty thrilling new models for morning, noon and night. Sophisticated satins, sleek canton crepes, velvets and woolens that are "a gift from the fashion gods" at only $15.75!

Black, Brown and the new high shades, including Persian Red, Forest Green and Fuchsia tones—alone or in contrast.

Jr.-Miss Frocks, $5.95

Wool and smart crepe frocks for school, street, sports and afternoon—with color contrast and pert touches that will baffle your most critical friends at only $5.95! Sizes 11 to 17.

—Second Floor—

We're Back to VELVETS
$5–$10

Every demand of the Fall mode is answered with the return of flattering velvet.

Velvets are elegant this year of elegance; they drape softly in hats that would be harsh in any other material. They smartly answer "What shall I wear with my formal satin, my slim crepe, my velvet frocks—and what for shiny contrast to my dressmaker woolens?" . . .

Your velvet hat, chosen here tomorrow, will have the right feathers and bows—be tailored or rather elaborate—and surprisingly low priced, $5 or $10.

Respect Won't Follow Theft Of Another's Husband

Dorinda wants Life—

Life with all the trimmings—

How's she going to get it?

Dorinda doesn't care how, but she's sure that she will . . . if she has to steal it!

Marry a poor man?

"Not for me!" laughs Dorinda. "I want to live! An' what's more, some man is going to pay my bills . . . even if he happens to be another woman's husband!"

Which is frank, to say the least.

AFTER RICH HUSBAND

"Dear Sally:

"Well, here it is!

"I'm at that age!

"I'm getting tired of this monotony. I'm beginning to hate my work . . . not hate it so much as getting tired of it. I'm still what one would call a 'good girl' . . . but I won't be for long if I go through with this!

"I'd like to get married, but I won't marry a poor man. It's money and packs of it that I want. But I've come to the conclusion that there aren't any rich young men looking for a pretty but poor wife, so I'll have to take a rich married one.

"I haven't started yet, but I'm getting out the old war paint and going in for heavy gold digging (take care, you men!)

"You see I look at my sister, for an example. She's in her thirties this year, and she's the best model of a really good girl that I know of or hope to find . . . . . but what has she got out of life?

"She's been working since she was 18, and now she's old! Men want younger girls! What has she been waiting for? What'll she get as a reward?

WANTS TO "LIVE"

"Loneliness and plenty of it! That's all, so far as I can see. Of course, she has had one or two really good dates . . good times, but summed up, bah! Nothing but hard work! If that's the reward of virtue!

"Now, I'm younger and rather attractive. Surely you can't condemn me for wanting to live? I want to get out and meet people. Where?

"Don't tell me to go to church socials! My church doesn't have any. And I hate public dance halls! Poor people! Common, low stock!

"I'm 19 and I'm darned if I'm going to begin a lonely life at this early age!

"Don't tell me to 'wait until some really nice young man comes along.' There isn't any Santa Claus.

"DORINDA M."

Tell you to wait until some nice young man comes along? Not a chance, sister! I'd sooner hang a dose of small pox on a "nice young man" than a blight like you.

"I want to live!" you cry.

I've heard that speech before. I've heard it from brave, eager, hot-blooded youngsters and applauded it! It's a great thing—that real hunger to live. It's thrilling to see some fine human tackling the job. And I'm 100 per cent for those who stage a clean rebellion against dinginess and misery and stupid monotony.

But your "want to live"—that's something different.

LACKS GOOD QUALITIES

There's nothing brave about you, nothing clean or fine or bravely defiant about you or your pee-wee protest. You're not reaching for the stars—You're reaching for a well-filled trough.

Yours is the desire of a pig—

The shrewdness of a rat—

The slimy connivance of a snake—

And will you get what you want?

Probably.

There are plenty of nit-wit males to match your brand of female. And if you succeed in taking one of them away from a fine woman, she should thank you for the favor. But get this straight—

You'll never get a decent man—

You'll never even get a bright man—

Men with character and brains don't fall for trash like you.

You'll never know respect nor honest admiration, nor power, nor adventure, nor real fun.

You'll be picking up scraps on the edge of things all your days—and you call that life! You would.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Keep Things Away From Baby

In your childhood, it is probable you swallowed some object which should never have entered your mouth. This may have been a penny or a pin. Whatever it was, I am quite sure the incident aroused much excitement and alarm in your family.

Dr. Copeland

Such accidents are of daily occurrence. In most instances, fortunately, the accident is not as alarming as it seems to the layman. The child usually expels the swallowed object and suffers no ill effects from the experience.

However, in many cases it is a serious thing. It is really dangerous when the swallowed object lodges in the windpipe, instead of entering the stomach. Indeed, in some cases, the object may reach the lung.

These accidents can and should be avoided. Many a mother in dressing her infant or older child places safety pins and other objects in her mouth. Children who see their mothers do this frequently get the absurd notion that that is where such things belong. On finding a pin or other small object, it goes at once into the little mouth.

Mothers should refrain from using the mouth as a receptacle for such things. It is a practice that encourages bad habits. By good example and proper teaching, children will learn that nothing but food belongs in the mouth.

By the way, another careless habit of adults as well as children, is that of hasty eating and improper chewing of food. On Fridays, when fish is a popular dish, there is always a flow of patients to nearby clinics and emergency rooms. The doctors are busy removing fish bones from the throat.

This accident is a dangerous one and sometimes requires quite an extensive operation for the removal of the bone. It can be prevented by the training of children in the importance of slow eating and careful chewing of all foods. This deliberate chewing is particularly important in foods containing bones.

It is interesting to learn that bones and other objects removed from the throat occur, in almost 80 per cent of cases, in women. Perhaps that is due to their better table manners, with the natural desire not to use their fingers in removing foreign substances from the mouth. But, really, it is better to fail a bit in etiquette than to go to the hospital for relief.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Elevator Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it proper or necessary for a young man to take off his hat in an elevator when a young lady he knows enters?

2. If so, just what does such an act signify? C. O.

1. If the elevator is in a hotel, or in an apartment house, or in a department store (unless the elevator here is very crowded), a man takes off his hat if there is a woman in the elevator, whether or not he knows her. This is not required nowadays in elevators in office buildings, since usually in them there isn't any room for a man's hat except on his head! But if he is in a business elevator and there is no one in the elevator and a woman whom he knows enters, he would naturally take off his hat.

2. Deference to the "fair sex," sir! Just as you show deference and respect and gallantry when you take off your hat as you bow to a woman on the street.

Lace Mittens

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to attend an extremely formal affair and to match my frock I am going to wear lace mittens which extend well over the elbow. These mittens have no opening and I would very much appreciate information as to the proper way of handling food. Should the mitten be taken off or kept on while eating as the fingers are entirely exposed? F. W.

You should remove your mittens while you are eating.

Many Persons Fail Through Over-Eagerness and Impatience, Says Fay King

OH, WHAT'S THE USE!
I JUST WAITED TO SEE WHAT WOULD HAPPEN NEXT
I SEE
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Many persons fall through being over-eager and too impatient for success.

It is almost more hopeless to be too ambitious than to have too little ambition.

Because the over-ambitious are likely to look upon a career like a checkerboard, and if they cannot at once out-jump and out-move everyone to immediate success they slam the board and spoil their game as far as it has gone.

Those who look upon a career as being more like those jig-saw cut-out puzzle pictures, and figure that each bit will help toward the perfection of the whole, progress more slowly and more surely.

Too much self-direction often upsets the better results which come in a proper course of time.

Heart of a Wife -:-

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Succeeds in Calming Katherine

As I waited for Katherine's answer to my request that she let me keep the venomous letter which Ruth Allen had sent her, my conscience—or what was left of it, I told myself, grimly—was lashing me with the reminder that I was deceiving my friend in the proposal I had made to her, and that the excuse of doing the best thing for her which I was hugging to my heart would not bear the scrutiny of an impartial student of ethics.

For I was determined that Jack Bickett should know what the sister of his associate in the South American expedition had written Katherine. I had just told my brother-cousin's wife that I should not send the letter back to him, but I had carefully evaded making a promise to keep him ignorant of the whole affair. If Katherine had read that into my words, I could not help it, I told myself, bolstering my qualms with the reflection that something must be done, and I appeared to be the only one to do it.

I called Dickey's forceful vocabulary to my aid, although I knew I would not dare consult him as to my course, he has such a horror of meddling with other people's affairs, that I knew he would vehemently veto my plan, if I should submit it to him. But between grimly-set teeth, I vowed that Ruth Allen should not "get away" with the impudent scheme which I was sure she had concocted, counting upon Katherine's outraged wifely pride to keep her silent until Jack should believe her weary of him, and in love with someone else.

"As long as you do not send it to Jack, I don't care what you do with it," Katherine said slowly, at last. "But—if he comes back I don't want you to show it to him, unless I consent to it, which, I tell you now, I'm very sure I never shall do."

"No, I won't show it to him without your consent when he comes back," I said, folding the letter into small compass, and slipping it into the breast pocket of my morning dress, with an elaborately nonchalant gesture. "And now, don't you think you'd better take an antidote for that dose of poison?"

I waved my hand casually toward the letter from Hal Meredith which lay unopened upon the table. I held no particular brief for the brilliant alienist, but I knew that the surest palliative for a hurt dealt a woman's pride and love by one man is the assurance from another that she is desired above all others. Katherine had been stung so deeply by the venomous letter tucked in my pocket that I was ready to take any means to comfort her.

She gave a little laugh, so bitter, so unlike my little kinswoman, that I shivered. Then she picked up the letter, and held it out, looking at it inscrutably.

"And I was flagellating my conscience a few minutes ago with the stern admonition that I ought to tell Hal to stop writing," she said. "May I?"

The last words were the perfunctory ones she never forgets when opening a letter.

"Of course," I returned as casually. "If you don't mind, I'll—" I rose from my chair, but her outstretched hand stopped me.

I sat down again, and after one involuntary glance at her flushed face, kept my eyes averted until her voice brought me round, facing her.

"Well! He wants me, if my husband doesn't," she said, and her voice held the defiant note of a child who has partly decided upon a course of rebellion.

"It wouldn't be fair to Hal to let you read this letter," she said, "but there are two lines which I must show you."

She folded the letter carefully and handed it to me, and I read the two lines she indicated.

"You are not being fair to me," I read. "Make no mistake, there will never be any other woman for me, but—are you going to let me eat my heart out forever?"

For an instant I had the eerie feeling that the lines bore in them something of sentence. Then I raised my eyes, and looked at Katherine steadily.

"One thing I want you to know," I said. "It is not because Jack is my brother-cousin that I have plead his cause today, and have been skeptical of the truth of the letter from that woman. If you love Hal Meredith, as he undoubtedly loves you, do not, I beg you, be influenced by anything I may have said, or by any consideration of my feelings. This is too big a thing for the meddling of any outsider. It lies wholly with yourself."

"And I—I— can't decide," Katherine burst our surprisingly, and at the note of hysteria in her voice I rose quickly, knowing that she needed solitude more than anything else.

"Think it over carefully," I advised. "And if you'll excuse me, I'll go up to my room and lie down a few minutes. I got up with a miserable headache this morning, and it isn't getting any better."

I had sounded the right note. She was on her feet in an instant, and before I could reach the door, she was preparing me a potion for headache.

"Don't dare to get up until you feel better," she said as I left the room, and I went down the hallways with what the old novelists used to call "mingled emotions," pleasure in the success of my ruse, and shame because I had enlisted her sympathy under false pretenses.

Household Hints

Flies will not settle on a window which has been washed over with paraffin.

If parsley is washed with hot water instead of cold it retains its flavor and is easier to chop.

A pinch of salt added to the milk when making custard improves the flavor. Also when making batter for pancakes, always add salt to the flour before it is wetted. This tends to prevent lumps.

-:- The Beauty Box -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

A slanted parting of the hair is interesting. It begins on the left side in front and finishes at the right side at the back. The ends of each side portion are combed toward the ears, and arranged in a puff. Puffs over the ears are tricksy and quaint. Quaintness and sophistication—two opposites—are both in favor. You take your choice.

The lazy colon is responsible for sallow complexions—anyhow, some of them. The woman who grieves over a yallery-greenery facial surface will be benefitted by taking the juice of half a lemon and a dash of salt in a glass of water before breakfast. Whether the water is warm or cold doesn't matter. Psylla seeds are a harmless stimulant to the intestinal tract.

When veins on the hands are prominent, bathe with tepid water, never hot or cold. Hold the hands above the head, closing and unclosing the fingers. Lemon juice and glycerine, equal parts, will frequently induce liver spots to get up and travel, though dark ones of long standing will need a strong bleaching agent.

Grapefruit Most Popular of Breakfast Fruits

The first cousin of the orange is a tonic and health-builder, its sugar content giving it energy-producing value.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City,
United States Senator from New York.

A fruit, often called the first cousin of the orange, has become extremely well known during the last 30 years. It is a tonic, a health-builder and is fast becoming one of our most popular foods. Of course I refer to the grape fruit,

It is grown extensively in the West Indies, California, Arizona and Florida. The grapefruit industry is now one of the largest in the country.

Great care is needed in the cultivation of this fruit. It is a very sensitive plant and cold quickly destroys it. Not only must the fruit be well grown, but the packing and shipping must be done carefully, otherwise the fruit deteriorates.

The value of this fruit was long unrecognized. There was a peculiarity to its flavor, which originally was not at all pleasant. Changes in its culture have made it extremely tempting. In consequence the grapefruit is in demand in the markets of both North and South America. It is not too much to say that this product today is the most popular of all breakfast fruits.

The grapefruit does not contain as much citric acid as the lemon. But it possesses the bitter tonic qualities of other fruits belonging to the citrus family. To obtain its full tonic effect, it should be eaten without sugar.

Most of us add sugar to the grapefruit. We do this because of its bitter taste. The white fibrous membrane which surrounds the pulp of the fruit carries the bitter flavor. Without the sugar we get the full, natural, delicious flavor of the fruit.

There is a natural sugar content in grapefruit. This gives it its energy-producing value. Its bitter taste serves to make it an appetizer and stimulates digestion.

Many persons have a false impression about what they call "acid fruits." This idea keeps many from eating it. In reality, practically all ripe fruits produce an alkaline reaction in the system. Instead of promoting acidity, they increase the alkalinity of the fluids of the body. It is a wholesome and valuable food.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

STEWED BREAST OF LAMB—Wipe breast of lamb with damp cloth and brown in 3 tablespoons bacon drippings. Add 2 cups of hot water and stock, a bunch of sweep herbs, 2 onions, 6 cloves, the peel of ½ lemon, ablade of mace, 2 teaspoons salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Cook slowly for 2 hours, take up the lamb, remove the larger bones, and strain the cooking liquid.

Cook together 1 tablespoon butter and 3 tablespoons flour, add the lamb stock and 1 cup of cream. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Take from fire, add the yolk of 2 eggs well beaten, and the juice of ½ lemon. Pour the sauce over the meat and serve. Serves 4 or 5.

VEAL CHOPS—Six loin chops, 8 sliced carrots, ½ teaspoon peppercorns, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 stalks celery, ½ onion, sliced, 4 cloves.

Put chops in saucepan with other ingredients and cover with boiling water. Cook slowly until tender. Drain, season meat with salt and pepper, dip in flour egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper. Serve with a thick, rich, brown sauce made from the liquid in which the chops were cooked, flour, salt and pepper.

MOVIE INSULTER -:- He Pokes Fun at Notables And Are They Mad -:- STAGE NEWS

'Vin' Barnett Accuses Stars Of Being Collegiate and Fists Nearly Fly

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25.

Anyone who follows the news of Hollywood has heard of Vincent Barnett, the professional insulter. For $100, he will pose as a waiter, or a prince, and will guarantee to bring fire to the eye of his chosen victim.

Jack Pickford

Barnett's gags have become famous in Hollywood. His favorite, however, was the time he impersonated a German sound expert. In this capacity, he informed the officials of an important studio that their sound stages faced the wrong way, that they were constructed with the wrong material and that the recording equipment was not satisfactory for the best results. By the time he had finished the officials had decided to scrap $280,000 worth of sound stages and start all over again.

Barnett considers his second best gag out here was pulled on Bobby Jones. Posing as a caddie he drove golf's champion of champions almost crazy. Finally, on the eighteenth hole Jones made an almost perfect shot from a downhill lie. As the ball stopped just short of the green, there was a hushed silence from the spectators.

At the peak of it Vince drawled:

"Sarazen would have made the green."

In his time Barnett has ribbed Calvin Coolidge, Col. Lindbergh and most of the Senators in Washington.

I'd always heard that he had taken a couple of punches on the nose. But he says no. His closest escape, he declares, was when he prevented Norman Kerry and Jack Pickford from entering a ballroom.

"You college boys get away with a lot," he said, "but you can't crash this party. Go on back to your fraternity houses."

While Jack and Norman were arguing to see which should hit him, friends rushed to the rescue.

LATEST GOSSIP

Mr. Barrymore

Gary Cooper will be back here this week to start work on "The Miracle Man." . . . Leroy Mason has been made foreman of father-in-law Edwin Carewe's cattle and hog ranch near Las Vegas . . . Dorothy Lee has returned from her personal appearance tour. She says the romance with Fred Waring still is on. Incidentally, Waring bought her a wooly toy dog so large she had to pay a fare for it on an air-plane . . . Edgar Selwyn will put on the Nugents' play "Advantage Out," before he turns his hand to Frances Marion's "The Lady Is Tired." . . . Lionel Barrymore never eats lunch. A lot of other people don't these day, but not for the same reason.

ROBBIE GETS RAISE

Stardom is promised Robert Armstrong in a new five-year contract he has just been awarded by RKO-Pathe. In the meanwhile, he and Jimmy Gleason will co-star in a wrestling story. Earl Baldwin is writing it, to follow up "Suicide Fleet," in which Robbie and Jimmy now are appearing with Bill Boyd. I don't have to remind you that the Gleason-Armstrong team started back in the days of "Is Zat So?" They are close friends in private life as well as on the screen.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

With three stars, Fannie Brice, Phil Baker and Ted Healy, Billy Rose's "Crazy Quilt" will give us our first view of a revue in the Alvin Monday night. The one-week engagement includes the usual matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The Gertrude Hoffman girls will attend to the featured terpsichoren divertisements. Hoofing, they call it in Chicago, whence the crazy quilters go from here.

Lenore Ulric will be supported by the mister of the family, Sidney Blackmer, when she gives "The Social Register" its first public presentation in the Nixon Monday night. Miss Ulric, in the same theater last season, introduced "Pagan Lady," which was thumbed down by all our critics, yet she packed 'em in all week. New York critics were equally blunt in their disproval, yet she packed 'em in there, too, for quite a spell. Proving something or other.

* * *

Small Timer says a person may be broadminded, narrow-chested, high-browed and low-built and still be a deep thinker.

* * *

Michael J. Cullen, new manager of the Penn, has always been in the show business. Yes, always. His father was a circus man and his mother a stage actress. So, after being born in Alliance, O., Mike just naturally took to the amusement line at an early age, and hooked up with Wyoming Bill's Wild West as program boy. He graduated to the ticket wagon, and then fate made him a publicity man, with circuses in the summer and theaters in the winter. Movies drafted him into an all-year job, and, after serving various other masters, he was taken in hand by the Marcus Loew forces as a field general with a roving commission. He bossed Dick Leibert and Wesley Eddy in Washington, his first big league town, and his good work there resulted in his transfer to Pittsburgh, when H. M. Addison stepped up to a division directorship.

Court Legalizes Star's Movie Contract

Hollywood's latest Cinderella, Ann Dvorak, has had her first film contract legalized. Miss Dvorak, 19, appeared in Los Angeles Superior Court with her attorney, Neil McCarthy, and her mother and guardian, Ann Lehr, one-time stage and screen star. The court placed the stamp and approval on the actress' long-term contract with Howard Hughes, president of the Caddo Company, which was recently negotiated.

Revue Melody

Akron Flight In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The world's largest aircraft, the new Navy dirigible, Akron, is shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News making its first flight over Ohio. It is in the Penn and other theaters. With 113 men aboard the great airship takes to the air, and, for 3 hours and 47 minutes, flies over the city of Akron and vicinity. Cameramen aboard the airship and from the ground photograph every move of the giant, and there are pictures, too, made aboard of Commander Rosendahl, her pilot, and of the intricate machinery of the ship, which was built at a cost of $5,000,000.

The various maneuvers show the workings of her side propellers, which can be pitched to drive her upwards, downwards, forward and backward. There is a graphic description of the new dirigible by the Globe Trotter.

President Hoover is seen and heard as he makes a stirring appeal to the World War veterans to help the nation economize as he appears before the American Legion convention at Detroit. The President is given a great ovation as he stresses the seriousness of the situation in the United States and declares his belief that the veterans would serve their country again in this latest serious cause.

The United States national polo title is taken away from America to the Argentine by the Santa Paula team in a thrilling match with the Hurricanes at Meadowbrook. There are many exciting scenes, as the Americans are continually outplayed by the doughty South Americans who win by 11 goals to 8.

Spectacular smoke screen tests are filmed from the air with the Atlantic fleet off the Virginia Capes laying down the curtains. The maneuvers consist of a squadron of cruisers "hiding" from an imaginary enemy. Airplanes roar past the ships completely enveloping them in smoke.

There are pictures of a colorful gondola pageant on the canals of Venice in which hundreds of gaily decorated boats take part.

Workers from the London markets stage a novel basket balancing race at Herne Hall. A dozen starters, their heads piled high with baskets, run around a half-mile track, but only two of them finish.

Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, speaks on business depression and unemployment in Harrisburg. The Governor pledges himself to see that suffering among the unemployed will be reduced to a minimum in this state the coming winter.

Question

For years my love affairs have been in print,
  I've bared my soul for all the world to see;
Of reticence I never give a hint—
  Discretion has but little lure for me;
The first mad kiss—the rapture of the night
  I share with all the clan who read my verse,
And then, of course, I feel it's only right
  Te tell when matters go from bad to worse.

When some wise maiden bids me go my way,
  Do I retain the message in my breast?
Not I—a sonnet on that very day
  Proclaims the poignant error of my quest.
(I wonder if there's something to the rumor—
That I'm devoid of any sense of humor!)
—Young Man of Manhattan.

Merciless Truth

Izzy Elinson observes that those new hats the gals wear thrown over one eye are a darn nuisance in a speakeasy. A feller can't tell when his girl is really drunk!

And They Knock Wurst!

Between acts the other premiere performance, Mr. John Anderson, the drama defender for the N. Y. Journal, cornered a columnist and growled:

"What's the idea of writing that I suffer from a ringing in the ears? I do not; I have sinus trouble, you dope!"

"Oh, all right!" snapped the columnist.

"All right, nothing!" shrieked the critic. "Get your facts straight. The only thing that rings in my ears is praise!"

Hint

Love that starts with livid fires
  Ends in somber ashes;
Castles boasting golden spires
  Make the loudest crashes.

Maids who ask and gain their price.
  Find the loot is meager;
Cupid plays with loaded dice—
  Why, my dear, be eager?
—Don Wahn.

The Plot Thickens

On Tuesday The Dial Press released a new murder mystery novel christened "First Night Murder." It will spellbind you—that's how engaging it is, but more fascinating to this paragraph-collector was solving the author's pen name. It is signed F. G. Parke.

Her real name is Rose Pelswick. She is the N. Y. Journal's femme movie oracle.

"F. G. Parke" isn't a name—it's an address! The "f" is the sixth letter in the alphabet and the "g" is the seventh letter. Catch on?—"67 Park avenue"? That's where the author dwells.

And He Wasn't Kiddin'

Edward Pawley, now rehearsing in "Two Seconds," due soon at the Ritz, ankled past the Palace Theater, where the idle actors loiter. In a coat pocket was one of the easily recognized Equity contracts with the diagonal lines across the corner in plain view, and in his hand Pawley carried his part.

One of the lay-offs approached Pawley and whispered: "You'd better be careful walking around here with those things showing. You'll get held up!"

Heheheh

Beau (I. Hoffman) Broadway phoned a doll the other night and asked her to go to a show.

"Oh," she moaned, "I'm so sorry, honey. I'd love to go with you, but I've got a headache and I can't ged rid of him!"

Sotto Voce

Carmel: Ring at 6, then. Too busy.

M. C.: Somebody's giving you a run-a-round, lady. I don't know you.

Observation

Other managers and producers of bad plays are recommended to the idea. We observed it on Monday evening as we limped away from the Guild Theater on 52nd street, where "He," the Guild's first headache (of the season), was offered.

"Why suffer? Aspirin—Only 5 Cents!"

Billy Bevan Again Back On Sennett Lot

Billy Bevan, well-known for the hundreds of comedies he did for Mack Sennett in the "silent" days, and also for his many characterizations in feature pictures, has returned to his first love—the Sennett lot—playing the leading role in "The Lyin' Hunter."

Mary Kornman Given Grown-Up Role

Remember the "Our Gang" children of several years ago; particularly the little lady? Taller now, and a bit more sophisticated by virtue of her maturer years, Mary Kornman who was the romantic interest in "Our Gang," will be seen in her first grown-up part in Radio Pictures' "Are These Our Children," a story of modern youth authored and directed by Wesley Ruggles. The picture is unique in that it features a cast of eight youngsters, none of whom is over 20 years of age. These are Eric Linden, Rochelle Hudson, Arlene Judge, Roberta Gale, Ben Alexander, Robert Quirk, Mary Kornman and Billy Butts.

Red Sparks, Comedian, Secretly Wed

"Suffering Ned" Sparks, unsmiling screen comedian, has been secretly happy for 10 months and nobody knew it except—Mrs. Ned Sparks.

Friends of the RKO-Radio Pictures actor learned today for the first time that he had secretly married Mercedes Caballero last October at San Bernardino.

tard, ¾ cup pineapple juice, 5 or 6 slices of canned pineapple.

Have a slice of ham cut about 1-inch thick. Trim off the rind and the lean edge. Fry out a piece of the fat in a heavy skillet. Brown the ham on both sides and transfer it to a shallow baking dish. Pour off the fat from the pan drippings and with the remainder in the skillet mix the sugar, bread crumbs, mustard and pineapple juice. Cover the ham with this mixture and bake without a lid in a very moderate oven (300 degrees F.) for about 1 hour. Baste the ham occasionally.

About 15 minutes after the ham is put into the oven, arrange the pineapple slices, cut in halves, in another shallow baking dish, and pour over them some of the liquid from the ham. Bake the pineapple slowly at 300 degrees F. for about 45 minutes. Turn the slices during the cooking. Serve the pineapple around the ham.

CASSEROLE OF MUSHROOMS (serving six) — Four tablespoons butter, 6 tablespons flour, 3 cups milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1½ cups mushrooms, 2 hard cooked eggs, sliced, 2 tablespoons chopped green peppers, 2 tablespoons chopped pimentos.

Melt butter and add flour. Blend and add milk, cook until creamy sauce forms. Stir constantly. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into buttered baking dish. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Serve in dish in which baked.

Cut squash in halves. Remove seeds and fibrous portions. Wash well. Cut bacon slices in halves. Place in squash, add portions of other ingredients. Set in shallow pan, add ½ inch of water and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. The squash are done when pulp is very soft when tested with a fork.

Mix and chill ingredients. Serve on lettuce or tomato salads.

LEMON SPONGE TAPIOCA PUDDING—One-half cup granulated tapioca, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons grated lemon rind, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 egg yolks, 3 egg whites, beaten.

Mix tapioca, salt and water. Cook 20 minutes in double boiler. Add sugar, lemon juice, rind, butter and egg yolks. Stir constantly and cook 5 minutes. Add butter, beat and fold in egg whites. Pour into glass dish. Cool and chill. Serve plain or with plain or whipped cream.

CIDER AND RAISIN SAUCE—One-fourth cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 cup cider, ¼ cup seedless raisins, 4 small pieces stick cinnamon, 8 whole cloves.

Mix the sugar, cornstarch and salt, and add the cider and the raisins. Put in the spices tied up in a piece of cheesecloth. Boil the mixture for about 10 minutes and take out the spices. Serve the sauce hot with ham.

GROUND BEEF BROILED ON TOAST—One pound ground raw beef, 8 slices bread, butter, salt and pepper to taste. Toast the bread on one side. Butter the untoasted side, spread to the edge with a layer of the ground beef, dot with the butter and broil under a flame for about 5 minutes. Season with salt and pepper, and serve at once with a garnish of parsley or pickles.

CORN PUDDING—Three eggs, 2 cups fresh or canned corn, or dried corn soaked and cooked, 2 tablespoons melted butter or other fat, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, 2 cups milk. Beat the eggs, add all the other ingredients, and more salt if necessary. Pour into a greased baking dish, place in a pan of hot water, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degree Farnheit) for about 1 hour, or until set in the center.

* * *

OATMEAL MUFFINS—One cup fine rolled oats, 1 cup sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon melted fat. Mix the dry ingredients. Beat the egg slightly, add the milk, and stir with the melted fat into the dry mixture. Bake in greased muffin pans in a moderately hot oven (400 degree Farnheit) for 25 to 30 minutes. Serve hot, or when cold split, butter, and toast before serving.

* * *

Increasingly popular is the type of dessert which may be made the day before the party.

Shell and blanch nuts and put through the meat grinder twice. Blend them to a paste with the extracts. When cream is beaten stiff, fold in the sugar, salt, and at the last the nuts. Pile lightly into individual serving cups, and garnish with slashed green maraschino cherries. Freeze by packing in ice and salt or in drawer of mechanical refrigerator.

HUNGARIAN COCOANUT DROPS—Two cupfuls sugar, ¾ cupful hot milk, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cupful grated cocoanut, 2-3 tablespoon grated orange or lemon rind.

These are ideal for bridge refreshments. Dissolve sugar in the milk, add butter, and cook, stirring occasionally, to 238 F., or until a few drops make a soft ball in cold water. Cool mixture until its center is room temperature. Combine cocoanut and grated rind with the mixture and stir until the mass is creamy and start to hold its shape. Drop from a teaspoon quickly on wax paper, making individual candies. When firm, they may be tucked into paper cups.

PRUNE DIAMONDS—One cupful light brown sugar, 2 eggs, beaten light; ¼ cupful shortening, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ½ cupful sour cream, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1¼ cupfuls flour, ½ cupful nut meats, 1 pound moist dried prunes.

Spicy and fragrant, these cakes are especially welcome in the lunch box. Cream the sugar and eggs with the softened fat. Sift spices, salt, soda and baking powder with the flour. Lightly dredge the broken nut meats and pitted prunes, which have been put through the meat chopper twice, with some of the flour. Add the cream alternately with the flour to the fat-and-sugar mixture. Mix all together thoroughly and stir in the prunes and nut meats. Pour into shallow pans, greased, and bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven—380 degrees Fahrenheit. Remove from the pans, cut in diamond shape and roll in sugar. They keep moist for a long time in a tin box.

FROZEN CLAM BOUILLON—Four cups bouillon, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 teaspoon gelatine. Soak the gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes and dissolve in hot bouillon, add desired seasoning and cool. Turn into refrigerator tray and freeze to a mush. Serve in bouillon cups topped with salted whipped cream, garnish with a dash of paprika. Freezes in two or three hours.

LIVER AND VEGETABLES—Two pounds sliced beef liver, 2 tablespoons bacon drippings, 1 cup small onions, 2 cups cut carrot or turnip, 1 quart small potatoes, 1 tablespoon celery top or parsley, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Prepare vegetables, cover with boiling water, boil for 20 minutes; then put into a baking dish or casserole with the stock in which the vegetables have been boiled; add 1 tablespoon of flour, mixed with cold water. Cover with the liver prepared as follows: Remove the skin and the veins from the liver, cut into convenient pieces, sprinkle with the salt, pepper and flour; put into a hot pan with the fat and sear quickly over a hot fire. Cover dish and bake in a slow oven for 1 hour. Serve in casserole. Serves 6.

BEEF KIDNEY, CREOLE STYLE—One beef kidney, 1 thick slice bacon, 2 tablespoons chopped suet, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 sweet pepper, 1 pint canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper, ⅛ teaspoon curry powder, 4 onions. Trim fat from a fresh kidney and cut in ¾-inch slices. Dredge with flour. Fry chopped bacon and suet in deep saucepan, add kidney, chopped onions, and pepper and turn until meat is thoroughly seared and coated with a rich brown gravy. Add tomatoes and seasonings, cover closely and simmer ¾ of an hour. Serve very hot on narrow strips of buttered toast. Serves five.

STEWED HEART WITH RICE BORDER—Two calves', lambs' or pigs' hearts, 2 tablespoons carrot or celery, 2 tablespoons cut onions, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon caramel, 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice. Wash hearts thoroughly in cold water; remove all tough muscles and veins; cut in small dice and cover with cold water for 15 minutes. Drain and cover with boiling water; add onion and carrot, and boil slowly for 3 hours; if water boils away, add just enough to keep heart covered. When tender, add salt, a little pepper and flour, which has been rubber smooth with melted butter. Boil 5 minutes, add the caramel, vinegar or lemon juice. Put into the center of a chop plate with boiled rice or mashed potatoes as a border. Sprinkle with parsley or celery tops and with paprika. Serves four.

CHICKEN PUFFS—One egg, 1 cup flour, ½-¾ cup diced chicken, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup milk, salt and pepper.

Beat egg yolks. Add milk. Sift together dry ingredients. Combine liquid and dry ingredients and add the chicken. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Drop by spoonfuls into deep fat which has been heated to 375-400 degrees F. Fry until golden brown. These may be baked in muffin tins for 20 minutes in a hot oven.

CHICKEN PUFFS ROYAL—Three-quarters cup ground cold chicken, 4 egg whites, whipped stiff; ¼ teaspoon pepper, 4 egg yolks, well beaten; ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon celery salt.

Combine all ingredients except the beaten whites. Fold these in last. Drop by spoonfuls into hot, deep fat. Fry until golden brown. Serve at once.

Doyle at World Series—Also Connie Mack, Babe Ruth, Mickey Cochrane and Nick Altrock

You'll have to read the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph if you want the best in the way of news, pictures and features on the world series that opens in St. Louis next Thursday.

CHARLES J. DOYLE, famous baseball writer of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, who hasn't missed a world series in years and years, will cover all of the games from the press box. He will send every ball and strike and tell you how the games are won and lost.

CONNIE MACK, manager of the World Champion Athletics, will present his reactions to the outcome of every game.

BABE RUTH, baseball's highest salaried player, will review each game and tell you of the feature plays and players.

MICKEY COCHRANE, of the Athletics, the game's leading catcher, will write the inside story of what happens on the field and in the clubhouse of the world champions.

NICK ALTROCK, baseball's comedian, will write of the funny side of the series.

The complete services of the ASSOCIATED PRESS and INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE will augment the output of these stars.

A battery of baseball photographers will snap the action and the notables.

You simply can't afford to be without the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph if you want to keep posted on the series from day to day. Read the advance stories of Altrock and Ruth in today's issue, and follow them up to and through the classic struggle.

And during all of this hubbub about the big series, football will not be neglected. The greatest staff of local and National writers ever gathered by one newspaper will report the games and keep you in touch with the news developments from day to day.

HOPE FOR ROOKIE IN FEAT OF ADAMS

THAT GABBY STREET intends to withhold his veteran pitchers and shoot a recruit slabman against the A's in the first game of the world series next Thursday has not yet been confirmed. Maybe he will and maybe he won't. Nobody knows except Gabby himself, and he's not telling. But even if he does decide to take a chance with a first-year man in the opener he won't be pulling anything new, and there's no good reason for the belief expressed by some of the dopesters that such a course would be a short cut to disaster.

Babe Adams

For if memory serves, Fred Clarke tried something of the sort while he was managing the Pirates 22 years ago. He not only sent a rookie pitcher named Babe Adams to the mound in the first game of the 1909 title stakes against the Detroit Tigers, but came back with him in the fifth game of the string and again in the seventh and deciding contest. Moreover, Adams made good in every instance, and from a pitching standpoint won the world championship for Pittsburgh practically single handed.

IN THE MATTER of games won the record of Adams for the regular seasons of 1909 did not compare as favorably with the figures of his mates as does Derringer's record with the marks of other Cardinal flingers this year. Babe won only 12 games during the campaign, whereas Howard Camnitz won 25, Vic Willis 22, Lefty Leifield 19 and Nick Maddox 13. Even Deacon Phillippe, at that late stage of his brilliant career, won eight.

But when the World Series opened, Clarke passed up all his veterans and gave the slab assignment in the jump-off game to the recruit who had been recalled from Louisville in the fall of 1908. Adams was chosen even over the leading pitcher of the National League, as Howard Camnitz had finished in a tie with Christy Mathewson, of the Giants, for top honors among the hurlers that season with a record of 25 games won and only six lost for a percentage of .806.

BABE VINDICATED CLARKE'S judgment by defeating George Mullin in the opener, 4 to 1. He came back and beat Eddie Summers and Willett in the fifth game, 8 to 4, and then, with the series deadlocked, he stepped in again with only two days' rest and downed Wild Bill Donovan and Mullin in the seventh and deciding contest, 8 to 0. Maddox was the only other Pirate pitcher able to win a game.

So there was a case in which a rookie flinger became the series hero, putting himself in the hall of fame with Deacon Phillippe, Christy Mathewson, Jack Coombs, Joe Wood, Urban Faber and Stanley Coveleskie as the only pitchers ever to win three games in a single derby. History won't be against the success of Derringer if Street starts him.

IF THE PIRATES had done nearly as well on the road as at home this season, they would now be finishing easily in the first division instead of having lost their last mathematical chance to get even a tie for fourth place. During the home campaign, which ended yesterday, the Bucs won 44 games and lost 33, playing one tie game with the Cubs in addition. That's a percentage of .571 on the home grounds, after a poor start there, against a mark of only .413 abroad, where the club has won 31 games and lost 44, with two more to be played. The Rovers won four of the seven series at Forbes Field. They defeated the Reds 10 games to one, the Robins eight to three, the Braves six to five, and the Phillies six to five, while losing seven out of 11 games to the Cubs and six out of 11 to the Giants and Cardinals.

Floyd Vaughn

FLOYD VAUGHN, Wichita shortstop and the property of the Pittsburgh club, had an unusual batting streak in the closing stages of the Western League season. He hit safely in nine consecutive times at bat before being stopped by Pitcher Haynes, of St. Joseph. That's not far from Tris Speaker's major league record of 11 straight hits.

In one of the games during Vaughn's clouting spree the Wichita club connected for six home runs and Floyd made two of them. In many respects this young shortstop has been one of the outstanding players of the Western League. He won't be ripe for the big show for another year or so, it is said, but he is one of the best Pirate bets for the future.

FORBES FIELD PATRONS during the season ended yesterday wondered why the ushers showed such unusual eagerness to recover baseballs fouled into the grandstand and yet failed to throw the spheres back onto the playing field.

Gus Miller, efficient head usher, explains that it was due to a new system. "Not all of the numerous ushers could be used every day, so they were put on a sort of merit system," Gus said. "If a boy recovered a ball on a day when he was on duty he was rewarded with an assignment to work again the following day or game. That's why he turned the ball in at the office instead of throwing it back on the field."

TO ENCOURAGE FURTHER the recovery of balls fouled into the stands, Gus offered prizes to the five ushers turning in the greatest number during the season. A checkup at the finish showed that Frank Nagey won first prize, a wrist watch; Emmett Dougherty, second prize, a leather pocketbook; Angelo Argentine, third prize, gold pencil; Jerome Eichelsbacher, fourth prize, bill fold, and Regis Henry, fifth prize, key holder. The enormous increase in recent years in the number of baseballs used in major league games is shown by the fact that the recovered balls alone at Forbes Field during 1931, not counting the many taken as souvenirs by spectators, totaled approximately 1,500, or an average of a fraction above 19 to a game. Often in the old days an umpire supplied with three baseballs at the start of a game went through the entire contest without calling for more. The highest number ever used in a game at old Exposition Park was 11.

WITH TOMMY LONGHRAN substituted for Jack Sharkey in the 15-round bout with Primo Carnera in Brooklyn next Thursday, because of a reported injury to one of the ex-sailor's hands, and the winner scheduled to meet Sharkey over the same distance October 12, rumors that some one attempted to fix Sharkey in connection with the original match calls for an investigation by the New York Boxing Commission.

If any of the men interested in Carnera tried to carry into that affair the shady stuff of which they were accused in connection with some of Primo's bouts on his road tour, it's high time for the boxing powers to take drastic steps that will keep the crew from doing the game any further harm.

HELEN HICKS, MRS. VARE IN FINAL

By NAN O'REILLY
International News Service

BUFFALO COUNTRY CLUB, WILLIAMSVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 25—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, five times American women's champion, and Miss Helen (Billie) Hicks, the sensational Long Island girl, will meet here tomorrow for the American women's golfing championship.

Mrs. Vare won her semi-final match this morning, defeating Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, 2 up, on the eighteenth hole.

SEVEN HOLES HALVED

Miss Hicks matched British determination with American stubborness to gain the final round, playing shot for shot with Miss Wilson over the closely-contested route. Seven of the 17 holes they played were halved. Miss Hicks shot an approximate 79, the lowest round of the tournament to date.

Mrs. Vare, playing in championship form, had difficulty staving off the bid of Miss Van Wie, whom she twice before has beaten in the final round of this tournament. All even at the end of nine holes, Mrs. Vare won the tenth and eleventh and when the margin was reduced to one, the champion shot a birdie 4 on the eighteenth to win.

HELEN'S FIRST FINAL

Miss Hacks' victory today enabled her to reach the final in a tournament for the first time in her links career.

Dormie 2 at the seventeenth, all Helen needed was a half to settle the issue, and she played a grand pitch and run shot four feet past the pin for a sure 4 after Miss Wilson laid her ball that same distance from the cup for her 4. They each holed their putts and the match was over. The cards:

Miss Wilson—

Primo-Loughran Bout Abandoned

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—Negotiations for a heavyweight bout October 1 between Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran today were abandoned. Carnera will meet Jack Sharkey on October 12 if Sharkey's injured finger heals.

The Loughran-Carnera bout was proposed to take the date originally assigned to the Carnera-Sharkey fight when Jack secured a postponement.

UNLAWFUL TO SHAVE IN CENTRALIA—Between the dates of July 8 and August 12 it was unlawful for any male resident of Centralia, Wash., to shave—and the law was rigidly enforced. The annual Southwest Washington Pioneers' Picnic was held during the middle of August and Centralia insisted in having a real pioneer aspect to its celebration. The law permits beards to be trained, trimmed, braided or marcelled according to taste, but there must be a beard in evidence and policemen are authorized to pull the whiskers to test their genuineness. PANKA TO BOX AT BOWL

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Billy Townsend vs. Pearl Whitehead, 10 rounds, Los Angeles.

Announcement was made today by Promoter Apples Meyers that another boxing show will be held in the Meyer's Bowl, North Braddock, next Wednesday night, featuring two heavyweights, George Panka, of Homestead, and Roy (Ace) Clark, Negro giant, of Philadelphia, in the 10-round main bout. Eddie Reed, clever Negro lightweigh, of Philadelphia, who holds a one-round knockout victory over Johnny Jadich, and formerly boxed out of Erie, will be in the eight-round semi-final against a good opponent.

The Bowl was thought to have ended its season with its Tiger West-Paul Pirrone show of last week, but the management decided the weather remains sufficiently good to risk one more card.

Hickey Park, Millvale, closed its season last night.

CHANGE AT GARDEN

A change has been made in the preliminary card for the Tony Herrera-Joey Goodman show at Motor Square Garden next Monday night whereby Young Bordell, of New Kensington, who is suffering from manager trouble, has been dropped.

Bordell was to box Don Asto in the opener, signalizing the professional debut of the latter, but, instead, Kenny Davis, of East Liverpool, O., who was matched to box U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, in the second bout, will take on Asto in the opener, and Bobby Vogel, of Erie, has been signed to pitch against Carpentier.

Between Rounds

Dominick Profio, former local welterweight, has been signed to box K. O. Yutzy, of Meyersdale, Pa., in the eight-round semi-final to a bout between Sparrow Kesner and Jimmy Lamberson for the American Legion at Elkins, W. Va., Saturday night of next week. Profio has been out of the ring for about a year, and is trying a comeback.

Vaudeville and other entertainment will vie with amateur boxing bouts at the smoker to be staged at the Linwood A. C., in the armory of the Twenty-eighth Signal Corps, in East Liberty, tonight.

Al Singer, former lightweight champion, has broken his right hand in California and will be idle for several months.

Benny Leonard, another former lightweight champion, who is trying to do a comeback, wants to fight in Pittsburgh, but his manager balks at having him meet any tough opponents, so the fans of this city probably will have to be satisfied to do without seeing him perform.

At a meeting in the local Boxing Commission office yesterday, Jack Barry, former local boxer and now promoter in Erie, was ordered not to use Frankie Bojarski, sensational Erie southpaw, in future bouts at his club, the Gem A. C. A complaint, charging Barry is Bojarski's manager, brought about the order from Commissioner Dr. W. D. McClelland.

PIRATES LOSE HOME FINAL

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The Pirate home season is at end with the final curtain to be dropped Sunday in Chicago. Our Boys were almost helpless in the face of southpaw opposition in the Forbes Field farewell, the spectacle standing out as a fitting climax to a club that stumbled throughout the summer largely on account of the pitchers who serve the ball with the left hand.

Big Jim Elliott held the Oaklanders to five hits and the Quakers won the finale, 5 to 1. Big Jim chalked up his nineteenth triumph of the season, his former Brooklyn buddies and the Pirates being his "sucker" teams. Larry French was rather easy for the Quaker batters, they making all of their runs and hits in the seven rounds he worked. Bob Osborn relieved him.

The Phillies' triumph made it 13 successes for them in the 22 tilts with the Buccos. After the game the Corsairs departed for Grand Rapids, where they will play this afternoon. The Pittsburghers will play in Chicago Saturday and Sunday, the Sunday contest to be the last of the season.

One of the weakest-hitting teams collectively in either major league, the Buccos are quite lucky to finish in the fifth position in close proximity to the "money" clubs. The splendid pitching that has prevailed throughout the season seems to have kept the team from a lower notch.

The contemplated departure of Jewel Ens from the helm of the Pirate brig is a development that will bring much regret among fans, players and newspapermen in every city of the National League. The collective verdict on Jewel throughout the Heydler circuit is that he is a four-square, keen-witted hustler who plays no favorites on or off the field.

The Buccos have been below the .270 mark in club batting throughout the season when it was thought the team would bat something like 20 points higher. That no pilot could have done better under the condition is the opinion of those who have made a study of the club.

Dotted with lefthand batters, the Pirate lineup has been a "setup" for lefthand pitchers from the start to the finish of the race. John McGraw started four southpaws against the Freebooters in one set of games. Many theorists will tell you that the style of pitchers should make no difference, but the practical men of the diamond have a good laugh up their sleeves when they hear this contention voiced.

Lloyd Waner set a new major league record for times at bat for a single season yesterday when he raised his total to 673. The old mark was held by Rabbit Maranville and was created in 1922 while he was a member of the Pirates.

BURNS, IRWIN TIE

The Dan Burns Club, West Penn Independent Grid Conference contender, and the Irwin Scholastics, played a 2-all tie at Parnassus High School Field last night. F. Kramer and Berkman scored safeties.

PITT AWAITS MIAMI; TECH, DUKES DEPART

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Two of Pa Pitt's three college football teams were preparing today to pull stakes for games out of town tomorrow, while the other one was getting set to welcome a foe.

The Duquesne University Dukes, who opened the season a week ago tonight by downing Geneva College, 13-7, at Forbes Field, were to leave for Uniontown in time to get in a workout there this afternoon and stop at the Summit Hotel over night on their way to Morgantown to do battle with Coach Greasy Neale's potentially tough West Virginia University Mountaineers.

TECH LEAVES TONIGHT

Meanwhile, Carnegie Tech's squad was getting ready to depart at 6 o'clock in the evening for Buffalo, where the University of Buffalo is to be met in the opener. Last year Tech flashed a steamroller display to down the Bisons, 75-2, in the lidlifter in the same city, but reports from Buffalo are to the effect that they have a somewhat stronger aggregation up there this year and hope to put up a fair sort of a game.

Coach Steffen, of Tech, hopes to be able to get a couple of touchdowns early and then test out his many new players. The entire squad will make the trip.

Pitt will be the lone local team performing on its home lot tomorrow, when Coach Jock Sutherland sends his Panthers out for their first parade of the year before the fans against Miami University, of Oxford, O. Miami is touted as the strongest team the Blue and Gold ever has met in an opening game at the Stadium. We'll know more about that after it's all over.

Most of the Duquesne adherents will make the trip to Morgantown to see their favorites in action against the Mountaineers. Many will go by automobile, and there also will be a special train.

BACH GOES SOUTH

Coach Layden scrimmaged his Duquesne squad hard yesterday, which is something unusual for him so late in the week. He admits he is a bit up a tree with regard to Saturday's battle, not having a line on what to expect from the West Virginia team, which will be playing its first game. He may make a few last-minute switches in his lineup.

Line Coach Joe Bach, of the Dukes, will leave by airplane this afternoon from Bettis Field for Cincinnati, where he will entrain for Atlanta, Ga., to scout Ogelthorpe in its game with Chattanooga tomorrow. Ogelthorpe comes here to battle the Dukes next Friday night.

Indications at yesterday's Pitt workout for the Miami warmup tussle were that when kickoff time at the Stadium rolls around at 2 o'clock daylight saving time tomorrow the veterans who have been kept hustling for their jobs will be back at their posts. This means that Daugherty will get the call over Tormey at center and Quatse will be at tackle instead of Merideth and that the Panthers will line up as follows:

CAPABLE RESERVES ALLEGHENY GRID NEED

FIRST-STRING ELEVEN FINE MACHINE

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Sept. 25.—Confronted with a woeful lack of reserve material, and with an early injury to Tackle Garnet Francis that has caused Coach Harry Crum and his able assistant, Charley Lopeman, to weaken the backfield contingent to bolster the line, Allegheny College is looking forward with some degree of trepidation to the 1931 gridiron campaign.

Allegheny's losses by graduation and ineligibility were not especially heavy, but the passing of Knapp, Smith, Anderson and Bernard McManus, all first-stringers, meant the difference between an eleven in passing shape for reserves and one in a sad plight.

The school is attempting the "lily white" system, having abolished all athletic scholarships. That means that few, if any, freshmen footballers of varsity timber are on hand. The system may, in time, work out, but it is going to be extremely tough on those institutions taking the lead. Penn State is feeling its effects this year.

FRANCIS CRIPPLED

Francis, counted upon to fill a tackle position, broke his left shoulder this summer diving in a swimming pool. He reported for fall drill, took things easy for a week and then cracked it all over again when he missed a tackle and ploughed into the ground.

With first-string material at such a premium, the loss of Francis, even though temporary, came as a blow. It meant that Balser, a strong backfield dependable, had to be shifted to the line, cutting down the number of available big-league backs.

The backfield that will start against the Clarion Teachers in the inaugural tomorrow will be made up of Bob Garbark, Wally Berger, Harry Dennison and Nick Varano. If Crum and Lopeman could send this quartet into a game and know that it would be able to stay in there, that no one was going to be injured, everything would be swell. But this combination will have to depend on Ungerman, Joe, Andy Varano and Sutter as reserves, none of whom has had sufficient experience.

Garbark, a wow of a line plunger and a sterling defense man, is handling the kicking. Anderson punted for Allegheny last year and turned in a fine job, with the exception of one game, but Andy dropped out of school, and Coach Crum had to seek a new booter. Garbark is doing fair.

BALSER TO SUB AT TACKLE

On the line, Boylan and Horn have the inside track at the terminals. Brown, who has been on the sidelines since suffering a sunstroke two weeks ago, will make a strong bid for the starting job when he rounds into shape. Cort, a freshman, has shown surprising class to date.

Balser will play a tackle until Francis gets back, paired off with the veteran Joe (Sphinx) Pichitino, Carey March, a junior, and Red Vanaman, who also plays a guard, will do the understudying.

The guard roles should be ably handled by Waite, a hefty 190-pounder, and Bugbee, both lettermen. Ray, a freshman, and Johnny Edwards, also a first year man, are reserves.

Co-Capt. Morse has the snapperback job well in hand. Morse may be called upon to drop back and do a trick at punting if anything happens to Garback, or if Bob, who shares the captaincy, fails to come through as a kicker. He's an accurate passer on the attack and a power on the defense.

Allegheny's schedule calls for the Methodists to play nine games, four of them being homecoming encounters. The season opens tomorrow with Clarion, here, and the Edinboro Teachers will pop into town next week.

Westminster appears here for the annual Homecoming Day game, October 10. On October 17 the Methodists meet Thiel at Greenville in another feature clash, and then return home to take on Adrian College, of Adrian, Mich., October 24. Grove City celebrates Homecoming Day October 31—with the Gaitors supplying the opposition. St. Bonaventure will be met at Olean November 7; Geneva on November 14, and the tough West Virginia Wesleyan eleven on November 21. This game will be the homecoming battle for the Bobcats.

AFTER 10 YEARS TOGETHER

MANAGER JEWEL ENS — CAPT. PIE TRAYNOR

Capt. Pie Traynor rounded out 10 consecutive years of third base play before the Pirate fans in yesterday's closing game of the home season at Forbes Field. Through all these years, Manager Ens has been with the Pirates, and the pair have been buddies. They may not be together next year. Photo shows Pie chalking up his tenth year on his uniform box above his locker as Ens looks on, still cheerful despite a season of bad breaks which may cost him his job as pilot of the locals. George Gibson is reported to be his likely successor.

DATTO KNOCKS OUT WILSON IN THIRD

By JAMES MILLER

Little Jackie Wilson's dream of becoming a main bout fighter went "pop" last night when he was knocked out by Johnny Datto, hard-hitting Filipino, of Cleveland, in the third round of their scheduled 10-round main bout of the final outdoor show of the season at Hickey Park, Millvale.

A solid left hook that landed on the Homewood Negro's chin early in the round had him wobbly and helpless to ward off the rushes of Datto and an overhand right felled Jackie for the count.

Wilson, outweighed by four and a half pounds, was no match for Datto, who permitted the local boy to carry the fight for the first two rounds, in order that an opening might be made for his deadly punches. The finish came after two minutes and 28 seconds in the third frame. Datto weighed 126½ pounds.

PURSE ATTACHED

Datto's purse was attached after the fight by the secretary to Sheriff Robert S. Cain, Franklin Sandrock, for an alleged debt of $487 to Charles J. Findley, of Cleveland. Boxing Commissioner Dr. W. D. McClelland will hold up Datto's money until a settlement is reached.

Eddie Kaufman, of Cleveland, subbing for Louie Severo, also of Cleveland, who injured a hand in training, fell a knockout victim to Ray Collins, of Erie, in the third round of the carded eight-round semi-final.

PORTLAND STOPPED

Eddie Guba, of Clairton, a last-minute sub for Jackie Griffiths, of the Hill, scored a knockout over Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, in the third round of the opening bout.

Tommy Grant and Jock Simco were the judges and Eddie Kennedy and Joe Keally alternated as referees. Chappie Couch and Steve Russell were the timers and Harry Klaas did the announcing. Dr. M. R. Goldman was the commission physician.

Fight Results

At Johnstown—Willie Davies defeated Ross Fields, 10 rounds; Walter Strapple defeated Young Bordell, 6 rounds; Kayo Angelo knocked out (technical) George O'Hara, 3 rounds; Joe Adams knocked out (technical) Pete Manus, 5 rounds.

At Wilmington, Del.—Johnny Peppe defeated Tommy Rios, 8 rounds; Joey Hatfield and Reggy Snyder drew, 6 rounds; Johnny Craven knocked out (technical) Spike Hemlock, 1 round; Billy Reese defeated Young Goldie, 6 rounds; Johnny Harlow defeated Tony Lazar, 4 rounds.

At New York—Eddie (Kid) Whalen defeated Connie Josenio, 10 rounds; Leslie Robinson defeated Joe Ferrera, 6 rounds.

LOCAL GOLFERS LEAD RIVALS

CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS, Pa., Sept. 25.—Pittsburgh's two contenders for the Northwestern Pennsylvania amateur golf championship were leading their opponents through the ninth hole of the semi-final round in the fifteenth annual tournament here this morning.

Frank Nash, of the Highland Country Club, was 2 up on young Alex Brown, of the Wanango Country Club, Franklin, and H. F. Miller, Jr., of Montour Heights, was 1 up on Guy McCall, Buffalo public links player, as they rounded the turn.

Nash, who won the title here in 1927, was making use of a magic putter to hold his lead over Brown. He was 3 up coming to the ninth, but shanked three consecutive shots on that hole and wound up with a seven, leaving him 2 up as he started the final nine.

Miller and McCall were waging a pretty even battle, with the Pittsburgh man exhibiting more steadiness than his youthful opponent.

SECOND DIVISION

M. A. Berkimer, Butler, defeated J. H. Young, St. Clair, 5 and 4.

FOURTH DIVISION

R. R. Bleakley, Franklin, defeated F. H. Malone, Greenville, 2 up.

FIFTH DIVISION

Donald Severn, Greenville, defeated R. C. Rider, Cambridge Springs, 1 up.

MRS. GARBER VICTOR

Mrs. D. A. Garber, of Stanton Heights, scored a low gross of 96 to win the women's one-day invitation tourney at the Youghiogheny Country Club yesterday. Mrs. C. H. Harding, Edgewood, and Mrs. R. H. Hoy, of Chartiers Heights, tied for low net with 80s. Mrs. Frank Baerman, Chartiers Heights, won in the second flight with a net 84 and Mrs. Nelson, South Hills, and Mrs. Turow, Stanton Heights, tied for third flight honors, with net 75.

TWO BOXERS BARRED

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—The State Athletic Commission has announced the indefinite suspension of Tad Lewis, Lancaster boxer, for fouling an opponent at Lancaster, September 4. Mike Krick, Franklin boxer, also was suspended for failing to honor a contract. Giant Jack Taylor, Philadelphia, was declared ineligible, while Matty Mario, New York, and Rattie Kechline, Philipsburg, N. J., were reinstated.

CRAVOTTA TO GO ABROAD

Charley Cravotta, of Uniontown, welterweight champion of the A. M. A. A. U., has been selected as a member of the American team of amateur boxers to make a tour of Europe. The team will compete in six tournaments abroad.

HESS REACHES SEMI-FINALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

City high school racquet aces face opposition from borough scholastic stars in semi-final competition of the ninth annual Harvard Cup tennis tourney at the University Club this afternoon.

Emerson Hess, champion of Pa Pitt's public secondary institutions, encounters Ralph Bald, Mount Lebanon luminary and holder of the Western Pennsylvania Boys' title, in an upper sector combat, while, in the lower half, Nathan Hyman, runner-up to Hess for the all-city crown, takes on Paul Elliott, Wilkinsburg contender and former Pittsburgh Center Boys' premier. Both Hess and Hyman carry the colors of Taylor Allderdice High School.

Hyman registered the lone reversal yesterday by accounting for Harold Hatch, Mount Lebanon driver, 8-6, 4-6, 6-4.

The summary of yesterday's matches:

Third round—Thomas Stout, Coraopolis, defeated Lawrence Turney, Duquesne University Prep, 4-6, 6-0, 6-4.

Fourth round—Emerson Hess, Taylor Allderdice, defeated Robert Burnett, Wilkinsburg, 7-5, 6-3; Ralph Bald, Mt. Lebanon, defeated Byron Dillon, Bellevue, 6-1, 6-0; Paul Elliott, Wilkinsburg, defeated Thomas Stout, Coraopolis, 6-0, 6-1; Nathan Hyman, Taylor Allderdice, defeated Harold Hatch, Mt. Lebanon, 8-6, 4-6, 6-4.

Dr. Rote Is Victor In Tennis Tourney

Dr. William Rote defeated Dr. J. S. Laird, 6-2, 6-2, in the men's singles final in the Municipal Hospital's second annual tennis tournament. Miss Maurine Collins won the women's singles crown by defeating Miss M. Avery, 6-1, 1-6, 6-4, and paired with Dr. Rote to win the mixed doubles, at the expense of Dr. Phillip Faix and Miss Teresa Conroy, 6-3, 6-1.

Dr. D. P. Greenlee and Dr. William Hazlett defeated Dr. C. Herron and Dr. Rote, 6-4, 6-4, in the men's doubles, and in the women's doubles final Mrs. G. Baird and Miss A. Tipton defeated Miss Collins and Miss Conroy, 6-3, 6-1.

Robins Lose Pair; Browns Top Cards

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—The Brooklyn Robins stood up and took it twice yesterday for the benefit of the unemployed and 44,000 wild-eyed fans. The Robins first took a 3-to-1 beating from the Giants, and then, after an hour's pause, Uncle Robbie's boys came right back to catch a trimming from the Yankees, 5 to 1.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—The St. Louis Cardinals, 1931 National League champions, bowed before the Browns here yesterday, 7 to 4, in a charity game witnessed by 20,000. The proceeds were $30,250, which will go to the unemployed of St. Louis.

MAX CAREY HERE

Max Carey, former Pirate star, is in Pittsburgh today on a business mission. Carey expects to return to his St. Louis home soon. He anticipates attending the world series in that city.

Violet Troutman Wins Golf Laurels

Miss Violet Troutman was crowned women's golf champion of the Country Club of Pittsburgh this morning when she defeated Mrs. J. W. Kinnear in the final round of the tournament, 2 and 1. Miss Troutman reached the final round by defeating Mrs. A. R. Budd yesterday, 6 and 5, while Mrs. Kinnear advanced at the expense of Mrs. R. W. Kiser, 1 up. Today's cards:

Miss Troutman:

CITY LEAGUE ELEVENS OPEN SEASON

By JULIUS LEVIN

With the City League schools ushering in their 1931 football campaigns and a varied program of out-of-town contests that is expected to have a big bearing in the race for the Syracuse Cup emblematic of the championship of the W. P. I. A. L. followers of the scholastic game will not find today's card lacking in high-class attractions.

Walter Gross

While the City League schools playing today are engaged in intersectional affairs that do not involve any titles, the contests, nevertheless, are of vital importance to the coaches as they will give them their first chance to see how their revamped grid machines perform under fire.

SCHENLEY AT OLIVER

Two contests involving leading contenders for the W. P. I. A. L. laurels are slated at North Braddock and Washington. At North Braddock Johnny Reed's Night Owls, representing Scott High School, faces its toughest test of the season in Charleroi, reported to have the heaviest eleven in the titular race this year, while at Washington Coach Hank Day's Little Presidents tangle with Nate Lippe's Aliquippa machine.

RANKIN AT BRADDOCK

Out at Edgar Thomson Field, Braddock, the team representing that town clashes with its sectional rival, Rankin, in a game that promises to develop into a close battle. Coach Jock Rosenberg has his Rankin boys on edge for a tough game.

Phil Bridenbaugh's New Castle eleven will strive to remain in the running for the W. P. I. A. L. crown by engaging McKees Rocks in a night fray at New Castle.

Monessen will be the scene of a grudge battle between Coach Ditty's Monessen eleven and Redstone Township. This also is a night game.

RUTH EXPECTS CARDS TO HIT

By BABE RUTH

Baseball's Highest Salaried Player

Before each world series, it is customary to compare the two teams in pitching, catching, infielding and outfielding, but in this series of articles I am going to discuss the affair from other angles. I will leave the comparisons for those who have an opportunity to see each team in action a number of times during the season. Naturally, I do not see the National League champions between the time of their spring training and the world series, but I see plenty of the American League champions each year.

Babe Ruth

I get a line on the National Leaguers by reading of their work through the season, giving a team particular attention once it appears likely to participate in the world series. I get other information from persons who see a lot of National League games. As for this year's pennant winners—the St. Louis Cardinals—I have seen them in three of the past five world series and I also see them each spring, so I have a fair line on the capabilities of the players.

I believe this year's Cordinal team is a better one than the one which was defeated by the A's last fall, or the one which the Yankees defeated four straight games in 1928. It looks to me to be a club that will put a lot of excitement into the series.

I look for the team to do more scoring than in 1930. In only one game last October did Street's men look like champions on the attack, and then they scored only five runs. That was in Hallahan's game in St. Louis, which they won, 5-0. In the remaining five games, the National Leaguers scored a total of only seven runs, which is well below the standard of any championship team.

TO WATCH HOGAN

Hogan will be the cynosure of all eyes. The sophomore field general has been getting some fine notices in the pre-season dope, and the fans will want to see how he acts under fire. Bill Cartwright, star back, is the big gun of the Miami crew, and, if he is "hot" or "on" tomorrow, he may show the customers some tall running.

Children under 16 years will be admitted to the game for 10 cents, entering through Gate 18.

forbidden study for several days preceding the examinations, in order that what they have learned may become clear in their minds and their thinking powers will be rested.

Elmer Layden

THE PROGRAM WILL be confined to exercise drills on the golf course in Uniontown. The Dukes will relax, eat carefully and sparingly, and so get into shape, not only physically but mentally as well, for their encounter with the Mountaineers. This is just another example of the finely studied system of psychology which the Duquesne coach employs. The odds will be greatly against the Dukes tomorrow, but while there will naturally be no overconfidence, the Bluffites at the same time will not be without hope of winning. Football teams have been taken into hiding before in preparation for crucial games, and so have boxers and other athletes upon whom a strain might work havoc mentally. But few have been the instances in which plans were more carefully laid than those of Coach Layden for this game. Dr. L. D. O'Donnell, team physician; Bruce Jackson, trainer, and half a dozen assistant student managers will accompany the squad in order that no small detail may be overlooked where neglect might be harmful to the team's best interests.

ALTROCK PICKS A'S TO WIN SERIES

By NICK ALTROCK

Baseball's Funny Man.

As one of the few experts who predicted 50-cent wheat and corn liquor at $2 a pint, I now train my adding machine and periscope on the world series to give the literate public the dope.

I usually gaze into a crystal ball before rounding up my conclusions, but this year, on account of employment conditions, I am peering into a red apple to see which way the worm turns.

Nick Altrock

In sizing up the big series, I am absolutely unbiased. I am willing to be bribed by either side. I would like also to announce that in making judgments nothing sways me except tornados and cyclones.

As a baseball prophet, I have a reputation of being as straight as a cruller. Well, anyway, as straight as a doughnut. For this and no other good reasons I pick the A's.

A. L. MANAGERS SMARTER

The Athletics have a better chance because American League managers are smarter than National League managers. I can prove this by logic, latitude and longitude. In the past five years, for instance, eight National League managers out of eight predicted the National League team would win the series. Any set of guys that couldn't get a better doping record than that would make Simple Simon look like a Rhodes scholar.

On the other hand, eight American League managers predicted the A. L. entry would win in the last five years. A record like that proves A. L. managers are not only brighter but they are smart enough to be entitled to Harvard diplomas on an easy payment plan.

WATCH OUT FOR RHEM

This year, I've been gathering statistics along this same line and I find so far six N. L. managers pick the Cards. One of the two missing ones is Gabby Street, who is so busy explaining to friends why he can't get them six tickets apiece he not only hasn't time to predict but not even to shave.

But if the other missing National League manager doesn't come out for the Cards before game time he will break a precedent into so many pieces the shock will be quoted on all seismographs.

My first move in predicting is to compare the pitching staffs. The Cards are weaker here because Flint Rhem is always subject to kidnaping during a series.

On the other hand, the A's pitching staff has more power than the Edison Light Company. When you call Lefty Grove and Bob Earnshaw iron men you are just insulting them. They are made of carborundum.

When Connie Mack shoots the works with Grove and Earnshaw, it's just like shooting loaded dice in your favor. Of course, once in a while this season these boys have dropped a game, but it was to relieve the monotony and keep from going nuts.

GRIMES' STATUS

Of course, Burleigh Grimes will be in there for the Cardinals with his spitter. But Gabby Street's problem is to stop Grimes from making cracks about Mickey Cochrane's prominent ears and keep his mind on the game. In last year's series, Grimes got credit for nine innings and one monologue while he was in the box.

Farrell Overruled on Wage Cuts; Taylor Gains Strength in Corporation

By B. C. FORBES

THE UNITED STATES Steel Corporation directors have a habit of overruling the corporation executives on the question of reducing wages.

B. C. Forbes

James A. Farrell, president of the corporation, had all along proclaimed opposition to any wage reductions. Publication of his attitude latterly became very distasteful to others influentially identified with the steel trust.

The incident hasn't served to strengthen President Farrell's place in the set-up of the organization. Rather has it brought Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the powerful finance committee, to the fore. It was he, not President Farrell, who presided over the giving out of the reduction news.

Judge Gary, mighty though he was in dictating the policies of the corporation, once was similarly overruled.

JUST AS ON this latest occasion, the writer at that time learned in advance that steel wages would be reduced. Judge Gary was furious when this column revealed what was coming. He denied vehemently that there would be any change whatsoever in the steel corporation's wage rates.

On a Monday morning, the New York World carried a front page "authoritative" statement that steel wages were to be maintained, the newspaper's authority being none other than Judge Gary. Next day the finance committee met, overruled Judge Gary, hastily summoned financial reporters, and publicly announced a wage cut.

That was one of the few times Chairman Gary was not permitted to have his own way.

IT SHOULD BE said, in fairness to the steel trust directors, that (so far as I know) they have always supported recommended wage advances, and there were lots of them during Judge Gary's regime.

The average pay of steel corporation employes—including salaries and wages but excluding general administration and the selling force—was $5.60 per day last year, contrasted with $2.88 per day in 1914. At the height of the post-war boom, the average daily pay reached $6.96, in 1920. The average fell to $5.61 in the following year and to $4.78 in 1922.

It will thus be seen that steel pay last year was slightly more than twice what it was in the pre-war year 1914.

This year's showing unquestionably will be distinctly poorer because salaries were reduced from 10 to 5 per cent on August 15. Wages are to be cut 10 per cent October 1, and business has been running for some time at less than one-third of capacity.

IT WILL interest you to know the caliber of the men composing the steel corporation directorate at this time: J. P. Morgan (chairman of the board), James A. Farrell, T. W. Lamont, George F. Baker, William J. Filbert (comptroller), Percival Roberts, Jr., Samuel Mather, Thomas Morrison, Eugene J. Buffington, Nathan L. Miller, Myron C. Taylor, Junius S. Morgan, Jr., Walter S. Gifford and D. F. Houston.

You will thus see that, one way or another, these gentlemen exercise a very far-flung influence upon American finance, industry, transportation.

SEVERAL NEWSPAPERS have made the mistake of referring to the United States Steel Corporation as the largest corporation in America. It isn't.

Much the largest corporation in the whole world is the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, with which is interwoven the Bell System. It has more than twice the assets of the steel corporation, namely $5,000,195,801, compared with the steel corporation's $2,394,544,611, both totals being for the end of last year.

Curiously enough, the president of the world's largest enterprise, Walter S. Gifford, was not so long ago elected a member of the steel corporation's inner circle, the finance committee.

The late George F. Baker, whose voice carried great weight in steel corporation concerns, was among the first to recognize young Gifford's extraordinary talents. It was Mr. Baker who not only annexed him to his own First National Bank board, but indorsed him for the steel corporation directorate.

ALTHOUGH MANY corporations are cutting wages, I doubt whether Gifford's American Telephone will figure in the list at this time. He is commander-in-chief of no fewer than 375,000 employes.

Transamerica Head Denies Bank Charge

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—(AP.)—A denial that directors of Transamerica Corporation had any design on "taking Bank of America of California away from its stockholders and selling it to outside interests" was issued here yesterday by James A. Bacigalupi, president of the corporation.

The denial followed a statement by A. P. Giannini, founder and former chairman of Transamerica that "enemies of the corporation" were seeking control of the big bank at the low prices for the stock.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

U. S. PAPER CONSUMPTION

Per capita consumption of paper in the United States, amounting to about 200 pounds a year, is approximately double that of any other country in the world, according to the Index, published by the New York Trust Company. For more than half a century the United States has been the largest paper maker and the largest paper user among the nations. After tracing the development of the industry from colonial times, when paper was a luxury available only to the rich, the Index says, "Great changes, on a tonnage basis, have taken place within the past 20 years in the predominating uses of paper in this country. For example, the output of paperboards, now the leading product of the industry in both quantity and value, has more than tripled since 1914, increasing from 1,292,000 tons in that year to more than 4,451,000 tons in 1929."

STOCK EXCHANGE TOPICS

Wall Street Focusing Attention on Money Market

Over a long period of time Wall street has found little or no reason for giving any great attention to the money market because of the extreme ease which has prevailed in that direction. Of a sudden, however, the credit situation forces itself broadly into the realm of matters coming in for careful consideration, that is so far as the collateral loan end of it is concerned. Weakening of the bill market with the consequent rise in rates there naturally serves to focus attention on the situation. A distinctly firmer tone marked yesterday in time money with potential borrowers reported bidding as high as 2 per cent for loans where the rate right along has been pegged at 1½ per cent. Those in close touch with conditions in the collateral loan market are of the opinion that substantially firmer conditions are destined to prevail.

A. B. Erskine, chairman of Studebaker Corporation, says—Net profits of Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company for 2½ years ended June 30, 1931, amounted to $4,305,000 and the surplus remaining on June 30, after deducting cash dividends paid was $3,042,000, equal to $42.54 a share on the 71,500 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the company now outstanding, and equivalent to seven years' future dividend requirements on this stock. Studebaker Corporation now owns over 13,000 shares of this stock. Its ratio of quick assets to current liabilities on June 30 was 351 per cent. In view of these facts and the further fact that net profits of the first six months of 1931 of $421,712 about covered the full dividend requirements this year. Directors expect to maintain dividends on the preferred stock. It is expected results of the fourth quarter will be better than third quarter, which will show some loss.

Although American Telephone and Telegraph Company probably will not cover the $2.25 dividend in the third quarter, which usually is the leanest period of the year, it undoubtedly will show the dividend covered for the first nine months. It probably will better this showing for the full year, since its business generally increases in the last quarter. The regular $2.25 quarterly dividends undoubtedly will be declared for the remainder of the year. In the near future, officials will meet and go into details concerning the expansion program for 1932. That it will be a substantial one seems probable.

Earnings of City Ice and Fuel Company for eight months to August 31 were sufficient to cover the year's dividend requirements of $3.60 a share on the common stock, after allowing for preferred dividends. Common dividend requirements are $4,240,000 and the preferred dividend calls for $1,295,138 annually. This established a new high record for the first eight months of any year in the company's history. Sales in July, August and September to date were greater than in the like 1930 period, establishing new records.

Prior to sailing for Europe, Edward Manville, chairman of the executive committee of Johns Manville Corporation, stated that despite depressed conditions, Johns Manville will pay its common dividend of $3 this year. Mr. Manville said that the movement to reduce the present scale of wages was a necessary step forward and that the sooner this was accomplished the sooner industry in general would be in a position to overcome the present depression and increase wages again.

The Anaconda Copper board, in line with expectations, voted yesterday to omit the quarterly dividend due on the stock. The situation in the copper metal market has remained decidedly unfavorable in spite of drastic measures taken to curtail output. Surplus stocks have risen sharply notwithstanding lowered rate of production for the reason that demand has been virtually at a standstill. Anaconda had paid dividends on a $7 basis at the peak in 1929, but since has reduced its rate on several occasions. The payments in the last two quarters were made at the rate of 37½ cents a share. This is the second time since 1900 that Anaconda common has been taken off a dividend basis. Nothing was paid on the common stock in 1921 and 1922, but payments in varying amounts had been made in all other years of current century.

STOCK MARKET FLUCTUATES FEVERISHLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP.)—The stock market seesawed feverishly today, reflecting the confused state of mind in Wall street left by the violent advance and headlong decline of the past two days.

The stock exchange board of governors decided to tighten up their control of short selling by requesting daily reports as to stocks sold short and bought back the same day. This was evidently aimed at the operations of floor traders.

Trading was active at times. Shares pushed up about 1 to 8 points during the early trading, fell back to show several losses of 1 to 8 at midday, pushed up to regain much of the early loss in the early afternoon, and ran into selling pressure. Extreme advances of about 3 points or more were recovered by United States Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Southern Pacific, New York Central and others, while Atchison sold up as much as 8 at one time. On the midday decline Coca Cola dropped 8 points and Eastman 4.

While the stock exchange rescinded its complete ban on short sales after the first two days of the week, it at the same time requested daily reports giving the identity of short sellers so that the governing committee might detect any bear raiding. Today's revision of the memorandum requesting the information will make the checkup even more thorough.

Tightening up of trading restrictions in London to the extent of abandoning that market's traditional periodic settlements for daily cash transaction naturally had an adverse effect upon sentiment here, although London stocks generally closed higher. The Paris Bourse, however, was heavy and some uneasiness was caused for a time by an erroneous report received by a Wall street financial news ticker of banking trouble in France.

The Federal Reserve Bank increased its rate on bankers acceptances to bring it in line with the higher open market rate which resulted yesterday from large foreign offerings. There was no further flurry of heavy offerings of acceptances, however.

Inflation to Help British Export Trade

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE SUSPENSION OF THE GOLD basis in England is expected to affect that country's foreign trade more than its domestic business. Britain will be helped in selling its products in foreign markets but will be hindered when its subjects want to buy from other countries.

In yesterday's column it was pointed out that the prices of the products of a country undergoing currency inflation do not rise as rapidly as the value of its money declines. This will tend to stimulate England's foreign trade. The buyers of other countries who want English products will have the advantage of being able to buy sterling for lower prices in relation to their own currencies.

This will be the equivalent of a reduction in the price of most of the English export products. England is a manufacturing country and probably will find that a lower value for the pound will help its sales in foreign markets.

Imports Hindered

INFLATED MONEY WILL WORK in the opposite direction when England is importing the products of other countries. Then English merchants will have to pay more pounds for the units of foreign money which they must secure to pay for purchases in other markets. England's principal imports consist of wheat, cotton and other farm products which cannot be produced in quantities in its own territory. Most students of foreign trade believe that the advantages will outweigh the disadvantages in foreign trade arising from the lapse from the gold standard.

Currency inflation, like all stimulants, is dangerous if used to access. If England were to continue to allow the gold reserve behind its money to slip, it eventually would find that confidence had been utterly destroyed in its currency and that it would finally become worthless as did the German mark after the war.

May Stabilize at Lower Value

IT IS IMPROBABLE that any such excess of inflation will be undertaken in England. It is possible that an attempt may be made in the future to restore the pound to its original gold basis. But many economists believe that England has found the maintenance of a pre-war gold standard too severe a burden to be attempted in the future. They predict that the pound eventually will be stabilized at a lower figure than its original par value. France did this when it restored the franc to a gold exchange basis of about one-fifth of its former level.

The effect of the suspension of the gold basis has sharply affected the foreign exchange value of sterling. Yesterday the pound was unofficially quoted at $3.80. This compares with its par value on a gold basis of $4.8665.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Raw sugar was quiet early today. The only sale confirmed was a small balance cargo of Cubas for prompt shipment amounting to about 1,800 bags at 3.42½ cents, concluded late yesterday. Buyers, as a rule, showed no particular interest, but there was nothing firmly offered below 3.43 cents.

In refined, business was of moderate proportions, and prices were unchanged at 4.55 cents for fine granulated, with imported white sugars and domestic beets still available below this quotation.

LOCAL STOCKS NARROW AND IRREGULAR

Lone Star Slips Back in Early Trading; Western Steady; Plate Glass Off

Prices were irregular in the early dealings with fractional overnight losses noted in most of the recent leaders. The volume of business showed no change from the average of the earlier part of the week with the fuel issues continuing to dominate the market.

Lone Star slipped back a little at the start, while Western Public Service showed a firmer tone. Pittsburgh Plate Glass eased a half point to 25, but trading was too light to indicate a definite trend. Blaw Knox held steady following its setback in the late dealings yesterday. Armstrong Cork was steady around the previous closing level.

THE ROAD BACK -:- By Erich Maria Remarque

CHAPTER XIV.

Albert and I are sitting in the Cafe Meyer by the window. Before us on the marble table are two glasses of cold coffee. We have been here three hours now without yet being able to make up our minds to drink such bitter brew. We have made the acquaintance of most varieties at the front, but this stuff is straight stewed coal.

Three tables only are occupied. At one a couple of profiteers are making a deal over a truckload of foodstuffs; at another is a married couple reading newspapers; and at the third we are sprawling over the red plush settle.

Synopsis

Ernst, who enlisted as a schoolboy, tells the postwar story of a group of comrades who march home when peace is made. Arriving at their home city, the men scatter to their homes. Ernst finds everything strange and puzzling, a changed world. His war friends seem the only link for him with reality. He sallies forth and looks up Albert Trosske and Willy Homeyer. The three run into a demonstration in the public square. A procession starts, in which the three join. Speeches are made—but the whole thing fizzles out inconclusively. The friends are disgusted. Ernst walks home alone, goes to bed conscious suddenly of the stark fact of his escape from the maelstrom of war.

Now Go On

The curtains are grimy, the waitress is yawning, the air is sticky, and altogether there is not much to be said for it—and yet to our minds there is a great deal to be said for it. We squat there contentedly; we have loads of time, the orchestra is playing, and we can see out the window.

So we remain until at last the three musicians pack up their things and the waitress moves sourly in ever diminishing circles around our table. Then we pay and slope off into the evening. It is marvelous to pass idly from one shop window to the next, not to have to trouble oneself about anything, just to be freed men.

At Struben street we call a halt. "What about going in to see Becker?" I say.

"Good idea," agrees Albert. "Let's. That will make him talk, I bet!"

MERCHANT INDIFFERENT

We spent a good part of our school days in Becker's shop. One could buy every imaginable thing here; notebooks, drawing materials, butterfly nets, aquariums, collections of postage stamps, antique books and cribs with the answers to algebraic problems. We could sit for hours in Becker's—it was here we used to smoke cigarets on the sly. He was our great confidant.

We go in. A couple of schoolboys in a corner hastily hide away their cigarets in the hollow of their hands. We smile and put on airs a little. A girl comes and asks what we want.

"We would like to speak to Herr Becker, if you please," I say. The girl hesitates. "Can I not attend to you?"

"No, Fraulein," I reply, "that you can't! Just call Herr Becker, will you?"

She goes off and we spruce ourselves up, thrusting our hands deep into our trouser pockets. That should fetch him!

We hear the old familiar tinkle of the office door opening and out comes Becker, little, gray and unkempt as ever. He blinks a moment. Then he recognizes us. "Well, Birkholz and Trosske!" says he. "Back again, eh?"

"Yes," we say quickly, awaiting the outburst.

"That's fine! And what will you have?" he asks. "Cigarets?"

We are taken aback and feel rather sheepish. We didn't want to buy anything; that was not our idea. "Yes," I say at last, "ten, please."

He gives us them. "Well, till next time!" says he, and shuffles off. We stand there a moment. "Forgotten something?" he calls, from where he stands on the few steps.

"No, no," we answer and go.

"Well!" I say, once we are outside. "He seems to think we've just been off on a bit of a walk!"

Albert makes a listless gesture. "Civilian bettle—"

We stroll on. Late in the evening we run into Willy and set off together for the barracks.

En route Willy suddenly springs to one side and I crouch down likewise. The unmistakable howl of a shell coming—then we look around mystified and laugh. It was merely the screech of an electric tram.

JUPP'S POSITION GONE

Jupp and Valentin, looking rather forlorn, are squatting in a great empty room meant to accommodate a whole platoon. At sight of us, their faces beam with satisfaction; now they will be able to make up a game of skat.

The short time has sufficed for Jupp to become a Soldiers' Councillor. He just appointed himself and now continues to be one for the reason that the confusion in the barracks is such that no one knows any different. It will do to keep him for the moment, his civil occupation having gone west. The solicitor for whom he used to work in Cologne has written to tell him that women are now doing the work excellently and more cheaply, whereas Jupp, during his time in the Army, will have grown out of office requirements, no doubt. He deeply regrets it, so he says; the times are hard. Best wishes for the future.

"It's a dud!" says Jupp glumly. "All these years a man has been living for just one thing—to get clear of the Prussians—and now he has to be thankful if he is able to stay on. —Well, it's six of one and half a dozen of the other—I'll go eighteen."

Willy has a corker of a hand. "Twenty," I answer for him. "And you, Valentin?"

He shrugs his shoulders. "Twenty-four."

As Jupp passes 40, Karl Broger appears. "Just thought I'd look in and see what you were doing," he says.

"So you looked in here, eh?" says Willy, with a smirk, settling himself down large and comfortable. "Well, I suppose barracks are the soldier's real home, if it comes to that.—Forty-one!"

LOCATE MEAN OFFICER

"Forty-eight," Willy thunders back.

"Well! This is big bidding." We draw in closer. Willy leans back luxuriously against the locker and shows us privately a Grand. But Valentin is grinning ominously—he has the still more powerful Null Ouvert up his sleeve.

It is wonderfully cozy in the barracks here. A stump of candle stands flickering on the table and the bedsteads loom dimly in the shadows. Then the great chunks of cheese that Jupp has scraped up from somewhere. He proffers each his portion on the end of a bayonet. We munch contentedly.

"Fifty!" says Valentin.

The door flings open and in bursts Tjaden. "Se—Se—" he stutters and in his excitement develops a terrible hiccough.

He shakes his head. "Se—Se—"

"Seelig—I've found Seelig," he cries jubilantly.

"Boy," roars Willy, "if you lie, I'll pitch you clean out the window!"

Seelig was our company sergeant major, a pig of the first water. Unfortunately, two months before the Revolution he was transferred, so that we have not as yet been able to get track of him. Tjaden explains that he is running a pub, the Konig Wilhelm, and keeps a marvelous good drop of beer.

"Let's go!" I shout, and we troop out.

"But not without Ferdinand," says Willy. "We have to find him first."—Ferdinand has an account to settle with Seelig on Schroder's behalf.

GO AFTER SEELIG

"Come down out of it," shouts Willy, "we've found Seelig."

"As true as I'm standing here," Tjaden assures him.

"Righto, I'm coming!" he answers.

Five minutes later he joins us below and learns how matters stand. We push off.

As we turn into Hoog street, Willy in his excitement bumps into a chap and sends him head over heels. "You great rhinoceros!" the man on the ground shouts after him.

Willy turns about sharply and stands over him threateningly. "Pardon! Did you speak?" he asks, touching his cap. The other picks himself up and looks at Willy. "Not that I can remember," he answers sullenly.

We cut across the park and pull up outside the Konig Wilhelm. The name has already been painted over. It is now called the Edelweiss. Willy reaches for the latch.

"Half a mo!" Kosole lays hold of his great paw. "Willy," he says, almost imploringly, "if it comes to a dust-up, I do the dusting! Is that right? Give us your hand on it."

DAILY SHORT STORY

The Meeting Adjourned

Citizens Accuse Girl of Indiscreet Affair

Mrs. Mortimer Pearson clutched the Rotogravure section of her Sunday New York paper in one hand that shook with excitement. With her other hand she moved her spectacles down from her forehead to where they would be of more use to her as aids to vision.

That didn't fool Mrs. Pearson, in the least.

"Mortimer," she said to her husband, covering the name beneath the picture, "who is that?"

Mr. Pearson gazed at the halftone. He wiped his spectacles and peered again. Then he removed his spectacles and tried it.

His wife glared at him.

"Pretty is as pretty does. I mean, don't you recognize her?"

He shook his head. "I ain't seen anything like that since lord-knows-what," he answered.

"Why should you? She's a Tuckerman Corner girl."

Mr. Pearson studied the likeness again, this time noting the face instead of the white curves of her young body.

"I sum," he said, "she's th' spittin' image of the Widow Donovan's girl."

"She is because she is," Mrs. Pearson cried. "I mean, she is Bella Donovan, and using that outlandish name of Babs de Novanne doesn't fool me one mite."

DEPARTS WITH PAPER

Mrs. Pearson snatched the paper away from her husband, folded it, went and put on her cloak and hat and started out.

"I'm running over to see Myra," she said.

"Probably Myra's seen it already and beat you by hours in runnin' 'round to th' neighbors with it."

"As if I gossiped," his wife cried.

She hastened out and down the road to Mrs. Myra Kelcey's home. She showed the likeness to Myra.

"There! I told you no good would come of Bella Donovan going to the city—look at th' brazen thing."

Myra Kelcey started at the likeness.

"Why, I do believe it's Bella Donovan!"

"Of course it is. And look at her, showin' her hips and all. She's just a brazen hussy. Can you imagine you and me exposin' ourselves like that?"

Mrs. Kelcey could not and admitted it. Mrs. Kelcey's hips were elephantine. Mrs. Pearson's hips were almost as thin, it seemed, as cast-off razor blades.

"Satan has got her," Mrs. Pearson said, piously.

"If," Mrs. Kelcey said, with a chuckle, "Satan could make me look like that he could have me!"

"I'm serious, Myra."

"Gawd knows you are."

"I'm not frivolous and I wouldn't show myself like that for a hundred dollars a week!"

GIRL CRITICIZED

"Bella Donovan, eh? Peach!" he commented.

"She's gotta be good to get that much," Tom said. His mother chuckled, but Mrs. Pearson didn't get it at all.

"If that doesn't prove my wisdom, nothing does. When Hubert got foolish over Bella Donovan and thought he wanted to marry her, I just put my foot down. Imagine my Hubert married to the poor, wicked creature!"

"He had a good eye, anyway," Tom murmured. His mother nudged him, secretly, to be quiet.

"Hubert is prospering in New York and happy and still single. When he does marry it will be to a nice quiet, God-fearing young lady," Mrs. Pearson declared.

"How long has he been in New York?" Mrs. Kelcey asked.

"Three years. I guess if he sees this picture of the Donovan girl with her wicked fancy name, he'll realize what a wise mother he had to stop him from ruining his life by marryin' her."

It was late in June when Bella Donovan, featured in New York as one of Kyrle Erroll's Beauties, Babs de Novanne, left the train at Tuckerman Corner.

She had considerable luggage and also a bundle in her arms. The bundle fluffily nested a 6-month-old baby.

Pete Roth, the station master, got a good look at the baby.

"Do you think I picked it off a gooseberry bush?" Bella asked.

Pete told his wife about it that noon. His wife rushed over to tell Mrs. Pearson. Mrs. Pearson rushed over to call on Mrs. Donovan, saying that she heard Bella was home and wanted to welcome her. She saw the baby.

"Well, I never!" Mrs. Pearson exclaimed.

QUESTIONED BY WOMAN

"Yes you have, once anyway, his name is Hubert," Bella answered.

"I was married," Mrs. Pearson exclaimed.

"I'd like to know who the baby's father is!" Mrs. Pearson said, eagerly.

"You're not the first woman to be in doubt about a child's father," Bella declared.

Mrs. Pearson turned quite red at this.

"I never had any doubts, no more than any good woman has. The idea of you bringing your fatherless brat to our town—do you expect to mingle with the decent people of Tuckerman Corner?"

"If I can find any. Ma is the only one I've seen, so far."

"You've seen me, and I'm decent—"

"Not in your mind. Now go on, Mrs. Pearson, and gallop around and tell everyone I've brought a little—baby home!"

"So you admit it!"

"Let me ask you a question, are you married?"

"No," Bella admitted.

"Was you ever married?"

"Not for a minute!"

She stalked out and almost ran across the street to start telling about it.

"Bella," said Mrs. Donovan, "you're th' divvil and all."

"What's this?" he asked.

"It looks like a baby, Father," Bella said.

Mrs. Donovan joined them. They had a long and a serious talk. As soon as Father Carroll left, Mrs. Pearson, who had been watching from a neighbor's house, hurried out and met him.

"I hope," she said, "that you persuaded the poor, wicked thing to leave our little town."

"Why should I, Madam?"

"Because she admitted to me that she was never married."

"Which, of faith, hope and charity, is the greatest?" Father Carroll asked.

"There's a limit to everything. I shall see to it that she doesn't flaunt her sin around here for our young folks to look upon—what an example."

He made no reply.

She repeated her assertion.

"The rain," he said, "falleth alike upon the just and the unjust and the quality of mercy is not strained."

"You cannot quote Bible to me!" she cried.

"It is not exactly Bible and it is misquoted, but it should serve."

He walked away, chuckling. Mrs. Pearson spent the remainder of the day telling people that Father Carroll laughed at Bella Donovan's great sin.

The feeling grew against Bella, and Mrs. Pearson did her successful utmost to keep the feeling bitter and more bitter. The result was, after a few weeks, an old-time indignation meeting. The Rev. Snifkins and the Rev. Tootles were there.

A great deal was said against Bella and her shameless homecoming, and more was said about the awful example this set for the tender younger generation.

His mother told him in a few words.

SHOWS PROOF

"Well, well," Hubert said. He hurried out, saying, in response to his mother's call to him to remain, that he would return.

He did return. Bella Donovan was with him. Hubert, himself, held the baby that Bella had brought home.

"Folks," Hubert said, "this is my son. His mother died when he was born. Bella was her chum, and she cared for the baby. Bella and I wanted to be married three or four years ago. Now we're going to be married."

"I won't believe it, you are shielding her," Mrs. Pearson shouted.

But they had to believe it, for Hubert had his proofs, his marriage certificate to the child's mother.

"Ma," he said, "you forgot one trifling thing to ask Bella, you should have asked her if she was the mother of this baby. She isn't, but she's going to be baby's stepmother."

The indignation meeting adjourned, sine die.

LISTEN JO, KINDLY DO NOT RAZZ ME AT A MOMENT WHEN I'M TRYING TO CONCENTRATE LISTEN. WHERE WAS I STANDING WHEN I SHOWED YOU THE ROLL OF BILLS BOLERO FOUND HERE?
LET ME SEE. ? YOU WERE IN THE PARLOR OR WAS IT THE DINING-ROOM? OR -?
THAT'S ENOUGH! I'VE ALREADY HAD TOO MUCH OF GUESSES LIKE THAT MY WORD. THIS IDEA OF TRYING TO CONCENTRATE WHILE TRYING TO AVOID GETTING EXCITED IS TERRIBLE STUFF. I'M -
WHAT HAPPENED, IS THE MONEY GONE? I KNEW THAT WOULD OCCUR, WHEN YOU WERE STRUTTING THROUGH THE HOUSE ASKING ME TO MAKE GUESSES AND OFFERING TO BET ON HOW MUCH WAS IN THAT ROLL OF BILLS.
I DISTINCTLY REMEMBER PUTTING IT WHERE I KNEW BURGLARS WOULDN'T FIND IT. I'VE LOOKED EVERYPLACE. LET ME THINK. ?
WELL I'M NOT ONE BIT SURPRISED. I TOLD YOU THAT MONEY WAS BAD LUCK. YES SIR!
LET ME THINK. ?... I STOOD HERE... I THINK... WITH MY HAND OUT LIKE THIS. THEN THE PHONE RANG. THEN.... LET ME THINK. ? COME, COME, OLD MAN, PULL YOURSELF TOGETHER! THIS AFFAIR IS TOO IMPORTANT TO LET YOURSELF BE PANICKED. BRACE UP!

More and more, legal authorities are becoming convinced that jury decisions are too often at odds with the evidence presented.

High Taxes

The Building Owners' and Managers' Figures Are Fresh Evidence of Kline's Extravagance.

The Pittsburgh Building Owners' and Managers' Association has just ascertained that downtown office buildings pay in taxes 55.2 cents a year for each square foot of rentable area, as against an average of 32.4 cents in 64 of the largest cities.

The Pittsburgh figures are far in excess of those for Chicago, San Francisco, Detroit, Philadelphia, Baltimore and St. Louis.

Here again, then, we have evidence of the extravagance of Mayor Kline's administration.

We had such evidence in the United States Department of Commerce figures showing that the per capita city tax paid by Pittsburghers was exceeded in only eight of the cities of the country with more than 30,000 inhabitants.

The unreasonableness of our city tax was also indicated by the National Municipal Review figures showing a higher rate here than in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Baltimore, St. Louis, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Pittsburgh taxes are inordinately high because under Mayor Kline municipal expenditures have been increased from $20,000,000 to $29,000,000 a year. A big item in the increase was the raising of wages and salaries from $9,000,000 to almost $13,000,000.

Taxes will come down if and when municipal expenditures are reduced.

The Good Name of Banks

It Is a Crime to Make False Statements About the Solvency of Financial Institutions.

Inasmuch as several banks have suspended operations lately, in order to protect their deposits, it is but natural that people should be concerned over the condition of other banks.

Care should be taken, in discussing this matter, to avoid uttering suspicions. A mere suspicion, idly expressed, may be widely circulated and before long be distorted and exaggerated until it has become a downright falsehood. Such a falsehood may do irreparable harm.

The Legislature at its last session passed a law making it a misdemeanor, punishable with a fine of up to $5,000 and imprisonment at hard labor up to five years, to make or circulate a false or derogatory statement about the solvency of a financial institution.

Moreover, neither the source of the information, nor the belief of the person charged with violation of the act in the truth of the statement or rumor, nor lack of intent to injure the institution concerning which the statement or rumor is circulated, is acceptable as a defense.

The good name of a bank is one of its most precious assets. Honorable persons will not trifle with it in idle gossip or otherwise.

Down With Them!

It Is Time That the Primary Candidates' Cards and Posters Were Removed from the Highways.

Secretary Samuel S. Lewis of the State Highway Department announces that his maintenance crews have pulled down, in a 30-day campaign, 36,907 advertising signs illegally erected on the state roads and adjoining property.

The American Civic Association reports receipt of a letter from the Gulf Refining Company in which the latter states it will discontinue its billboard advertising on highways leading into Washington, in order to help improve the appearance of the approaches to the national capital before the 1932 Washington Bicentennial celebration.

Allegheny County's aspirants for public office have shown contempt for this sentiment. The primary candidates plastered the county with their placards, signs and posters. They have marred boulevards, defaced walls and poles, and even robbed trees of their beauty.

Whatever usefulness these political signs may once have had no longer exists. They should be removed by the street and highway departments of the county and municipalities.

League Court 'Logic'

Internationalists Insist America Should Risk Dangers of Memberships Despite Bad Decision.

Ordinary prudence teaches mankind to avoid that which is bad. On this thesis, America belongs outside of the League Court. But the strange logic of our American internationalists argues otherwise.

For example, there is the Chicago Journal of Commerce, a pro-League publication. Discussing the League Court's one important decision—in the Austro-German customs union case—the Journal of Commerce finds the decision "indefensibly bad," yet insists that America should risk the manifest dangers of League Court membership. The editorial in question says:

"The chief victim of the World Court's decision in the Austro-German customs union case is the World Court. The World Court ought to exist, and the United States ought to adhere to it, in spite of its political coloring: even in spite of its bad decision in the customs union case. BUT THE BADNESS OF THE DECISION CAN HARDLY BE DENIED.

"Eight of the fifteen judges decide that an Austro-German agreement for mutual leveling of tariff barriers would violate Austria's promise in 1922 not to compromise her freedom. The same reason would suffice from preventing Austria from entering any international agreement whatever. Seven members of this majority also declare that the customs union agreement violates the provision in the Austrian peace treaty that Austria's independence shall be maintained.

"It is a BAD, INDEFENSIBLE decision. It does not immediately hurt Austria and Germany, for their financial necessities had already forced them to mollify France by renouncing the agreement. The victim of the decision is the World Court itself. THE DECISION IS POLITICAL: THE JUDGES VOTED WITH THEIR COUNTRIES, NOT ACCORDING TO THEIR INDIVIDUAL LIGHTS."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

In Every Land

In every land, in every town,
Perhaps in every street
As I go roving up and down
Lives like my own I meet.

We may at first seem far apart,
With distant goals to win;
But later, reading heart in heart,
We find ourselves akin.

One has a dream, long-cherished, dear,
One has a beckoning hope,
His hope is mine, reflected here,
And towards his dream I grope.

Ah! Beautiful it is to find
Where but a stranger stood,
A being, kin in heart and mind,
And of a kindred mood.

It must be we are fashioned so
To show us, in the end,
How in dear brotherhood we go,
With every man a friend!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Thoughts while strolling: Chevalier's flop on the radio did not hurt his movie popularity. He packs them in. Tough going for light ladies these days. Madge Evans is my newest cinema love. They say Anna May Wong has been in every country save China.

Donald Brian, a St. John's (Newfoundland) boy, who made good in the city. There's a soft job—clerking in a Lexington avenue yacht store. Rumored Babe Ruth has been at several Park avenue teas lately. Those buck-toothed boys with conversation limited to "Rawther" and "Quite."

The snootiness that "Band Wagon" appeals only to the intelligentsia is a current pain in the neck. It's mostly burlesque. Nor can I run a temperature over the Astaires. I've seen cleverer teams at the Palace. Business at the Flea Circus holds up.

Every time I pass one of those Vanderbilt mansions, I think of the first Cornelius in patched breeches collecting two-bit fares on his New York to New Brunswick ferryboat. Wonder if they've started burning dry leaves in gutter bon fires out yonder? Jerry Dahl.

Boom days must be on the way. An avenue jeweler displays pencils with gold knobs for dial phoning and a vest pocket dice cup with silver dice. The only professional sportsman with a screen appeal to me is Bobby Jones. Earl Carroll's white-haired theatrical angel — W. R. Edrington, of Fort Worth.

Whitewash always makes me think of the poorhouse back home. And daisies of an old abandoned railroad siding near the town depot. That's where I first watched them grow. Vernon Castle had the first police dog I ever saw. And Irene the first griffon.

A woman with a peg leg. Jack Howard looks like one of the dancing Slate brothers. Funny how a person's happiness is frequently annoying to other people. Ever notice? Herb Roth's athletic shoulders. Almost cold enough for an open fire and an evening with Dickens!

When Irvin Cobb was in San Francisco 15 years ago a young writer, now well known, approached him about storming the metropolitan gates. "What," he inquired, "do you think the attitude of eastern magazine editors would be toward a western writer?" She was a favorite, however, at many Hollywood parties where she expressed the hoydenish spirit that gave her the name of "Coco" in Paris.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

The man came out of the shadow of the building, just as I was getting into my car.

He was a tall, thin man, about 60 years of age . . . so thin, so drained of fire and purpose that it was as though an edge of the shadow detached itself and drifted toward me. Only his eyes seemed alive and they were not alive with any hope or happiness. They smoldered dully, like a fire almost gone. Everything else was finished in him, except that dull shame and resentment at the fact that he, a man, must beg of men, a woman.

"I wouldn't ask it, if I thought I could stand it for another night," he whispered, his face half turned away. "But I've slept out in alleys three nights now and I don't believe I can stand another—with this cold. If maybe you could let me have the price of a bed—"

He looked at me. I looked at him. Something that had been between us went down. He saw I knew. I'd felt like that, too. Known alleys . . . and cold nights—something between us went down. He needn't turn his head away — He could look at me straight. Talk to me straight. We both knew.

"There's something wrong!" he cried sharply—so sharply it was like a gun going off in that quiet, rich street. "It isn't my fault I'm like this. Do you think I want to ask anyone for money? Why should I have to ask if I'm willing to work? There's something wrong—"

There's something wrong. Remember those words. Many a hand will reach to you, out of the shadow, this winter. At first you'll be touched. Then, maybe, you'll grow tired or disgusted and say—

"I bet most of them are just loafers who wouldn't work even if you gave them a job.

"Why didn't they save when they had a chance? A man who can't save enough to live comfortably by the time he's 60, can't be worth much. He doesn't deserve help.

"If they really wanted to, they could find work. People like that have no initiative.

Perhaps you'll say that as you see them reaching out of the shadow, lining up in the bread lines, by the scores, by the hundreds, by the thousands—all those 7,000,000 unemployed. If so—DON'T! Don't say that. Take it from me, you're wrong.

I've been a tramp. I've been where they are now. I know.

I'm not a tramp now. But that's just my good luck. Whatever made me, put a knack of words in my brain and a wallop of energy in my blood. That's how I beat the game. I couldn't possibly have beaten it if I had been made as most of them are—tired and dull and discouraged from the day I was born.

FOR IT'S A CRUEL GAME.
You and I are profiting by it—
But let's not be hypocrites—
Let's not kid ourselves.
WE'RE PROFITING BECAUSE WE HAVE THE MAKINGS—BECAUSE WE'VE HAD THE BREAKS—
That's why we can beat the game.
It's a game for the strong and the smart.
BUT IT'S HELL ON THE WEAK AND THE DULL—
Don't forget it.
There IS something wrong—

You and I can't change it. But we can do this. We can admit there's something wrong. We can admit our responsibility for that wrong . . . . AND NOT TRY TO HANG ALL THE BLAME ON THE POOR FELLOW WITH THE OUTSTRETCHED HAND.

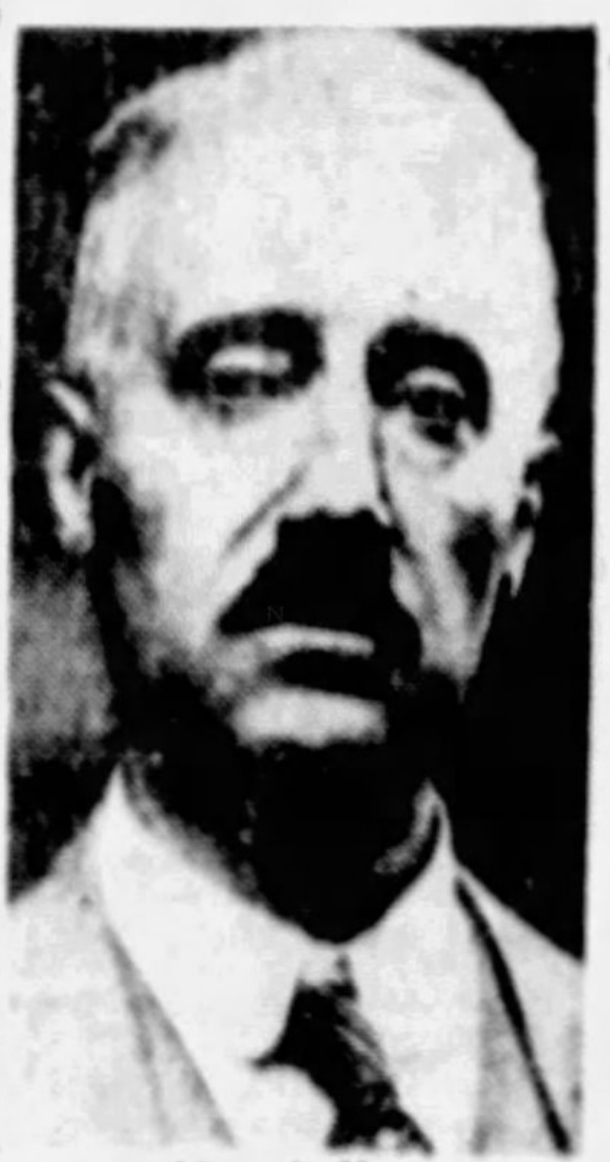
Presidential Self-Renomination

By Bainbridge Colby

A DISTINGUISHED ex-President—once upon a time—is said to have been urged by his friends to seek the nomination for the presidency.

He turned, however, from their persuasions, remarking that the incumbent, a member of his party, and an active candidate for re-nomination, could get the nomination if it were worth anything, and if it were not, no one else wanted it.



Mr. Colby

In homely terms, this incident describes a grave departure from the intention of the Constitution, whose makers could never have foreseen such a situation as has come about today.

It could never have been the purpose of the founders of our government that THE ELECTIVE PRINCIPLE, which they regarded as THE GREAT CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDY, should be smothered by an enormous patronage of the general government; and that the power of a President to accomplish his re-nomination should be deemed irresistible, and therefore conceded.

IN THE earlier years of our history, it excited general alarm when officials of the federal government began to take an active part in promoting the election of a President, and that the latter himself should mingle in such activities, was particularly abhorent.

"Electioneering for the presidency has spread its contagion to the President himself" said John Quincy Adams in his memoirs, as if the mere statement of fact carried rebuke; and he adds, "The prime leaders of the parties, instead of attending to the duties of their offices, now rave, recite and madden round the land."

We have drifted far from this austere view that the impetus for the re-nomination of a President should spring from the unprompted and uncoerced impulses of his fellow citizens, satisfied with his record and desiring his continuance in office.

THE PRESENT Postmaster General in a recent speech before a convention of the National Association of Postmasters attempted to stimulate their activity in behalf of Mr. Hoover's re-nomination in words that must make every thoughtful American bow his head in mortification.

"The indisputable fact," says the Postmaster General, "is that the laws of our land place no restrictions whatever upon presidential officers, a term which includes postmasters of the first, second and third classes. The statutes which forbid political activity on the part of governmental employes are limited to members of the classified civil service. They have no relation whatever to executive officials who are appointed by the President."

The Postmaster General, it would seem, needs to be reminded that there are some aspects of public conduct besides the purely legal. He is defending a practice which the late Carl Schurz, of immortal memory in connection with civil service reform, described as "barbarous, shameful and revolting—exposing the American name to ridicule and reproach."

IN THE light of such practices, it is small wonder that a President is assured of re-nomination. The fact that his record may have been a general disappointment; that his candidacy a second time may spell defeat for his party, and that there are other men in his party who would make a stronger and possibly a successful appeal to the country, where he makes none, have no bearing apparently upon the question of his re-nomination.

Apparently A NATIONAL PARTY IS GAGGED BY SOME PRINCIPLE OF POLITICAL ESTOPPEL from weighing the record or from even approaching the question as to who could best carry forward the party's principles and insure its continuance in power.

Once a President, always a President, at least to the expiration of a second term, seems to have become a principle of party practice with almost the force of a constitutional provision.

This is very lamentable. It deprives the people of the unfettered and patriotic service of a great national party, which, having placed a man in the presidency, seems to be powerless to replace him in the interests either of the country at large or of the party. The latter's function seems reduced to a mere ratification of the incumbent's wish to succeed himself.

OF COURSE, there have been instances in our history where a President has succeeded himself because, in the judgment of his countrymen, he has earned the honor, and it is in keeping with their wishes. Such is the case where a President, after four years of illustrious service, is re-nominated by acclamation in his party convention.

A very different situation is presented where, by timely foresight, the veiled menace of presidential displeasure and the shrewd dispensation of promises or places, delegates are gathered up and pledged to the incumbent's re-nomination months or even years in advance of the assembling of the nominating convention.

Already the leaders of the Republican party are being quoted in terms of resignation, as it were, to an inescapable fate. The re-nomination of the President is viewed as something to be accepted with stoicism. Even now some are looking forward to 1936 as if only then would the party be emancipated from this iron commitment and recover its power of action.

MICHAEL FARADAY

By Archibald Henderson

During this month British scientists are to celebrate Michael Faraday's discovery of the principle of induction, just a century ago. Many of his other achievements will be brought to public notice at the same time. It has been suggested that Faraday was perhaps the greatest experimenter that has ever lived. He carried small apparatus around in his pocket, and constantly reflected on the problems connected with them. His diary is a monumental affair, of interest equal to its length. For he not only described his experiments but also set down his thoughts, pioneering suggestions, and new ideas. It is difficult to state how many experiments he conducted; but his diary contains record of more than two thousand. His discoveries in chemistry and physics are numbered by the score.

It is very difficult for any one living nowadays to realize how little, of a practical nature, was known about electricity a century ago. Thousands of experiments were being made, but they seemed to lead nowhere. The battery would generate electricity continuously, as would also the electrical machine; but it could not be generated continuously in any other way.

Faraday was started towards his discovery, which followed years later, by the experiment made by the Danish scientist, Oersted, in 1821. Oersted showed that an electric current, passed over or under a magnetic needle would deflect it. Faraday became interested in the problem of the converse effect; might magnetism excite a current of electricity in a nearby wire?

It had been discovered that a core of iron in a live coil became magnetic, if the current flowed. Faraday made experiment after experiment, but none of them seemed to bring him any nearer. Finally he noted that if he thrust a bar magnet into a charged coil of wire he got a pulse, and also another pulse when he withdrew it. These were separate and discontinuous pulses. It flashed upon him that movement was necessary, relative motion between magnet and coil. After the principle of the kinema, one pulse if followed rapidly by another pulse, and so on, would likely create, not a set of discontinuous pulses, but a continuous current.

The electric machine of this type, built by Faraday, produced the continuous current desired. It was simple enough in construction—a disk of copper was placed between the poles of a big magnet, and brushes of metal rested, on the axle of the disk, and on the rim. In this way Faraday made the first dynamo. It was Tyndall who said: "This discovery of magneto-electricity is the greatest experimental results ever obtained by an investigator."
